Do you realize we only have three weeks of classes left in this semester? Your fall term is almost gone! Oh, No! We have SO much still to do.

There was a misprint in the last issue of The Lance. The new hours for the P.E. Center are on Sundays from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m.. Now that the temperatures have gone down, we hope you take advantage of these new hours and get a warm workout!

We again would like to thank all of those who took the time to fill out the Library Survey. There was a 50% campus response, thanks to all the surveys completed in Orange Dorm. Students felt that the resource capacity of the library to be their primary need. Checking out materials and the computer center were also very important to student needs. The majority of the students wanted to see an extension of library hours on Sundays. Guess what? It has happened for Spring Term thanks to the full cooperation of the library staff, Elaine Franz and the Student Life Committee. Hours will also be extended during exam time. Look for the new hours — they will be posted.

The Charity Duck Race on October 28 went over with huge waves. Fun was had by all who attended. All proceeds went to Scotland County Teen Pregnancy Center and Scotland County Literacy Council. First place went to a Board of Trustees member, Dibba John. A "quack" to all who purchased a duck or donated money.

The Board of Trustees visited St. Andrews on the 24 and 25 of October. New Board members are Dr. Karen S. Gulledge, Mrs. Susan Rader Poole, Rev. J. Shepherd Russell, Jr., Mr. R. Lawrence Taylor and Mr. John Robert Belk. (Three of which are alumni of St. Andrews!) The meeting, for the most part, was an information gathering time. The Board will return again in February.

Our goals have now turned to conservation. Senate is working on a campus campaign to reduce the electricity bills. When you leave your room, turn off the lights, music and television set. No one is there to enjoy them, so why leave them on? We all need to do our part! Also, don't forget to recycle. Blue pins are picked up in Belk Circle every Wednesday morning. Also returning the bins to your suites is very important.

Again we would like to encourage your participation in St. Andrews. If you have any concerns please address them to your student leaders. Senate Meetings are held every Monday evening at 9:30 p.m. and are open to the community.

S.A. Insignia License Plates May Be Possible

Melissa Reece
Staff Writer

St. Andrews hopes to take advantage of a bill recently passed by the North Carolina General Assembly which provides for the development of collegiate insignia license plates.

Susan Cieszko Patterson, who champions the cause of St. Andrews license plates, believes it is an excellent way to promote the school, also providing a way for people to get something in return for helping out the college. "However," Patterson adds, "the secret benefit to the college is the exposure and name recognition garnered every time the car is driven around the state or across the country."

The provisions of the bill are as follows:

1- The plates will be issued to the owner of any motor vehicle, except those vehicles registered under the International Registration Plan or to commercial trucks.

2- An owner desiring a collegiate plate must submit an application (provided by the Division of Motor Vehicles) and pay a sum of $25.00 annually in addition to the regular motor vehicle registration fee.

3- Application for the plate may be made at any time during the year. If the collegiate insignia license plate is to replace an existing current valid plate, the collegiate plate will be issued with appropriate decals attached.

4- Ten dollars of the additional registration fee will be credited to the Personalized Registration Fund. The revenue for this fund will be transferred quarterly to the Board of Trustees of the college.

5- The words 'North Carolina' will appear on the plate.

6- The collegiate plate may be combined with a personalized plate.

7- The division must receive 300 applications for a collegiate license plate for a college or university before such a plate may be developed. St. Andrews requests the help of the faculty, staff, students and alumni in meeting this quota.

Anyone desiring to register a St. Andrews license plate may contact the North Carolina Division of Motor Vehicles (north Carolina License Plate agency in Laurinburg (1518 S. Main Street (919) 276-2324). Any questions may be directed to Summer Brock in the Alumni office, ext. 5668.

Student Senate Food Committee Discusses Health Concerns with Marriott

Robert Novotny
Staff Writer

Last Wednesday night, an informal gathering of the Student Senate food committee members and various other student leaders met to air cafeteria health concerns. Prominently, there was a call for greater attention to the little things concerning health on the part of both the students and the Marriott food service. Student Senate food committee chairperson Kim Brown said, "If we want change from Marriott, we must change ourselves."

It was stressed in the meet

Franz Will Replace Greer as Dean of Students

Heather Lyn Gupton
Editor

Current dean of students Cynthia Greer, whose resignation will become effective Nov. 30, will be replaced by Jonathan Franz.

Franz is currently associate dean for academic development, and associate professor of psychology on the St. Andrews campus.

According to S.A. President Thomas L. Reuschling, Franz will not simply be an interim replacement.

