Course by Newspaper To Begin Today

THE LANCE will begin weekly publication of Courses by Newspaper's fall series on America's often criticized criminal justice system, beginning today it was announced today by editor Michael Greene.

Entitled "Crime and Justice in America," the 15-week series looks behind statistics to explore the causes and possible solutions to the pervasive crime and imperfect justice of modern times.

Coordinator of the series is Professor Jerome H. Skolnick, Chairman of the Center for the Study of Law and Society, University of California, Berkeley.

Topics discussed by the 14 noted authorities—including a federal judge and an ex-felon—who authored the course articles include the nature of crime; white collar, organized and street crime; criminal law; the administration of criminal justice; and punishment.

Among the authors are: Gilbert Geis, Professor of Social Ecology, University of California, Irvine; Francis Ianni, Professor and Director, Horace Mann-Lincoln Institute, Teachers College, Columbia University; James f. Short, Jr.,

Professor of Sociology, Washington State University; Lois DeFleur Nelson, Professor of Sociology, Washington State University, and Visiting Professor, U.S. Air Force Academy;

Alphonso Pinkney, Professor of Sociology, Hunter College, City University of New York;

Gertrude Ezorsky, Professor of Philosophy, Brooklyn College, City University of New York;

Other authors include:

John Kaplan, the Jackson Eli Reynolds Professor of Law, Stanford University;

Judge Damon J. Keith, Federal District Court, Eastern Division of Michigan;

Caleb Foote, Professor of Law, Stanford University;

Alan Dershowitz, Professor of Law, Harvard University;

David Rothman, Professor of History, Columbia University;

John Irwin, Associate Professor of Sociology, San Francisco State University, and ex-inmate; and Sheldon Messinger, Professor and former Dean, School of Criminology, University of California, Berkeley.

Committee Meets

In their first meeting of the year, the Student Live Committee last night approved the budget as received from the Senate. However, for clubs and organizations which have been granted money under that budget, a current charter must be on file in the Student Life Services office before that money will be released.

In other action, committee chairman Dr. Loftus explained that the money left

Programming To Begin Monday

WSAP Plans Series On Energy Crisis

TO kick off its new programming year, WSAP is presenting a major radio study of the most pressing matter faced by the world today: what to do about energy.

"Issues in Energy" takes a month-long look at the energy question in its many facets with programs from the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research and programming produced by the station staff themselves.

"Without a doubt," said WSAP Program Director Lin Thompson in an interview with THE LANCE, "this is the most thorough look at an issue we've ever conducted. It's comprehensive but isn't boring, and divided up into manageable segments scattered through the month, with a summing up of what we've seen during the series at the end."

Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night through October, Thompson said, will feature one of the Public Policy Forums of the American Enterprise Institute, a nonpartisan research institute concerned with the study of questions of public policy. While the Forums, radio sparring grounds for prominent public figures over a given issue, are a regular part of WSAP's programming this year, a number of their programs dealing with energy matters have been drawn together for presentation as part of the Issues in Energy series. Featuring such noted energy issue people as Ralph Nader, Senator Henry Jackson, Vice President Walter Mondale, Captain J.Y. Cousteau, James Schlesinger, the programs are being set for the 7 to 8 p.m. hour on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 7, WSAP will run fifteen minute programs produced by the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration on various aspects of the search for alternative sources of energy.

"We see this series as a complement to the ongoing debate over President Carter's energy plan," Thompson continued. "Most of the issues it raises are covered in our programs a pleasant coincidence that should enable our listeners to come to well informed conclusions about energy options for the United States and the world."

Carnival Planned

A carnival is being planned for Muscular Dystrophy by the College Christian Council, The Health Science Club, The National Paraphlegic Foundation and the Black Student Union. If you are interested in participating in any way please contact Yana Banks, Joey Sherr, Teresa Staley or Ronald McDonald at Box 943. All Contributions Welcome!

Off Campus Winter Term Registration Begins

Registration for off-campus Winter Term courses will be held October 4 in the Office of the Registrar (LA 133) from 9 a.m.-12 noon and from 1 p.m.-5 p.m. Registration for off-campus courses must be completed by 5 p.m.

The decision to continue or cancel the courses, however, will be based upon the number of registered students who have completed the registration process by the 5 p.m. deadline.

Deposits will be collected to cover part of the course expenses. Size of the deposit varies from course to course.

On-campus Winter Term registration will be held on October 27 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the West Hall of the LA Building.
