Volleyball to Benefit Domestic Violence Center

Steve Skinner

A benefit volleyball tournament will be held Saturday, Nov. 21 at 7:00 p.m. on Harris Courts at St. Andrews, in an effort to raise monetary support for the Domestic Violence Center in Lumberton.

The benefit game is a culmination of the events surrounding the Domestic Violence Awareness Week in October. Local students will spear-head the event. The project is part of an on-campus study in Marketing and Advertising classes at St. Andrews.

The benefit games on the 21st will result in one main event. The 1987 Lady Knights volleyball team, this year's DIAC conference champions, will battle the winners of a preliminary contest between on-campus teams and area business and industry teams.

During the event, several activities will take place. Interested community cooks will prepared baked goods for sale in the lobby of the gym. Door prizes will be given away to lucky ticket holders. These door prizes will consist of products and services donated from participating businesses for the event. A special half-time event will occur to entertain an expected large crowd (over 500 tickets have already been sold).

Those planning, coordinating, and promoting this event hope to raise over $1000 for the Domestic Violence Center. A representative from the center will be on hand to receive the gift from project coordinators during the event. At a later date, all money received from the event will be given to the Center for its on-going struggle to help local victims of domestic violence who have nowhere else to turn for help.

Admission to the event is $1.00, for students, $2.00 for adults, children 12 and under are free. All students, faculty, staff, area business workers, families, and the general public are invited to attend the event.

Coots Win DIAC Tourney

Meg Anderson

Last weekend was one of victory for the St. Andrews Lady Knights volleyball team as the Coots defeated both Methodist College and Greensboro College to clinch the DIAC (Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference) Tournament championship.

The women had already won the regular season championship with a record of 11-1, their only loss being to the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. The tournament only added to the season's victories.

In the playoffs, the women played first Methodist and then Greensboro. The matches were determined by the usual 3-out-of-5 to win. In the game against Methodist, the Coots won the first game and then fell in the second, only to come back in the third and fourth games to win the match. Against Greensboro, the Lady Knights were down by two games going into the third, but picked up the pace by first defeating the opponent 15-0 and continuing the winning streak for the next two games to take the match and the tournament title.

Along with being the tournament champions, individual team members earned recognition at the playoffs. Senior hitter Lori Stroud and junior middle hitter Kristi Kluegel were selected for the first team all-conference, and Margaret Fuller, junior hitter, was selected for the second team. Kristi Kluegel ("Klue") and Lori Stroud ("Stroud") were each chosen for the all-tournament team, and Stroud was selected Most Valuable Player of the tournament team.

To the team, the most gratifying award was given to their coach, Jo Ann Williams, who was selected DIAC Conference Coach of the Year. "She deserves it more than anyone else," said Kluegel. "She is a great coach and a great friend and we could not have done it without her."

Though the team came out on top in the tournament, the Coots did not receive a Regional bid. The Lady Knights, however, do not need a regional bid to feel the thrill of victory.

CPI Tops in Intramural Ranks

Meg Anderson

With the college football polls just recently released by many of the country's top sports magazines, the Saint Andrews community can't help but wonder why CPI, with their 4-0 record, is not ranked at the top with Oklahoma.

Intramural football has become a Saturday event for many, players and fans alike, as the teams battle it out for a seat in the playoffs. There are seven teams all together and the ratings are as follows:

1. CPI- this team, also known as "Charlie Brown's team", heads our polls this week with a perfect 4-0 record.
2. Mecklenburg- this team consists of upperclassmen from the Mecklenburg dorm and is in second place with a record of 3-1.
3. Granville- in third place we have the Granvillites, who have chalked up a 2-2 record.
4. The Pissant Freshmen- close on the heels of Granville is the exclusively freshman team, whose record is also 2 and 2.

5. Winston-Salem- fifth place goes to the team which consists of anyone from Winston-Salem dorm, and their record is 1-2.

6. Meck freshmen- the sixth place team is another that hails from Mecklenburg, but these guys are all freshmen and their record is 1-3.

7. Orange- Last, but not least, is the team from Orange, whose record is the mirror image of CPI, 0-4.

The intramural games are held on Saturday afternoons beginning at 1:00 p.m. and go until the last game is finished. Rescheduled games are played on Sunday afternoons at a time agreed on by both teams.

This year's intramural directors are seniors David Turner and Jim Reese, who report to Brian Atchinson in the Student Life Office. The directors are responsible for the coordination of the games, the hiring of the referees, the scheduling of the playoffs, and the general well-being of the intramural program. They are responsible for solving the problems that

Riders Take Two Championships

Lisa Wagner

The riding team of St. Andrews competed last weekend, November 7 & 8, in the IHSA horse show held at Clemson University. Overall, St. Andrews was the champion stock seat (western) team on both days. Other teams that participated in the weekend competition were: College of Charleston, University of South Carolina, University of Florida, Converse College, University of Georgia, Wesleyan College, and Clemson.

The top placers for the St. Andrew riders in the hunt seat includes Karen Faunt (1st in beginner walk-trot-canter), Malinda Powers (3rd in advanced walk-trot), Chrissie Sabia (1st novice on the flat), John Cox (1st and 3rd in beginner walk-trot-canter), and Beth White (2nd in intermediate on the flat and 3rd over fences).

Riders placing at the top of the stock seat classes were as follows: In the Open division, Kat Caridakis placed 1st and 2nd; Advanced II division-John Cox 1st and 3rd, Lance Eller 2nd, and Beth White 3rd; Intermediate II division 2nd place went to Chrissie Sabia; John Alderman and Richard Sneed performed well in the Intermediate I division, placing 1st and 3rd respectively. Several of the riders placed at the top of the Beginner walk-jog division; Karen Faunt (3rd), Renee Melton (3rd), and Malinda Powers (2nd).

Overall, the weekend competition proved to be a successful team effort. There are many new riders to the team some being freshmen and others riding for the first time as students of St. Andrews.
