Serendipity

"Everything we sell is natural and organic, Mrs. Chay declared." None of it has been processed or treated sprayed with insecticides or helped in growing by artificial fertilizers."

Among the items Mrs. Chay's store carries are ("excellent for wines digestion"), a full range of herbs and spices, nuts and seeds, cheeses from all over the world (if you buy Guda cheese for example, you can be sure it's Dutch Guda and not American), many different kinds of sausages, dried fruits, gourmet items, natural vitamin food supplements, and books on preparing natural foods.

Interestingly enough, Mrs. Chay's shop offers customers free samples of the various cheeses available there. It's a good way to get acquainted with unfamiliar kinds of cheese, she notes, without having to buy a large quantity of it. Another interesting aspect of "Serendipity" is the bottle recycling effort employed in the sale of herbs and spices; they are sold by the ounce rather than by the jar. This allows customers to refill their empty jars instead of having to throw them away to make way for new ones, as well as purchases of small amounts. "Why have to buy ten ounces when you only want one?" she asked rhetorically.

Summing up her description of her store's wares, Mrs. Chay says, "We have a great many things that should interest both people in town and students at St. Andrews, and we hope to be seeing them soon."

Horse Group Grows

St. Andrews College is fortunate that it has a horseback riding club. The riding club is expanding its facilities as well as opportunity for more student involvement. For the past two years, the riding club has been working on development of a pasture behind Granville Hall. After much hard work and an abortive attempt last spring to halt the project, it was finally completed two weeks ago with the final addition and completion of an electric fence. This means that all horses available for riding are now situated closer to the students, either is the pasture itself or in the stables near by.

Horseback riding is a sport that is enjoyed by many. Unfortunately, many of people have never had the opportunity to even get close to a horse, let alone ride one. With the improved facilities, the club is offering and providing the necessities for riding lessons. Two dub members who have taught PE courses in horsemanship last spring are now offering Huntseat riding lessons for five dollars an hour. This fee is used by the club for the upkeep of the horses and the surrounding facilities. Pleasure riding is also available for competent riders and club members at two dollars an hour for club members and three dollars and hour for non-members. However every rider must pick up a permission slip before attempting to mount.

Riding can be fun (once you get over the fear of horses) and the opportunity is here. There are numerous trails and paths surrouncing the campus for riders to explore and enjoy. With academic pressures pressing upon everyone, its nice to know there's an opportunity to escape from the everyday routine and enjoy the freedom of horseback riding. Currently the club has 30 members. Anyone interested in joining the riding club or interested in learning how to ride should Contact Caroline McNair or Beverly Beck.

Women's Intramurals

Albemarle Dorm has won its fifth consecutive volleyball tournament. A surprising Orange Squad defeated Concord, eking out a second place finish, but it was Albemarle who walked away with the most points. With the completion of volleyball and racketball, ping pong competition will begin next week.

Returning Champ Corlis Reynolds defends her pingpong title while last year's runnerup in the racketball tournament, Mo Newton, is the top seed. Following pingpong and Racketball tournies, co-ed volleyball will be begun. Anyone interested in forming a team should prepare with the notion in mind that there must be three men and three women on a team.

Intramurals

This Saturday at 2 o'clock, there will be a men's intramural football tournament on the practice soccer field. The action pits Mecklenburg Dorm, the regular season champion, against Orange-Off Campus and Granville, Alias "New Meck," against Winston-Salem. Intramurals chief Cliff Summers has scheduled the tournament on Saturday so that varsity conflicts will not interfere with participation. In other news, "Kwame Danguah won the Ping-Pong tournament as a representative of New Meck decisvely defeating his opponents. Billiards also gets into full swing on the intramural level this coming week. Make sure to sign up on the sheets posted in the dorms.

Now settled in a new headquarters at Raleigh, the North Carolina orchestra is currently on its 31st annual tour. This is the orchestra's 44th season.

During its 36-week season the symphony orchestra will perform more than 225 concerts. Most will be in North Carolina, but some are scheduled in South Carolina and Virginia.

Scotland county and surrounding counties. The sight of armed law enforcement officers at principal crossings became a common one on Friday and Saturday.

Alerts were issued for Jones, who was said to be driving a reddish orange Opel, stationwagon. The search had been on since Thursday following Fearing's death, but the five-state alarm did not take effect until Friday, the same time he was declared on outlaw by a New Hanover judge.

L'aurinburg soon became headquarters for the statewide search, and highway patrolmen from neighboring districts were brought in on the case. The State Highway Patrol's mobile radio and investigation unit was moved into Laurinburg and stationed near the county jail entrance. This is where officers from the several cooperating agencies converged for their top-level planning sessions and where the radio messages emanated. school auditorium. To begin at 8:15, the concert is sponsored by the Scotland chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society for its members.

In announcing details of the concert, Jim Medlin, the local society's campaign chairman, advised that a mailing delay has held up the membership cards of many members. He explained that members who have not received these cards will encounter no difficulty gaining admission to the concert tomorrow night.

A master list of all members of the Scotland chapter will be available at the school auditorium, and those without cards need only report their names to the local concert official at that time.

Medlin further reported that the Scotland chapter remains $200 short of its $5,000 membership campaign goal for 1975-76. This must be paid in order to get the chapter out of debt.

The orchestra will perform an admission-free concert for school children Friday morthe younger audience.

Conducted by John Gosling, the orchestra will perform the Brahms Academic Festival Overture and the Beethoven Symphony no. 7.

Eugen Sarbu, an internationally known violinist from Romania, will be featured guest soloist in the Sibelius Concerto for Violin and Orchestra.

First performed in 1881, the Brahms overture was composed as a gesture of gratitude after the University of Breslau, Germany, conferred the Doctor of Philosophy degree upon the composer.

The violin concerto is the only full-length concerto composed by Sibelius, who wrote it in 1903 and revised it in 1905.

Beethoven's Seventh contains the famed "Allegretto," probably one of the most familiar movements in all the Beethoven symphonies.

Gosling is in his fourth season as artistic director and conductor of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra. The maestro has duct performances with two of Norway's famous orchestras, the Bergen Festival Orchestra and the Stavanger Byorkester.
