

"Symposium on The Bible" Religious Emphasis Theme

"A Symposium on The Bible" will be the theme for Religious Emphasis Week which begins Sunday, 18 March 1962, and continues through Thursday, 22 March 1962.

Speakers for the occasion will include Dr. Grady D. Davis, Dean of the Shaw University School of Religion; Dr. R. Frederick West, Pastor of St. Paul's Christian Church in Raleigh; Rabbi Arnold Task, Temple Sinai in Newport News, Virginia; Dr. Coragrene Johnstone, Elizabeth City State Teachers College; Mr. Chester Gregory, Elizabeth City State Teachers College; and Dr. James A. Eaton, Elizabeth City State Teachers College.

In addition to the speakers, exhibits, films, discussion groups, and other aids will be used to afford the opportunity for learning more about the Bible—its influence upon history, upon literature, upon government, and upon the religions of the world. Emphasis will be placed upon the formation of the Bible canon and upon recent translations. The purpose of this symposium is to help the individual know about the Bible with the hope that he will be lead to read and to study the Bible.

As part of the annual Religious Emphasis Week observance there will be worship services, daily quiet meditation periods and a Communion service. As finale to the observance the College will present on Thursday evening the motion picture "St. Francis of Assisi."

Junior Level Laboratory

The Department of Education at Elizabeth City State Teachers College is offering for the first time a laboratory course for juniors called "Education 311 — The Elementary School: Laboratory." The cooperating school in this professional educational adventure is the Pasquotank County Elementary School in Elizabeth City of which Mr. William H. Jones is principal.

Through the professional experiences of Education 311, thirty-five grammar level majors and twenty-four primary level majors are receiving, under the supervision of twenty-five cooperating teachers, the type of orientation to public school teaching which will enable them to do a better job of student teaching in their senior year.

The plan of the Professional Laboratory Experiences Course is as follows:

Students enrolled in Education 311 are required to observe and to participate in elementary school classrooms three hours weekly, on Tuesdays or Thursdays. These students will also meet with the college instructor one day each week, at the hour scheduled, during which time the weekly observation analysis form will be discussed, then presented to the college instructor.

The college instructor will be responsible for orienting the students to the work of the course, for integrating the theory of college class work with the observation and participation experiences provided by the public schools, and for the evaluation report of supervising teachers. Projects presented in the college classroom will form the basis for the final evaluation of the course.

Student of the Issue

"Marvelous" MARVIN TROTMAN

Marvin Trotman, a senior from Princeton, New Jersey, has been chosen Student of the Issue because of his outstanding achievement in athletics and his growth as a gentleman.

Marvin, since his freshman year, has achieved many goals particularly in the Basketball World. As a member of the basketball team, he set a CIAA Tournament record with 45 points his freshman year. In his sophomore year he was chosen a member of the All-CIAA Basketball Team. During his junior year he was one of the leaders in scoring with a 27 point average per game. He is currently the leading scorer in small colleges in the nation with a 32.9 average per game; and also is one of five players chosen for the CIAA Tournament Poster.

In addition to his athletic achievements, Marvin has consistently maintained a respectable academic average. With exception to his athletic achievement, his most noticeable feature in his growth into manhood. As a freshman he had a tendency to be playful and was often misunderstood; now he is a serious, dedicated gentleman of whom all S.T.C. can be proud. He is an active member of the Crescent Club.

At present he is doing his student teaching in the Pasquotank Elementary School. His future plan is to play professional basketball. Just recently he was selected to the All-CIAA Basketball Team by unanimous vote of the coaches. This is a crowning achievement for our "Marvelous" Marvin Trotman.

Compass to Represent At CSPA Convention

The Compass has chosen four students to represent the staff at the annual CSPA Convention at Columbia University in New York City, March 15-17. The staff believes that these students will use the information gained from the convention to improve the college publication.

