Lt. Governor Scott Recites College History

The Lt. Governor of North Carolina, the Honorable Robert W. Scott, speaking in Moore Hall Auditorium, on Founder's Day, told the audience, "You have at this fine institution not only a tradition to uphold but you have an opportunity, you have a challenge and you have a responsibility to help build a better North Carolina, because it is here that you mold and shape the fundamental pattern of tomorrow, as you mold the human mind of today..."

Lt. Governor Scott was principal speaker at Founder's Day, celebrating the 75th Anniversary of the College.

An impressive academic procession across the campus to Moore Hall led by President Walter N. Ridley and the Lt. Governor opened the 3:30 p.m. program.

The Lt. Governor's address began with vivid word picture of a session of the North Carolina Legislature as it might have been in 1891, when Hugh Cale, the Negro legislator of Pasquotank County, submitted the bill "to establish a normal school for the colored race in Elizabeth City."

Another highlight of the afternoon program was the presence of two of the College's first students, Miss Isabella Holloman of Elizabeth City, a member of the first class, who entered the school in 1892, and the Reverend Mr. Milton M. Weston, an Episcopal minister of Tarboro, North Carolina, who was among the first graduates of the college. The opening scripture was read by Rev. Weston.

Speaking of the progress of the college over the past 75 years, Scott said he was quite

Career Day Attended

Nine students from the Social Science Department with their chairman, Dr. B. V. Subbiah, were guests at Norfolk State College's annual Sociology Career Day, held at Norfolk State College, Norfolk, Virginia, Saturday, February 19, 1966.

The students were: Melvin Powell, Lawrence Brown, Jesse Powell, Thomasine Daughtery, Solomon Graham, Leevon Lansden, Shelley Willingham, Leonard Moore, and Marilyn Bryant.

The program was designed to acquaint students who are interested in the social services as a career, with the many areas of that field that are now open to them.

The guest speaker was Dr. Kalif who is director of the Richmond School of Social Work, Richmond, Virginia.

The students also attended workshops where such professionals as Probation Officers, Community Action Program leaders and Sociologists served as consultants.

Jackson Returns For Fine Arts Festival

The College is especially honored to have one of its graduates as a participant in the Lyceum Series, which is sponsoring the Gra-Y Revue in cooperation with the 1966 Fine Arts Festival Committee.

The 4th Annual Dance Revue of the Liberty Park Gra-Y Club of Norfolk will be presented as one of the concluding programs on Sunday, April 24 at 2:30 p.m. in Moore Hall Auditorium.

The director and creator of this dance revue, G. Morgan Jackson, is a 1962 graduate of Elizabeth City State College. He was a member of the College Dance Group while at the institution. His several performances were many times rated as outstanding.

Mr. Jackson's dedication to community service and his outstanding record as a teacher won him the "Teacher of the

President Speaks at Seminar

Dr. Walter N. Ridley was one of the group leaders and consultants, and a speaker at the Equal Opportunity Seminar at King's Inn, Greensboro, March 16 and 17.

His topic at the Thursday morning seminar was "The American Negro - Past and Present."

The seminar was sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service, Southern Region, Greensboro District, for the purpose of helping supervisors gain a greater knowledge and understanding of race and human relations...and to assist supervisors in identifying and fulfilling their personal obligations and responsibilities in carrying out the Equal Opportunity Program.

Dance Band Organized

Under the direction of David W. Williams, College Band Director, a dance band has been organized on campus. The group is known as the "ECSC Collegians".

The organization consists of 17 pieces. It plays a repertoire of standard and popular arrangements.

Performances are restricted to weekend engagements and requests for performances are made to the director.

Members of the band must maintain a "C" average and an overall average of 2.5 in their majors.

The band is open to all students who qualify. Interested persons are subject to audition by the director.

The "ECSC Collegians" have performed once before the college family. Shortly after organizing, the group played at a home basketball game.
