E. Hervey Evans Fellow to speak

A main address and a symposium will be delivered today by the Reverend Dr. W. Robert Martin, Jr., the college's 1998 E. Hervey Evans Distinguished Fellow.

The Pastor of Pine Shores Presbyterian Church in Sarasota, Florida, and former College Pastor at St. Andrews, Dr. Martin will be the guest at a symposium at 4 p.m. in the Belk Main Room. The symposium is sponsored by the Department of Religious Studies and Philosophy.

"Welcome to My World: Reflections on Inter-Generational Riches" will be Dr. Martin's major public address at 8 p.m. in the Belk Main Room. The St. Andrews community is invited to attend both events.

Dr. Martin served on St. Andrews' Board of Trustees, and was named a Scholar-in-Residence in 1982. He became College Pastor and, later, Director of International Programs and Professor of Political Science. He has been Pastor of Pine Shores Presbyterian Church for the past seven years.

Dr. Martin's extensive career began in 1960 as Senior Minister of St. Cuthbert's Parish Church in Edinburgh, Scotland. He later spent several years in both administrative and pastoral service at Union Theological Seminary, where he was Dean of Students and Assistant to the President. He also had the distinction of being the founding minister of Three Chopt Presbyterian Church in Richmond, Virginia. In 1967, he joined The Fund for Theological Education in Princeton, New Jersey, where he remained for 15 years, serving first as Associate and then for eight years as its Executive Director.

The lectureship reflects the values and commitments of the late E. Hervey Evans, an active leader in business and civic concerns of the Laurinburg community and a key figure in the development of St. Andrews College.

New Major

By Mel Collins

For those interested in a life in the Church, a new major is coming to St. Andrews. The first course related to the major will be offered this Spring with the major scheduled to be available starting in the Fall. The major is the Church Services Major and is designed to prepare students for an entry level position in the Church or to enter Seminary better prepared. Courses necessary to complete this major would include church history, Biblical studies, theology, and contemporary issues with the religious studies perspective. Internships with a church will also be a key part of this major.

The major will also contain the opportunity to specialize in given areas of interest. Two of these possible specializations are youth ministry and counseling. While the major is awaiting final approval, the signs are good that it will be offered in the fall. It will help the school in filling the needs of the Church. There is a strong need for qualified and educated people to work in congregations across the nation. With the strength of the Religious Studies Department at St. Andrews, all students who complete the major will fill this need.

23 students named to Who's Who for 1998

by Sara Griffitt

Twenty-three students from St. Andrews Presbyterian College, including two from the St. Andrews, Sandhills campus, have been chosen for the 1998 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges, an annual directory of outstanding student leaders.

Those selected are: seniors Margaret Mary Brewinski, Michael Joseph Daly, Jennifer Carol Franklin, Heather Lyn Hayden, Ian C. Hendricks, Adam Sean MacKenzie, Rickey Brian McCollum, Samantha Lee McGee, Tyler Francis McPeck, Melissa Elaine Moore, Laura Sue Page (Sandhills), Jose Ramon Ralat, Emily Ann Rogers, Donna Yasaman Sammender and Freda Ann Schlaman.

Juniors who have been chosen are: Kate Dowd Brady, Deborah Michelle Clevinger, Lisa Marie Fraser, Stephan Muraguri Kagiri, Linda Reid Oldham (Sandhills), Ann Marie Orr, Tarrah J. Trent and Jennifer Lee Williams.

The students were selected by a campus nominating committee and editors of Who's Who based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.
