Scratch & The Good Doctor Sell Out 5 Of 8 Performances

By Julie Norem

It was midnight on Halloween and a captive audience waited the entrance of Scratch, the Devil, portrayed by the talented Miss Amy Sarno. When the lights dimmed, Lissa Newton appeared, singing and playing the guitar, setting the stage for Scratch. Thus was opening night.

Scratch is the play adaptation by Archibald MacLeish of the story The Devil and Daniel Webster. In the play, Jabez Stone has sold his soul to the Devil, and when Scratch comes to collect Stone's soul Daniel Webster defends Stone before a jury of "Americans", corpses brought back to life. The jury, with our own Dr. Bennett playing the part of the judge, swayed by Webster's argument of defense, gives Stone back his soul.

D. Kenneth (D.K.) Beyer, director of Scratch, said he was "very proud of the student's dedication and diligence." Dr. Catherine Neylans, professor of Languages, said that the play was good and that the best part was the casting of Scratch. She said the role was extremely well done, especially Miss Sarno's movements across the stage.

Scratch and The Good Doctor were both well received with 5 out of 8 performances sold out. During 2 shows people had to be turned away. D.K. Beyer, new to the St. Andrews community this year believes that the dying theater program has been "revitalized" and says that "Theater is back!"

Coming in April are Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead by Tom Steppard and Stage Struck by Simon Gray. The spring theatrical season promises to be just as outstanding!
