SUPPOSE

By Harry Jones, Sixth Grade
 Suppose you are just worrying About something that will happen the coming day, Just go out and have a good time

Suppose you don't know your lessons,
 Why go to school looking sad?
 Just make the best of those you know
 And the others won't be so bad.

Suppose you are not in good health
 And you do not gain in weight.
 Don't worry just say to yourself
 I have an average at any rate.

And I suppose you will tell someone else
 Just what I have told to you But learn to think and say the best
 About things that happens to you.

CHRISTMAS

By Henry Dawson, Sixth Grade
 'Twas night and a blaze of spen-dor
 Flashed over the winter sky,
 Where a star, serene and tender, Beamed once in the years gone by Above was a sheen of glory,
 Below was the spo. less snow, While the hushed winds sang the story
 The sweetest that mortals know.

Above in the King's bright dwelling
 The seraphs were singing o'er What the shepherds heard when telling
 The hours as they watched of yore;
 Although in Heaven was gladness,
 The beautiful earth was still,
 For children of men in sadness, Knew not of peace and good-will.

They knew not it was the evening
 That Bethlehem's star come down And the greatest gift was given When the Lord of Heaven came down.
 Each silent with his sorrow,
 Nor cared for another's woe;
 So, forgetful of the morrow,
 They saw not the bright star's glow.

Then the Christ-Child speaks and silent
 Each musical angel stood:
 'We alone are keeping Christmas,
 That was made for mortal's good.
 Away, Away, where my children
 On earth are silent and alone,
 And tell them the joyful tidings,
 While I wil visit my own!'

So the angels glad, Obeying, Flew earthward, and sang the song
 That a world in darkness straying
 Had not heard in ages long;

And those who were vigils keeping
 Heard melodious athems clear, While those who were sweetly
 s.eeping
 In dreams, felt Heaven was near.

FACULTY NOTES

When you visit the charming little home that Mr. and Mrs.
 James J. Mitchell have built on Park Street you will be shown a jolly baby boy. (You may know Mrs. Mitchell as Miss Edna Harris of the English Dept.)

Mrs. Haley is wearing a broader smile than usual these days. Her husband has come to join our faculty. He heads the Dept. of Agriculture.

President and Mrs. J. H. Bias entertained their children and grandchildren over the Thanksgiving week-end. Mr. and Mrs.
 D. G. Brandon had as their Thanksgiving guest Miss Julia Brandon from Virginia State College. At the same time Dean and Mrs. S. D. Williams had their daughter, Carolyn, and her guest, Miss Choe Cornwall both of Virginia Sta e, as their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester don't seem quite the same with their charming daughter, Aurelia, away at Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Spellman is convalescing at her home after having returned from Richmond where she underwent an operation. Everyone on the campus misses her. We wish her a rapid recovery.

Our nomination for a good family man is the busy Mr. Clark.
 Who has had practically his whole family cooperate with him in uiding up State Normal's band.
 Incidentally, he is doing a grand

New members of our faculty include Miss Evelyne Pope of Hampton, librarian; Miss Alice Washington of Hampton, home economics teacher; and Mr. S. A. Haley of A. & T. in agriculture.

During the year Mr. DeKalb's father visited him and brought as his guest the world famous explorer, Mat. Henson who is the only living man left out of the galant few who went with Perry to the North Pole.
