Senate Notes

By Holly Beatty

At the Senate meeting on October 20, the first order of business was a concern expressed about the amount of absences each Senator is allowed. Due to the fact that Craig Breyon, president of the Senate is required to attend basketball practices he may be missing numerous Senate meetings. Brook Gustafson questioned as to whether or not Craig could "work overtime to make up for missed practice." Craig replied that he would look into the Senate.

A discussion as to whether "decision" was to allow the campus students to see an attendance sheet for each meeting. After three unexcused absences a person will be discussed as to impeachment or resignation. Bill members ridiculed the idea Faulkner volunteered to write the statement and Martin that the Senators are report by next meeting. "representatives of others".

A bill was approved allocating student associ- ed until later date.

tion funds to clubs and organizations. The bill reads as follows: "...the Budget committee in cooperation with the SGA designed a 60%-40% allocation. With each club receiving 60% for the fall/winter, and 40% in the spring."

Dr. Norman Boggs was elected as the student faculty advisor. Also, a new position was opened to a member of Senate meetings. Brook Gustafson questioned as to whether or not Craig could be elected as Secretary to the Senate."

Kelvin Wright was elected as to the Senate. A discussion as to whether or not an ROTC Program would be welcomed at St. Andrew's caused a question as to whether the Senators are actually representatives of the students. Many

Trustee Meeting

By Maureen Ingalls

The trustees of St. Andrews met for their semi-annual meeting at the college several weeks ago. The program, held on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 23 and 24 provided the members of the board a progress report of the various facilities and programs on the campus.

Arriving on the afternoon of October 23, the group began the conference with dinner in the college cafeteria. Featured activities on Wednesday included a morning tour of the Administrative basement of Morgan-Jones, the new Ethel Fortner Press Room and the recently expanded Computer Center. Lunch in the President's Dining Room was followed by afternoon sub-committee meetings which were composed of representatives from the Board of Trustees, the student body, the faculty, and the administration. Each of the four sub-committees presented to its trustee members a report composed by college administrator relating the current status of affairs in each of the designated areas of concern.

The day ended with a dinner honoring the opening and dedication of the recently refurbished Hagan Choral Room in the Vardell building.

In celebration of the event, the chorale performed a repertoire of musical pieces for the invited guests of the college.

Constitution Examined

The Student-Faculty Appellate Court has made the following interpretations of the Student Association Constitution:

1) In Article V, Section 3, paragraph c, the word "counsel" has been interpreted to include only members of the Saint Andrews community, e.g. teachers, students, and administrators.

2) In Article V, Section 9, paragraph a, the sentence "The Honor Court is a student-faculty judicial body of the Student Association which shall hear cases involving academic and social violations of the Honor Code," has been interpreted to mean: "The Honor Court is a student-faculty judicial body of the Student Association which shall hear all cases involving academic and social violations of the Honor Code. The net effect of this change is that the Dean of Students will not hear any cases involving Honor Code violations. All Honor Code violations will be heard by the Honor Court.
