

The Student Council candidates seem to have leadership ability but in a few of them, it remains to be seen.

Helen Johnson isn't as beautiful as the other candidates, but neither was Mrs. Roosevelt or Mary Bethune.

Joyce Scott is friendly in her own way. Her personality may need improving, but she does have other qualities which are more important; such as frankness and scholarship.

For the candidates running for Student Council President, I think, on a whole these people should be running. There's one exception and that's James Dickerson. He has no qualities for a President.

Joyce Scott is dying for popularity.

The candidates for Miss ECSC seem to be unfriendly toward each other. Also Miss Carr is not well known around campus.

Candidates do not start speaking to the student body until they are running for a position or office.

Too much emphasis is placed on candidates in sororities. You would think that the only people who should be candidates are people in sororities.

During a big part of Election Week, the candidates are little angels, full of smiles and hellos. This is not true of Miss Carr.

Bessie Carr is not qualified for Miss ECSC.

Vernon Perry has until now taken little or no interest in our political structure whatsoever. He has, however, been elected as an officer of the Sunday School, only to stay away repeatedly.

Etc., Etc. These are just a few of the student opinions which the staff collected.

The main thing is to form opinions - constructive opinions, and then, when voting is over and the winners announced, SUPPORT them!!
