Sanford-Cannon Law Office

Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina, whose term will end in January, and Hugh Cannon, Director of Administration, plan to open a law office in Raleigh the latter part of March, 1965.

Other persons who will be connected with the Sanford-Cannon Law Office are John Hunter and Charles G. Pase III, who are connected with the Department of Administration.

Governor Sanford has been thinking very hard about establishing a law office in Charlotte. At the end of his term he plans to return to Fayetteville to rest for two or three months, make several out-of-state speeches, and then open the Sanford-Cannon Law Office. —Ethel G. Sutton

Night with its darkness precedes day and its accompanying light. Man usually sleeps in darkness, but the day comes, he is alert and active. It was Apollo, the sun of Zeus and Leto, who flashed across the heavens in the brilliant chariot carrying light and dispelling darkness. Apollo was known for his beauty, kindness, strength and virility.

Through ages, light has been passed to men of youth, strength and a sense of responsibility that they might not only keep the light, but that they in turn might cause the light to shine and otherwise be bearers of the light.

If we have physical fitness and mental ability, we cannot produce the light that is necessary to pierce the darkness of ignorance, distrust, and pessimism unless we are in possession of the spiritual flame. To have the spiritual flame, one must possess faith and belief in the fatherhood of God, and brotherhood of man.

If one can be fortunate enough to possess the flame of physical fitness, mental hygiene, and spirituality, he is thrice blessed. But to be able to have the complete light, one must possess the assistance that comes from the lamp of knowledge with its many and varied jets, its wealth from history, its logic and reasoning from philosophy, its delving into the sciences all the way from the bowels of the earth to von outer spaces, its magic of chemistry and the divinely reasoning of theology.

We live in America, with its natural wealth, its rich natural reserves, its spirit of democracy, its dedication to equal opportunity, and its opportunity for pioneering along untrodden paths. Who does the future of America depend upon?

It is the men and women of this level in life and society to whom the world looks for the light which is so desperately needed.

Beneath the tree of knowledge here, we must find our strength and lose our fears. Through earned night, we "Vikings," must learn the right to go and spread the light.

Almost

By William Eshion

When we've tried and failed the task we tried,
Our flaming ego hasn't died;
We say "almost" and feel satisfied
But I wonder what we'll do

When we've tried and tried with all our strength
To show the Lord the good we meant,
And then miss Heaven by a length
Of just a foot or two?

Volume 25 No. 3—December, 1964

(Note: I am pleased to contribute this initial article, setting forth the philosophy, the functions and the organizational structure of the Committee on Religious Life here at E.C.S.C. Subsequent articles will be contributed by other members of our Committee, with the general policy that of projecting student leadership.—RIB)

In the best traditions of Elizabeth City State College, the Committee on Religious Activities is dedicated to the happy task of providing spiritual enrichment for the total campus life. The purpose is to inspire creative thinking, to enhance self-discipline and to create a climate conducive to noble living.

The Committee conceives of the spiritual aspect not as a compartmentalized detached entity, but rather as a vital and integral part of the educational process, an essential and indispensable element in the proper development of personality.

Functional Units

While the varied religious activities on the campus constitute a single composite — with certain basic objectives and goals—the implementing of these objectives is effectuated through the specialized services of various functional units.

The Sunday School. A major religious emphasis organization is that of the College Sunday School. It is in session each Sunday morning, 9:00-10:15. The superintendent is David Freeman; the secretary, Carol Ashe. Currently, there are associate discussion group leaders (S.S. teachers)—all of whom are students. Mr. L. D. Draper, faculty member, is the supervising teacher, in charge of the weekly teachers' meetings.

Recently, the Sunday School observed "Faculty Day," with a total of fifteen faculty-staff members serving leadership roles. The attendance was an all-time high.

From time to time, there are different approaches and special features in the program of the Sunday School, emphasizing variety-interests.

The Student Christian Association—(SCA). This organization specializes in the areas of service traditionally delegated to the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A.'s. The SCA interprets life—in its various facets—in terms of the Christian purpose. To this end, it addresses itself to a board program of activities involving character building. Also special attention is given to the matter of encouraging participation in the civic life and various community-related activities.

A recent project, successfully executed by SCA, was that of the distribution of baskets to needy families during the Thanksgiving season.

Mrs. Isabelle Booker is president of this organization; Mr. Chester Gregory is faculty advisor.

The United Campus Christian Fellowship (UCCF). Another unit of the religious life program on our campus—recently instituted.—is that of the United Campus Christian Fellowship. An organization with the ecumenical emphasis, the UCCF provides an effective forum for representatives of the various communions on the campus, with opportunities for periodic discussions of topics of mutual interest. The student leaders identified with the fellowship serve as counselors and consultants for other students affiliated with various faiths.

The initial meeting of this organization featured a panel discussion, "How We May Enrich the Spiritual Life on Our Campus." Participants were: Helen Johnson, Izola Young, Martha Hathway. Related readings were done by Carol Ashe and Phyllis Ballance.

The president of the UCCF is Richard Hart; the secretary is Izola Young.

The Newsletter. Still another recent innovation is that of the Newsletter, a medium of information and publicity, released periodically through the Office of Religious Activities. This instrument is designed, further, to translate the functions and purposes of the religious emphasis program and to facilitate the general promotion of the same.

The water of life will flow to us only if it flows through us. You can't keep it unless you give it away. You can't even have it. The greatest thing in the world changes color and taste even while you hold it. Let go of it quickly—pass it on. God is love, and love is what passes through. Love does not mean self-love. Love is love only if it passes on.

God Bless Christmas

By LOUVELLIA JOHNSON

God bless your Christmas wherever you are
And keep your courage bright;
For the spirit of man is the Light of God,
And it glows on the darkest night.

God bless your Christmas wherever you are
And keep you strong in faith;
For the Spirit of God is the Refuge of man
And the Light in his dwelling place.
