

Poet To Read

Ann Deagon, poet and Professor of Classics at Guilford College, will be at St. Andrews College in Laurinburg on Tuesday, Sept. 16 at 7:30 p.m. for the third poetry reading in St. Andrews' autumn Writers Reading series.

A native of Birmingham, Alabama, Ms. Deagon studied at Birmingham-Southern College, and received both her M.A. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She first began writing poetry in 1970 "in some kind of forty-year old renaissance." Since then her poems have been published widely and have received about 35 prizes in various state and national contests. At present she has some 150 poems in print in 45 different magazines.

Ms. Deagon is the author of two collections of poetry, "Poetics South" and "Carbon 14," and another collection, "Indian Summer," which is scheduled to be published soon by Unicorn Press. Her poems have been referred to as "a counterpoint of serious and ironic excavations into the mythic and personal excavations into the mythic and personal past of a middle-aged woman."

Ms. Deagon's reading at St. Andrews will take place in the lounge of Granville Hall, a student dormitory.

Forthcoming readings in the autumn series at St. Andrews will feature Paul Baker Newman, Marion Cannon, James Laughlin, Ron Bayes, Sam Ragan, Carolyn Kizer, E. Waverly Land and D.C. Berry.

Trustee Dies

Wright Tisdale, a newly elected Trustee of St. Andrews and former Chairman of the Board of Visitors for the school, died last Wednesday night in his home in Birmingham, Michigan. The 61-year-old Tisdale is survived by his wife, Marian, and his son Wright, Jr., a 1965 graduate of St. Andrews.

At the time of his death, Tisdale was an active member of the New York, Massachusetts and Michigan Bar Associations. He retired last year as Vice-President and General Counsel of Ford Motor Company and returned to a private law practice in the Detroit area of Michigan. The Harvard-educated Tisdale devoted many years of his life to actively supporting education and served on various boards at Harvard Law School, Duke Law School, Peace College, and Briarcliffe Junior College before he was elected to the Board of Trustees at St. Andrews in June of 1974.

A memorial service was held early Friday at the First United Methodist Church in Birmingham, Michigan. Funeral services and interment took place Saturday morning at 11:30 in Warren-ton, North Carolina.

Budget

The $1500 Farrago request, trimmed by the Cabinet to $1000, was not acted on by the Senate because of the confusion and uncertainty surrounding who would be the coffeehouse's director this year. The Senate earmarked the Farrago funds and transferred them to the Senate account.

moving out of one problem and into another, the Senate encountered a hornet's nest of opposition to the Cabinet's decision to reduce the cheerleaders' $672 request to $100. Thirty minutes of disorderly debate followed, with the general consensus of the group being that cheerleading, having recently been made a P.E. course, should be the funding responsibility of the Physical Education Department. The matter was resolved by approving a matching grant of up to $200, the exact amount to be contingent upon the amount athletic director Julian Smith is willing to contribute.

Approval of the various publications' budgets moved smoothly through the first few items--The Cairn ($1500), the Bunn Memorial Chapbooks ($450), and the Lamp and Shield ($6000). Yearbook editor Susan Mann told the assembly she could "get by" on the reduced amount, but that it "will be cutting it close."

A heated debate then arose, though, over the $3200 recommendation for THE LANCE. Editor Lin Thompson, also a senator from Granville, defended the amount, saying it would provide funds for more eight page issues, issues during Winter Term, and a cushion against the possibility of lower-than-expected advertising revenues.

Mecklenburg's Steve Chasson, calling THE LANCE's increase well above the ten to twenty per cent cost increase projected by Thompson for the coming year, moved that $600 be stricken from the appropriation and granted to the yearbook. A voice vote being indecisive, a show of hands was called for, revealing seven ayes and seven nays. Presiding Officer Elkins then cast the tiebreaker in favor of the full $3200 allowance.

Bob Tauber's Curveship Press got its full request of $450 as the last item on the agenda and the Senate adjourned after attending to some lesser items of business.

Librarian Named

Among the staff changes at St. Andrews this summer was the appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes as Librarian of the College. Mrs. Holmes succeeds Richard Lietze, who resigned to become Assistant Dean and an associate professor at the graduate school of library science at the University of Denver in Colorado.

A Florida State graduate with B.A. and M.A. degrees in library science, Mrs. Holmes' previous experience comes from work at such diverse libraries as those of Mexico City College, the University of Alabama and the University of Texas. She joined the SA faculty in 1966 as Acquisitions and Technical Services Librarian, was tenured in 1968 and appointed as associate professor in 1971. A year later she was named associate librarian.

"In addition to her official duties Mrs. Holmes has made substantial contributions to college governance and curriculum development," said Dean Victor Arnold in announcing the appointment this summer, "as a member of several important faculty committees, including the Educational Policy Committee, the Faculty Executive Committee, and the St. Andrews Studies Skill Committee." For the past year and a half she has also served as an advisor to the college for governmental Affirmative Action employment programs.

At The Movies

"Klute", Directed by Alan Paluka and starring Jane Fonda and Donald Sutherland, Klute shows how culture shock sets in when the provincial detective (Sutherland) protects a cynical prostitute (Fonda) against a perversely psychopathic killer. Sort of like freshman C&C (R.I.P.)
