Arthur Gregor Reads At Farrago Tuesday

Arthur Gregor, called by one critic "a poet of intense mystical authenticity," will read his poetry at Farrago Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Gregor, a senior editor of the Macmillan Company and author of "A Bed By The Sea," spent his childhood in Vienna. His middle-European memories and his impression gained from his extensive travels, recur frequently in his work.

"A Bed By The Sea" -- with themes of "love, dreams, the individual's exposure to and engagement with surroundings and the elements" -- is characterized by "its central element" the human reality and the intangibles which nourish it.

The "Tulsa World" called Gregor's writing "as personal as a locked gaze, as universal as a first star." Hear him at Farrago on Tuesday.

IN BRIEF

Lance and Margo Morrow have been offered a contract with St. Andrews to teach on the freshman and junior C&C teams. They have not yet decided whether or not to accept the contract. A formal announcement will be made after the Easter vacation.

Once again, St. Andrews has been given the loan of a new Oldsmobile Cutlass automobile fully equipped for handicapped driver-training. Mr. Harold Babcock is the instructor and appointments are made through the Rehabilitation Office in Student Personnel Services. As time permits, able-bodied students who wish to learn to drive will also be accommodated.

The Student Personnel Services in cooperation with SAGA is attempting to set up an organic foods alternative to the regular food now being served in the cafeteria. Students knowing of companies who handle organic foods and especially those who ship to this vicinity should contact Jim Samuels or Dean Decker.

Todd Steven Davis recently won second prize in a poetry contest sponsored by "The Crucible." The magazine, a regional publication funded by Atlantic Christian College, awarded Todd one hundred dollars for his poem which will be published in the next issue of "The Crucible."

Revised Registration Gives Juniors First Priority

The sub-committee of the Educational Policy Committee on Registration Procedures recommended to the EPC today new structures for registration for fall term. Although its proposal must be approved by the EPC and the faculty, it was thought best to outline the procedures as they now stand. Any changes will be posted later.

On Monday, April 19 returning students will get a packet of registration cards in their boxes. Along with the regular white cards for fall registration, there will be a special card for students to indicate preferences for winter term courses. From Monday through Thursday students will see their faculty advisors and fill out the cards. It was recommended that faculty keep their regular office hours and not schedule meetings during the four-day period. On Friday JUNIORS ONLY will turn in their cards in room 131 from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday April 27-

Wednesday April 29 will be registration dates for all other students. Juniors will thus have first priority in registering.

An important change from past years is that students who will return next fall must register during this registration period or face a late registration fee and registration after freshman and transfers, with much less choice in the course offerings. The registration period from April 24-29 is meant to take the load off lines at the beginning of a semester.

It was also proposed that students who will have already paid their fees by next fall be excluded from most of the lines at the beginning of the semester. As well, the committee recommended that the facilities which do not come under course registration and fee payment be shifted out of formal registration procedures. This would have the effect of cutting down immensely on time spent in lines.

Charlie Byrd Concert In Southern Pines Tues.

--Guitarist Charlie Byrd who opened the '69-'70 Sandhills Music Association playing to a packed house, will wind up the Association's series this year with a concert Tuesday, April 6, at the Town and Country Cinema, on US Highway 1 South between Southern Pines and Aberdeen.

The concert is open to the public and tickets will be on sale at the box office prior to the start of the program, at 8:30 p.m.

One seldom finds a guitarist who works with equal ease in the idioms of both classical music and jazz.

Byrd learned to play guitar from his father, performing with local bands around his home area, southeast Virginia. During WW II, after a stint in the Infantry, he worked for Army Special Services in a traveling G. I. orchestra.

After the war, Byrd studied composition and music theory at Manhattan's jazz-oriented Harnett National Music School.

Byrd and his group have appeared at the Newport, Monterey, Longhorn and Virginia Beach jazz festivals. He has played 200 or more college concerts, is currently touring the US college scene with his quintet, with which he began work in 1967, adding flute and trumpet. Several of his sidemen have classical as well as jazz backgrounds. He is a compulsive experimenter and in recent years, has been studying the work of Ravi Shankar, the sitarist.
