Approximately 1800 Scot-land County youths under the age of 18 are not receiving immunizations or other medical treatment.

The families of these children live below the poverty level. They earn too much money for government assistance or Medicaid, but not enough to afford private insurance.

Money is necessarily spent on immediate needs such as food, not immunizations or treatments for ear infections. The lack of medical care usually results in childhooddeafness or the contraction of preventable illnesses, such as measles or mumps.

Help is available to these families through a state-wide organization called the Caring Program. The caring Program offers free medical insurance to cover children's immunizations and doctor visits.

The insurance is made available through contributions. The honors SAGE class is trying to raise scholarships for the Caring Program. A scholarship is $204-the cost of insuring one child for one year. A mere $17 covers a child for one month.

Indian sites and the countryside.

On Thursday, a team of international players challenged the college soccer team to a match. As is the tradition, the varsity team won, 6-2.

Friday was called Culture Bash Day. Reggae and rock and roll was played, featuring the Reggae band called "C.I." According to one attendant, John Cohen, it was the best party of the year.

International Dinner Night was held on Saturday. Dinner consisted of international dishes prepared by students. Some of the meals served were: Indo-Malay Beef Curry, Indian Tandoori Chicken, Rice Pilaf, Mixed beef fried rice, and beef and potato stew. Peggy

Crawford commented, "The chicken's really good, but the curry's a little hot!"

The last day of International Week was Cricket Day. Quite a few spectators turned out for the match, which was won by the West Indies.

Those involved with International Week consider it a great success, and hope that even more people will get involved next year.
