

Golfers Hopeful

The 1976 Knight Linkers are looking forward to a more promising season than that of last year. With only one returning letterman, Bob Pelon, the team will be comprised of "new talent". Newcomers consist of Mark Weitendorf, Jim Musante, Jim Chapin and Ben Horsfall, all of whom are freshmen. Also trying out for the team are sophomore Lin Thompson and Junior David Kiblock.

For the first time in four years, the golf team will have at least five members that will consistently break 80. Hopefully scores will not stretch beyond the 90's for in the past, one bad score has cost the Knights dearly. Having a starting five shooting consistently low scores will put the Knights in good contention for the conferences' first division.

The Knight's first match takes place March 5th at the Scotch Meadows Country Club. The "drivers" tee off at one o'clock, under the direction of coach Bill Morgan.

A contest for students crazy enough to want this car.

"Saturday Night"

One of the most consistently entertaining parts of the show is "Weekend Update" a rude parody of the six o'clock news in which Chase opens with the greeting, "Good evening. I'm Chevy Chase and you're not."

Long running gags include such things as "The just in from Madrid-doctors report that Generalissimo Francisco Franco is still seriously dead." Recent shows have featured coverage of the Patty Hearst trial with "Artist's Renderings" ranging from a child's scrawlings to famous works of art.

With a consistent audience running over seven million, "Saturday Night" has been so successful that it is under pressure to move to a prime time slot, a move the cast resolutely resists. Don't watch it this Saturday though, because one week of every month it is replaced by a magazine format show called "Weekend." Keep an eye out for it as future hosts include White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, and that should be something to see.

Men's Tennis

The mens' tennis team kicked off the season with a strong showing against Sandhills Community College last Wednesday with a "scrimmage" here at S.A.

The match was not part of regular season play, but was intended to give the players a chance to pit their skills against 'foreign opposition', and expose some of the freshmen to college level competition before the first conference match. Apparently they were ready, as freshmen Steve Lowery, Rory Daniels, and Faison Hester all walked off the courts with that unmistakable smirk of victory on their faces. Sophomore Earl Fox battled out a grueling two hour singles and Stuart Dansby dealt well with a psychological disadvantage to contribute to the Knights' "win". Returning lettermen Tom Ager, Kim Johnson, and Scott Poole turned on the guns to put the skids under Sandhills.

Tonight S. A. travels to Campbell College for the Campbell Tournament on Fri.-Sat. Ager, Johnson, Hester, Daniels, Dansby, Poole, .. Lowery expect to find competition tough on all levels, with several of the big 'name brand' schools participating-but things are looking bright for S.A. tennis.

First regular season match is here, Tuesday at 2:30, against Methodist College.
