

CCU Learns Achievement Possible Through Union

The College Christian Union (CCU) sponsors ideas and activities which promote fellowship, education and enlightenment, service, and worship. Everyone in the St. Andrews community has a place in the CCU. Our ideas and activities in this union will have an impact in the communities of St. Andrews, Laurinburg and Scotland County, the United States, and the world.

What kind of impact is possible when we are in union? Last year the CCU sponsored two bloodmobiles with the Red Cross, and one of our members taught CPR classes. Unfortunate and needy children of the area were treated to a Christmas party in December and an Easter Egg Hunt and party in April. CCU organizes the CROP WALK. St. Andrews raised $300 in the walk last year.

Caucus for the Able Disabled

There's a new club in town and SACOD is its name. The St. Andrews Caucus On Disabilities is seeking your support. SACOD addresses the concerns of the able disabled on campus. Anyone interested in those who may have a disability, those who have a disability, or those who are interested in issues concerning the disabled, are welcomed.

The caucus actively voices concerns in informal atmospheres with emphasis on building support groups. The caucus will also deal with post-graduate opportunities for the disabled, making available information on political issues (like legislation concerning disabled rights), and increasing their knowledge of important issues that will affect them now or in the future. Independent decision-making seminars, group think sessions and workshops are just a few things being planned.

Come help yourself and a friend by being a friend and watch friends make a difference. The St. Andrews Caucus on Disabilities. Working to make the able disabled more able.

BSU

The Black Student Union has been noted in the past years as one of the most active clubs on campus, both socially and in the community. This year plans to be no exception. The club plans to concentrate on promoting unity between the entire St. Andrews community. And to help with the interaction of students, many activities have been planned for the school year. As each activity draws near it will be publicized, and we encourage the participation of all the students and club members. If you are interested in joining BSU or helping with any of the activities, feel free to contact our President Tashima Hawkins or Vice-President Stephanie Baines at ext. 487. Membership is open to all students who would like to contribute their enthusiasm, interests, and efforts to the Union.

helped to maintain the Laurinburg area food pantry. Two symposiums educated us about the crisis in South Africa and about the humanity of homosexuals. Not only were we educated, but we were enlightened as to what we could do to improve other people's unfortunate situations.

Our last project of the year was a spring "MDA Day," when a dunking booth complete with faculty and student government members was the main attraction. The handicapped members of St. Andrews also showed us their stuff when they sponsored a "wheelchair basketball game" on the same day.

How can the College Christian Union do so much? Besides being in union, we are also in committees. The Community Outreach Committee sponsors and plans activities which promote community throughout our area. These activities include: bloodmobiles, Easter, Christmas and Halloween parties, the CROP WALK, and MDA Day. The Prophetic-Political Committee is responsible for educating and enlightening us. They sponsor workshops on issues like homosexuality, South Africa, conservation, rape, famine relief, and handicapped people. The Worship Committee provides opportunities for worship, such as Christian music on WSAP, small group scripture readings, and personal evangelism. The Fellowship Committee provides fellowship and fun in a constructive setting. Ideas for the year include a banana split party, a square dance, and a games night.

The CCU also has two satellite groups, the Gospel Choir and Bread for the World. The Gospel Choir, with their unique style, sings at various area churches. Bread for the World helps to feed hungry and poor people wherever they are found.

The College Christian Union is open to any ideas anyone in our community may have. Already people have shared some ideas and are planning. These ideas include an Oxfam Fast, Literacy Workshops, nursing home visits, and relief to families in situations of disaster.

The officers of the 1986-87 CCU are: Rochele Bailey, president; Michelle Taylor, secretary; and Bill Caudill, treasurer. Committee chairs are: Charlene Carpenter and Connie Cope, Community Outreach; Mary Lee Rice, Prophetic-Political; Nick Stevens, Worship; and Howard Hall, Fellowship. In the two satellite organizations, the contact people are: Addie Alford, Gospel Choir; and Paul Chappell, Bread for the World.

NCSL

The North Carolina Student Legislature (NCSL) is a fifty year old organization which enables college students from all over the state to take part in a legislative body. Students from over thirty different schools write bills and develop resolutions which are debated and voted on once each month at statewide meetings. These meetings are held at various schools, so we will travel to the college or university and stay for the weekend. In September we went to UNC Chapel Hill and in October we will go to NC State in Raleigh. Not only are bills and resolutions discussed, but on Friday and Saturday nights all members are free to explore the city and campus life of the host school.

Everyone is welcome to join. Anyone who is interested in the issues today will have a good time, and the chance to enjoy a weekend at a different school. Look for announcements of meetings in your mailbox and on posters. We will hold an organizational meeting in October, so come and listen to what NCSL is all about.

Al Ripley is the delegation chairperson.

The Model United Nations Club

The Model United Nations Club on campus is a group open to all students. The club focuses on international awareness.

Every year eight to ten of the M.U.N. members are selected to go to New York for a week in the spring to participate in a national level simulation of the United Nations. Every college involved in this simulation is given a country of their choice to represent. In preparation, the St. Andrews delegation researches the country they are to represent, the issues that the U.N. will address, and parliamentary procedures.

On campus, the M.U.N. club sponsors debates and forums relating to international issues, and plans to take advantage of all the interesting international figures that visit St. Andrews every year.

Club Advocates Arms Control

Peace on Earth. This is the St. Andrews club affiliated with national "United Campuses to Prevent Nuclear War," UCAM. A world without nuclear weapons is the club's ultimate goal. In the meantime, we work to keep the issue of nuclear disarmament in the forefront of the St. Andrews consciousness. We sponsor educational seminars, guide students in nuclear issues research, and advocate sensible arms control positions.

Last spring, the club's efforts focused on the April 17 "University Lobby to End the Arms Race." Sixteen St. Andrews students joined nearly one thousand students from across the country in Washington, D.C. for a march, rally, and meetings with Congresspeople. Carrying a banner and chanting slogans, we marched down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol. With a picture of the beautiful Lake Ansley Moore sunset, flowers and peace signs, and the slogan "Strength Through Peace," the St. Andrews banner was the most colorful of the march. On Capitol Hill, they encouraged representatives and Senators to vote for a comprehensive test ban (the House did this summer), and to turn down funding for first-strike missiles like the MX and for the offensive Strategic Defense Initiative, or Star Wars.

The group will return to Washington next spring to uphold St. Andrews' activist reputation. All are welcome. For more information, contact Angela Baker, ext. 433.

Christian Fellowship

Lifeline Christian Fellowship is a group of students interested in discovering more about God, Jesus, and their own beliefs. Everyone of all races and religions is welcome. During the week there will be five small group meetings. At these, passages from the Bible are discussed and prayer requests and praises are made. Every other Thursday night everyone gets together for a large group meeting. Twice each year the group goes on a retreat, usually to the beach. The main purpose of these meetings is fellowship, through which the members gain a deeper understanding of what Christianity means to them.

Riding Council

The Riding Council is a group of selected advanced riders who have met high standards within the riding program. As a school organization we are here to help students become better acquainted with the riding program in all of its aspects. We lend our spirit and leadership to the student body in order to make the riding program an integral part of the community. As a group of educated riders we work towards assisting non-riders and novice riders in learning about and enjoying the world of horses. Our goal is to promote greater interest in the program through trail rides, fun shows, intramural and other organized activities.
