

Sports Coots Excel In Tourney Action

By Meg Anderson

Despite ten hour van trips and mounds of homework, the Lady Knights volleyball team managed to end their tournament weekend victoriously.

Starting for the "Coots" are: senior Diana Jones, setter; sophomore Kristin Mosher, setter; senior Margaret Fuller, hitter; junior Kristi Kluegel, hitter; senior Lori Stroud, hitter; sophomore Lorna Biagoli; the immediate backups being freshmen Donilee Alexander and Tina Cheek as setters and senior Judy Baxter and sophomore Lisa Stafford as hitters.

The team began the weekend with a first-time-ever victory over Western Maryland, individual game scores being 15-9 and 15-12. Because the match was a part of a tournament, the usual 3 of 5 to win was changed to 2 of 3 to win in the interest of time, which is why the women were able to defeat Western Maryland in only two games. Team standouts for this match were Kristi Kluegel who made 26 attempts with only one error, eleven of which were kills, (a kill occurs when the ball is hit and not returned) and her average was a .385, closely followed by Margaret Fuller's .308. As a whole, the team had 26 digs, which is what occurs when the team returns a spiked ball.

The next game was against Catholic University in which the Lady Knights again wrapped up a victory in only two games, 15-11 and 15-5. Again, the team standouts were Kristi Kluegel, who had 6 kills out of 6 attempts, which is like batting 1000, and Margaret Fuller, who hit 5 out of 6 giving her a .667.

Saturday was a hard day for the team. St. Andrews dropped the day's first match 2-1 against Dickenson College, winning the first game 16-14, but losing the next two 9-15 and 5-15. Senior hitter Lori Stroud was the shining star in this match with a final average of .389.

The next match was against Allegheny College, St. Andrews losing 2-1 with individual game scores 7-15, 15-13, and 0-15. The statistic sheets do not show an individual team standout and, as freshman Donilee Alexander put it "we just didn't play up to our potential. We didn't play well."

The crowning glory came on Monday in Washington, D.C., when the Coots acquired their first-ever victory over Gallaudet College, a school for the deaf whose volleyball team is always St. Andrews' "team to beat." The Lady Knights played them in an all-out 3 of 5 match. Having lost the first two games 11-15 and 8-15, the Coots came from behind in the third game to snatch a victory from the women of Gallaudet, 15-13 and won the fourth game 15-13.

They went into the fifth "psyched and ready to win" according to Kristi Kluegel. The Lady Knights then proceeded to "destroy the foe" 15-2 in the final game. Team leaders were freshmen Tina Cheek with a .333 and Donilee Alexander with a .259. The key to the victory, however, was the team's overall record of 55 digs, 22 single blocks, and 34 block assists.

In a recent survey of the conference, among the top in kills were Kristi Kluegel and Lori Stroud with .367 and .319 respectively, in digs were Kristi Kluegel, with an average of 3 per game, and Margaret Fuller with an average of 2.5 per game.

pleted 25 out of 50 attempts for a .500. Kristi Kluegel again contributed in the serving area, handing UNC-G nine unreturnable serves and sending back over the net 12 of their spikes. As a whole the team stats are impressive: 47 digs, 7 solo blocks, and 16 assisted blocks. The team's hitting average was .500 for game one, .531 in game two, .400 in game three, and an almost unheard of .833 in game four.

"When you look at those numbers and realize that a .250 is considered excellent, you can understand exactly how incredibly these ladies played tonight," smiled Coach Williams. "They were phenomenal."

This victory was especially sweet because the St. Andrews women had fallen to UNC-G earlier in the season and revenge was in order.

"We had to beat them," stated Diana Jones. "Nobody beats us twice."