Joyce Mae Brown, a society editor, is one of the members chosen. She is an Honor Roll student who has made valuable contributions to the paper. Joe E. Hand, a sports editor, will be concerned with learning to write better sports news. John Wesley Jordan, a literary writer and an Honor Roll student, will attend the CSPA Convention as second-time representative to the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Sunny Stewart Vick, the 1962-'63 editor, is the fourth member of the quartet. This will be his third year at the convention.

The convention will consist of about 150 meetings and panel discussions which will be concerned with all types of school publications. These meetings and discussions will be presided over by students, professors and distinguished guest speakers.

The climax of the convention will come at the Waldorf Hotel. Here the thousands of delegates from all over the nation will hear a noted speaker and enjoy lunch. At the luncheon, awards will be presented to the students who have made extraordinary contributions to journalism.

The seventy-first anniversary of the founding of the Elizabeth City State Teachers College was observed on Sunday, February 25. An unveiling of a portrait of J. H. Bias, former president of the College, a pilgrimage to the graves of the founders; and an address by Dr. Harold Leonard Trigg, former president, Professor of Education at Livingstone College, and member of the State Board of Education, were the main activities of the Day.

In an impressive ceremony in Bias Hall at two o'clock in the afternoon a portrait of Mr. John Henry Bias was unveiled. The portrait which will hang in the Lounge of Bias Hall is an excellent portrayal of the man by F. F. Kersey of the Art Department of Virginia State College, Petersburg, Virginia.

Present for the unveiling were several members of the Bias Family and also the daughters of the late Dr. P. W. Moore.

Pilgrimage to Graves of the Founders

The annual Pilgrimage to the graves of the founding fathers: Dr. P. W. Moore, Mr. John H. Bias, and Hugh Gale was the second event of the Day. A short service was held and floral tributes were given. Wreaths were placed on the grave of Hugh Gale by Mrs. Bessie Dempsey; the grave of Dr. P. W. Moore by his daughter, Mrs. Bessie M. Wesley; and the grave of Mr. Bias by Mrs. Agnes G. Jones. These ladies were accompanied by Mr. William Honeybue, Mr. T. H. Wamac, and Mr. Charles Bias respectively.

Dr. H. L. Trigg Delivers Address

The Founders Day Exercises were held in the auditorium at three-thirty in the afternoon with Dr. Walter N. Ridley presiding. The service began with an organ prelude "Our Father in Heaven". Prayer and Scripture were offered, and the College Choir rendered Glanum's "God Is Our Refuge". From the Alumni, greetings were extended by Mr. Calvin Paschal; and from the Students by Mr. Nathaniel Moore. After the singing of "The College Hymn", President Ridley made a statement of the occasion and then introduced the speaker Dr. Harold Leonard Trigg.

An enlightening and informative address on the advancement of the College and present opportunities and obligations was presented by Dr. Trigg who is now a Professor of Education at Livingstone College, Salisbury, North Carolina; and also a member of North Carolina Board of Education.

"Striving for freedom is not a hazard", the speaker told the audience as he began. "Students must meet the world's demand for self-realization". He emphasized that civil rights and liberty provide an atmosphere in which we grow as citizens of a great democracy.

As Dr. Trigg continued, he declared that the government cannot meet all of the needs, that each individual must go forward with an awareness of this fact. "We are on the frontier of human relations, and we must meet the demands of leadership for the world."

In conclusion, Dr. Trigg advised students to strive for a personal education that constitutes integrity if they would meet the demand for world leadership.

Conversation and Coffee

Miss Felicia D. Anderson, lecturer of the Fine Arts Festival, will be guest of honor at an hour of Coffee and Conversation in Hugh Gale Hall, on Thursday morning, March twenty-ninth, ten-fifteen. The College Players will serve as hostesses. Coffee will be poured by Mrs. Julia M. Hoffer.

At twelve noon Miss Anderson will have lunch in the Captain's Cabin with English majors and members of the English Club and the faculty of the Department of English.
