

Editorship Expires

Steve Kunkel
Editor

This is my last issue as Editor of the LANCE.

I have an apology for the people of this campus. I am deeply sorry that a LANCE did not come out April 5 and 12. I take all the blame here, but the core of the problem is the main reason I have resigned the Editorship.

There isn't enough time in the week for an Editor to publish every week and take care of their classes. I don't know an Editor who didn't burn out in one semester. It's just an impossible grind.

There are 2 solutions to this problem. The first is to have a new Editor every semester. This is unacceptable as it takes an Editor most of the semester to achieve momentum. The second solution is to allow the Editor some renumeration for their task.

Such renumeration could be in the form of a class credit, given on a Pass/Fail basis by the Professor of the Editor's choice. Most Editors have to drop a course to survive, or the GPA takes a nose dive. Even so, the grades tend to take a downward slump.

This problem with the Editorship is also inherent with the Student Association Presidency, Vice-Presidency, CCC Presidency, CUB Presidency, and the LAMP & SHIELD. The same type of renumeration could be offered to the students in those offices. I think it would account for a better system of student government and a better newspaper.

Vivian Bikulege and her Cabinet had this item on their agenda. It was put on the back burner and rightfully so, because it affected few people while the campus unrest concerned everyone. Now the next wave of student leaders should deal with this problem and my proposed solution.

I look to the new President to strive for some acceptable type of renumeration. I also look forward to seeing Vice-President-Elect David Winslow and his newly elected Senate investigate this concern.

As my Editorship expires with this issue, I'm taking this opportunity to press some thoughts and some ideas for SA now and in the fall:

1. The people who fish next to the patio when I'm eating dinner upset me. I like the patio; it makes eating much more enjoyable. What I do not like is my sense of privacy disturbed and lake water being splashed about near my table. Where is security?

2. Farrago needs to be re-built. We all know that Farrago can easily become packed with people and the acoustics are not the best. Admissions say that there are going to be 200 more people next year; that'll really compound the problem! This needs to be a top priority.

3. Suite phones are a necessity. This past year the Senate tried very hard to get suite phones installed, but received negative reaction from across the lake. I know student opinion is for suite phones, but something must be done in the coming year to jolt the Administration into action.

Symposium Calls For Leadership

Laurinburg, N. C. - "St. Andrews Presbyterian College, by conscious design and deliberate action, should be to the life and mission of the Presbyterian Church in North Carolina, what North Carolina State University is to the agricultural life and practice in the state," Dr. John B. Evans of Decatur, Ga. told more than a hundred persons attending a symposium on church related higher education Wednesday, April 11.

The symposium came about as the major concluding event of a yearlong search for the relationship between St. Andrews and the church, begun last fall when Dr. Douglas Hix opened the question at the fall convocation of the college. Dr. Hix, a former faculty member, is pastor of the Laurinburg Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Evans proposed that the college undertake a four-year exploration of its relationship to the Presbyterians of North Carolina (numbering 166,000 people in 655 churches), and outlined some of the church's expectations of St. Andrews:

1) That St. Andrews be, in fact, a pace setter in liberal arts education, that it be innovative and show considerable initiative;

2) That St. Andrews embody in all aspects of its life serious commitment to the Christian faith;

3) That St. Andrews devote its major energies and resources to enabling students to become literate human beings, equipped to assist in fashioning a more just and humane society, and

4) That St. Andrews be an intellectual resource for the life and mission of the church.

Then Dr. Evans, who is a native of Laurinburg and who has held several high offices within the Presbyterian Church, US, became more specific in what he thought St. Andrews ought to do:

1) That the expertise of particular members of the community be identified to the Synod of North Carolina and to Presbyterians, so that they may be used for policy development and mission

Now that you've read our last column, you're probably wondering what this is all about. Perhaps another plot to limit your consumption of that wicked brew? Indeed not. Last September, members of the Student Life Office got together to discuss the use of alcohol at St. Andrews. We wanted to determine to what extent the students here were knowledgeable about alcohol, its use and abuse. So, Dean Clayton distributed a survey thru SAS classes and mailboxes. What happens here are answers - we felt you might like to know not only the results of the survey, but the answers to the questions. It's your right as an individual to be provided with the facts - so here they are:

SURVEY QUESTION NO. 7: A blood alcohol concentration of 0.1 is the legal definition of alcohol intoxication in most states in regards to driving.

True: 164 False: 47. Don't Know: 106

Answer: Many people do not understand blood alcohol content. Basically, it is the amount of alcohol in a person's blood stream. 0.10 is the blood alcohol level used in North Carolina to determine whether a person is under the influence.

SURVEY QUESTION NO. 8:

Approximately 10% of fatal highway accidents are alcohol related.

True: 90 False: 104 Don't Know: 110

Answer: Driving while drinking has become a very serious problem. Alcohol is a factor in at least 50% of all highway fatalities. Most experts feel it is the social drinker who is abusing alcohol related accidents. Often times, it is felt that the driver may not have clearly understood his or her limits. To help with this, or if you are uncertain of your limit, please refer to the following chart. Though only a rough guide, it should provide a close answer.

Cultural Activities

Lacking Student Interest

Mary Scott King

With the arrival of the spring season, everyone here on campus automatically begins to think and talk of the social events that have become a part of the St. Andrews tradition - Extravaganza, Baccanalia, the Launching, etc. It seems, however, that most of us overlook a few of the most cultural events, specifically referring to the music recitals sponsored by the college music department.

These recitals offer the music major an opportunity to share with our community just what they believe in and care about. While exhibiting their talent and sharing their personal interests to the public, they are also proving to themselves their dedication by setting a goal and working towards it. For many, it is a sample of four years of hard work; for all, it is a personal expression which reflects many hours of lessons, practice, and work.

More individuals here at St. Andrews should take advantage of at least a few of the cultural opportunities available. This would be a good way to express respect for the person who spends so much of themselves in preparation, as well as a way to learn about an aspect of the St. Andrews community that many students take for granted.

Two excellent opportunities are scheduled for this weekend: Friday, April 20, a senior recital by Nancy Hinkle (voice) at 8:00 in Vardell, accompanied by Richard Whitley, pianist. Sunday, April 22, a recital by Bill Mottershead (voice) at 3:00 p.m. at Trinity Presbyterian Church on Blue's Farm Road.

Equipment Needed

Break a leg lately? Or maybe you've got a sore back or possibly a sprained ankle? When these calamities fall upon you, rest assured that the Health and Rehabilitation Center can save the day with that suddenly much-needed equipment that will ease your days of misery.

But when the pain is gone and you're once again tanning on the Granville Beach, take a minute to return that no longer needed and now forgotten equipment. Such items as crutches, ice packs, heating pads, etc., have not been returned by those students and staff members once so badly in need of them.

It's nice to know that when your knee goes out of whack there's help to be had at the Health Center. So, on your way to tan on the Beach, or drift in a canoe, return the things you borrowed. We'll all be glad you did.
