Some Comment on the SA Faculty

deans a year for this purpose. But it might be of interest to students to know that many members of our faculty turn down offers of this kind every year because they prefer to stay at St. Andrews rather than accept positions elsewhere.

It is safe to say, I am sure, that our faculty next year, as has been the case for the past five or six years, will be stronger than it is this year. As we make new appointments, students will want to know about them and I will try to provide such information for the "Lance". Let me mention here two new appointments in the field of politics for next year. These men will not only bring needed strength to that area but will have large responsibility for developing the new program in the social and behavioral sciences which we are undertaking.

Dr. A. Guy Hope, Professor of Politics and Director of the core program in politics, business and economics. Dr. Hope took an LL.B. degree at the University of Virginia, an M. A. at George Washington University, and the Doctor of Social Science in the Maxwell School of Citizenship at Syracuse University. He has also done graduate study on the Far East, Japan and South Asia at Princeton University and Stanford University. For twenty years he was a foreign service officer with the State Department, serving in Europe, Africa and Far East and later in Washington as director of the Near Eastern and South Asian Regional Affairs office.

Upon his return to Syracuse University he served as acting director of the South Asia Program in 1964-65 and a member of the South Asian Studies Committee at that university for three years. In 1967 he accepted a position at Western Kentucky University as Professor of Government and director of South Asian Studies, and comes to St. Andrews from this position. In addition to a number of bulletins and reports for the State Department, Dr. Hope has published a book on "The U. S. Role in Indian Independence" and has lectured frequently in the Foreign Service Institute of the Department of State. He will, of course, make an important contribution to the South Asian program in junior C&C, as well as to our work in politics. Dr. Hope is married and has two daughters who are now attending junior college.

George L. Fouke, Assistant Professor of Politics. Mr. Fouke holds the B. A. degree from Lafayette College, the M. A. from the University of Pennsylvania, and is completing work for the Ph.D. at the University of Colorado this summer. He also holds a certificate from the Center for the Advancement of Higher Education for work done at the Univer-

Spring Fling Set April 18-19; Rock & Roll Ensemble to Play

This year Spring Fling will incorporate the best parts of past SA flings plus the added attraction of the New York Rock and Roll Ensemble.

Although new to the traditional type of entertainment at St. Andrews, the Ensemble offers more of a variety than the "soul" singers offered in the past. The New York Rock and Roll Ensemble has played in colleges all over the nation. Their repertoire ranges from turned on Bach to the Association-type sound to the Beatles.

The Ensemble was the main attraction at Midwinters at Davidson College this year. The President of Davidson's Social Council said that they were the best concert group they have had in four years.

The concert will be in the gym April 19 at 8:30.

Dance At Barn

The Student Center Board will sponsor a dance at the Barn in Maxton from 9 to 1 on April 18. "The Atlantic Pacific", the house band at Fayetteville's Pink Pussycat will provide the entertainment. Beverages and mixers will be free of charge.

The Board is trying to arrange a Bar-B-Que cook out for supper on Saturday. Hopefully, the Laurinburg City Council will waive a city ordinance and a fireworks display over the lake will follow the concert.

The Board is in the process of arranging dorm activities after the concert.

Negotiations Answer At Oregon Schools

Corvallis, Ore. (I.P.) - Student radicals aren't in control of Oregon's college campuses, and aren't likely to be, according to Russell Sadler, chairman of Oregon's Interinstitutional Student Committee on Higher Education. They won't so long as authorities here continue performing as they have, he said.

Sadler, whose group includes student government leaders from seven schools in the state system of higher education, said "most student reform efforts are, as they have usually been, in the hands of responsible moderates."

Our strategy is one of reconciliation, of negotiation, and the proposal of responsible alternate policy," he said.

Asked about the use of an obscene phrase in the Oregon Daily Emerald, Sadler, a University of Oregon graduate student, said three things could have happened to the University's student newspaper as a result of its "intemperance": An administrative reprimand, filing of a legal complaint if a law was broken, and "the sanctions of the market place.

Hart Discusses SA's Future

ing a black professor, Dr. Hart indicated that it was extremely difficult to offer a qualified Negro professor a position because of the accelerated national demand for black teachers. "Their price almost puts St. Andrews at an economic disadvantage to compete for these black professors".

The interview was ended only by another scheduled meeting. The openness and the friendliness Dr. Hart brings will be an asset to the students who will deal closely with the second man to take the position of President of St. Andrews College.

April 10 Deadline For Overseas Study

Dr. Malcolm Doubles has requested for all students interested in earning credit this summer on the Overseas Study Tour to see him before April 10. Besides the major C & C 101 and 102 courses offered, independent studies are offered in history, literature, art, religion and philosophy.

three years he has taught a course on the Foundations of Social Science in the Integrated Studies program at the University of Colorado. Both this year and last year he received an award for Excellence in Teaching at Colorado.

We were all much impressed, not only by his competence and insight but by his enthusiasm and his approach to college education when he visited St. Andrews recently.