"Jonathan Franz has agreed to take the deanship, and he's willing to stay for at least 18 months. After that both he and I will evaluate the position and make a decision based on that evaluation," said Reuschling.

Reuschling said that he felt that Franz was well-respected as both a teacher and a person, and that he felt Franz would be able to make decisions with fairness.

Campus Clips

► On October 26, Jacquelyn Hope Parten, Daniel Peter Infantino, Heather Lyn Gupton, Shannon Margaret Gill, Michelle Stogner Denham, Christopher Winslow Bachman, Jerry Milburn Barnes and Sharon Denise Allred were all inducted into Alpha Chi. At St. Andrews, induction into Alpha Chi requires a minimum 3.7 grade point average for seniors and a 3.8 for juniors.

► St. Andrews has added five new members to its Board of Trustees this fall. New members include Dr. Karen Stone Gullege, Susan Rader Poole, the Rev. James Shepherd Russell Jr., John Robert Belk, and Richard Lawrence Taylor.

Gullege, a 1963 graduate of St. Andrews, serves as chief planning consultant for the Department of Public Instruction in Raleigh.

Poole, a 1974 graduate of St. Andrews, was the recipient of the coveted Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award her senior year. The Rader Electron Microscopy Lab at the library was established by Mrs. Poole and her family. She and her husband Fred live in Greensboro.

Rev. Russell has served as senior pastor at the First Presbyterian Church in Norfolk, Va., since 1981. Russell served on the Board of Trustees at Flora Macdonald College in the 1950's.

Belk is the son of Tom and Katherine Belk and the brother of Katie Belk Morris, all former trustees of St. Andrews. Belk is vice-president and director of stores for Belk Brothers Co. in Charlotte.

Taylor is a 1966 graduate of St. Andrews where he earned a degree in business administration. He is now senior vice-president of CIGNA Corp. of Chicago. He and his wife Corinne have two sons and live in Forest, Ill.

► St. Andrews business students Wendy Harris, Melissa Hubbard, Ben Weiss and Eddie Brown were selected to represent St. Andrews College at the 14th Annual Symposium: "Ethical Issues and Decision Making," which took place Nov. 8. Teacher education students Denise Caison, Laura Molinaro and Dewey Newton also represented St. Andrews at the symposium.

The conference was sponsored by the Men of the First Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Conference Center, Hilton Head, S.C.

The teacher education students were accompanied to the conference by Dr. and Mrs. David G. Petkosh. Dr. Petkosh is assistant professor of education at St. Andrews. The business students were accompanied by Robert G. Littleton, visiting assistant professor of business at St. Andrews.

► St. Andrews will be having its own craft show and sale on Dec. 6-7 in the Belk Center Main Lounge.

The Friday, Dec. 6 sale and showing will last from 12 noon to 6 p.m., and the Saturday, Dec. 7 showing will last from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Those who make crafts and are interested in having a table at the show may still sign up at the Switchboard. Interested parties are encouraged to sign up as soon as possible.

This is a great opportunity to earn extra money for those special Christmas gifts, or perhaps to find the perfect gift.

For more information contact Teresa Tingler in the Business Office at Ext. 5222.

► St. Andrews' Board of Visitors met Nov. 14. This board, which now has more than 100 members, meets once a year and serves as an ambassador of the College. While on campus the board members receive updates on what's going on around campus.

► The 11th annual Sam Ragan Awards in the Fine Arts were presented prior to the Former Writer's Forum Nov. 7 at St. Andrews Presbyterian College.

The awards honor contributors to a wide range of fine arts in North Carolina over a sustained period of time. They were named in honor of Dr. Ragan, who is editor of The Pilot and North Carolina's first Secretary of Cultural Resources.

This year's award winners were Dr. Gerald Barrax of North Carolina State University (N.C.S.U.) Barrax is editor of the leading black creative journal, Obsidian II, and a much-published poet who has also worked in the Poetry in the Prisons project. He teaches creative writing at N.C.S.U. Dr. Barrax's first Writer's Forum reading at St. Andrews was in 1990.

Marsha White Warren of Chapel also received the Ragan Award. She is director of the North Carolina Writer's Network and has been instrumental in backing the interweaving of poetry, fiction and drama with other art forms.

Last year's award recipients were Dr. William Little of Chapel Hill, for his contributions to public radio, and Kate Blackburn of Laurinburg, for her work in creative writing and drama. Other previous winners have been Paul Jeffrey, Durham (jazz), Charleen Swansea, Charleston (publishing), Frank Borden Hanes, Winston-Salem (fine arts and creative writing) and Harriet Doar, Charlotte (poetry and criticism).
