

The radiant Miss Betty Eggleston speaks at our local high school.

Miss ECSC Speaks To Arkeanians

"As young women and Arkeanian members, you face a tremendous responsibility of portraying those qualities that exemplify finer womanhood." That was the keynote of a speech by Betty J. Eggleston, our Miss ECSC. Miss Eggleston was guest speaker at the Arkeanian Club's ceremonial program held at P. W. Moore High School, of our city. The Arkeanian Club is an organization established to foster finer womanhood among young high school women. Miss Eggleston is a 1965 graduate of P. W. Moore High School.

Delta News

Many executive members of Delta Chi Chapter were out on the field doing student teaching, therefore, it was necessary to elect officers early this year. The following officers were elected: President, Peggy Bryant; Vice President, Alice Little; Secretary, Ellen Johnson; Assistant Secretary, Beverly Taylor; Treasurer, Verna Burgess; and Chaplin, Lucy Hargrove.

The Elizabeth City Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Incorporated is presenting its "Jabberwock" here in Moore Hall Auditorium Saturday, March 8, 1969. The theme is "Variations of Broadway". You may purchase tickets from any member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority on campus. The price for student tickets is 50¢.

Two Day Reading Seminar

Elizabeth City State College was the scene of a Reading Seminar held in the Little Theatre of the G. R. Little Library. Mrs. Hazel G. Spellman, Supervisor of the Reading Laboratory at the College, is the President of the Northeastern Albenmarle Reading Council of International Reading Association.

Among the featured speakers and authorities during the seminar were: Mr. Uberto Price, Director of the Reading Program at Appalachian State University and President-elect of the College Reading Association; and Mr. James Layton, Director of the Children's Clinic at ASU and President of the North Carolina Council of IRA.

Omega News

by Glenwood Mitchell

The Lambda Gamma Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity is still on the move with Leonard Hedgepeth as the president. They proudly announce that Miss Margaret Virginia Gregory of Elizabeth City, N. C. has been chosen to be the Que Psi Phi Sweetheart for 1969. She was warmly greeted with a box of candy on Valentine's Day from the Omega Men.

The Annual Mardi Gras will be given on March 7, 1969, by the Omegas. This always proves to be a very festive occasion for all who attend. At a later date of this semester they will be introducing a new idea as an eventful night the "Omega Ball".

Seniors Prepared For Future PT

Student Teaching Seminar Held

The student teaching seminar which was held for the second semester student teachers had as its theme "The Role of Education In a Changing World". The dynamic speaker of the hour was Mr. W. C. Witherspoon, Principal of the Marion Anderson High School, Camden, North Carolina. The speaker was introduced by Dr. Ernest A. Finney, Director of Student Teaching.

Mr. E. Earl Manley, assistant Director of Student Teaching here at the college was the presiding officer. The seminar was opened with the hymn "God of Our Fathers" after which the invocation was given by Mr. Leroy Douglas. Mr. Thomas E. Carter, Acting Dean of the college and Dr. Marion D. Thorpe, President of the college, greeted all with friendly words. After the greetings, Dr. Rosaline Edwards, Chairman of the Department of Education, gave the purpose of the seminar.

A play entitled, "What Is It All About", was given by the Business Department under the direction of Mr. James A. Creech, Chairman of the Department. In talking to some members of the senior class, one found that the play was well liked by a large number of the students. They also felt that other departments should take the initiative to give plays of this type during each student teaching seminar.

A discussion period, in which all students participated, was also held and the announcements were made. The seminar was then closed with the school's "Alma Mater".

A Perspective

(Continued from page 7)

With money, "on the way," ECSC is vitally

SCOTT

(Continued from page 1)

"I have said many times that I want this administration to be known as one that looked forward and planned for the future. "So we will plan."

"But we will also do." And, in order to plan, and in order to do, we need people...all people."

The Governor praised Dr. Marion Thorpe on his splendid accomplishments here. He said, "your president has a fine reputation. His experience qualifies him to be an able leader in this era of growth. He has been a professor of psychology, a dean of students, a top level Federal Government official, vice president of a university in the State of Ohio, and an assistant director of the North Carolina Board of Higher Education. Many of the students and faculty members stood in line to shake the governor's hand and to get his autograph.

The Founder's Day program was climaxed with a reception in the Lighthouse College Center.

Student

Commended

(Continued from Page 1)

tinued. This was in reference to Brothers' closing statements: "The past is history; the present is history in the making; and the future is waiting. Let us project into the future. Let us continue to build our castles in the sky, or what's a heaven for."

In addition to being Vice President of the Student Council, Brothers is also a member of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." A promising junior art major at ECSC, he has been the recipient of honors extended by the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society.

interested in the establishment of a closed circuit television broadcasting system. Research has already pointed out what television can do, and certainly we should find some interesting results once our system is operational. A worthwhile plan of CCTV utilization should provide interesting instructional assistance in our Art, English, Music, Science, Mathematics, Social Studies, Education, Industrial Arts, etc. curriculum programs.

ECSC's CCTV installation should prove to be a very educational, technical efficient, and worthwhile installation. The installation will call for the development of 1st class audio and video television studio facilities, a top-flight visual production facility and receiving-viewing classrooms that will certainly enhance the learning process.

The heart of ECSC's CCTV installation will be the television studio facilities. From this part of the installation live, taped, and film productions will originate. Plans should call for a three vidicon camera studio, along with a (VR) video tape recorder and film chain for motion pictures-slide pickup.

The lighting in the studio will be of conventional incandescent type, with a hoped for 50 KW dimmer board. With this lighting equipment all types of light effects; fill backlighting sidelighting, etc can be obtained. In one sense, ECSC's CCTV studio should be able to accomplish just about any light effect that any professional TV studio could perform.

The lighting in the studio will be of conventional incandescent type, with a hoped for 50 KW dimmer board. With this lighting equipment all types of light effects; fill backlighting sidelighting, etc. can be obtained. In

ECSC Entertains H.S. Seniors

According to Chester Gregory, Associate Professor of History and Chairman of the Recruitment Committee, between 800 and 1,000 high school seniors attended the annual High School Seniors Day program here. Coming from high schools in eastern and central North Carolina, these seniors got a full, one-day exposure to the offerings and atmosphere of the college.

With Javon Brothers, Vice-President, Student Government, presiding, and following introductions and greetings by Dr. Marion D. Thorpe, the college's sixth president, representatives from several of the ECSC student organizations and activities spoke to the visiting high school seniors, in Williams Hall Gymnasium from 10:00 to 11:15 a.m. Prior to lunch at 12:30, visits to the twelve departmental offices and tours of the expanding campus further acquainted the visiting seniors with the college's academic programs and facilities.

The afternoon session, beginning at around 1:30 p.m., featured a creative dance, "Moving It," by the Modern Dance Group, under the direction of Rosalyn Smith. The popular Drill Team, Alvin Kelly, Drill Master, climaxed the afternoon performances.

In one sense, ECSC's CCTV studio should be able to accomplish just about any light effect that any professional TV studio could perform.

The control room will have equipped, conventional camera control equipment console. This television equipment will allow the production-coordinator to produce all camera techniques, special effects, and other presentational opportunities. Camera and console capability should be able to produce for the television teacher, long shot, medium shot, close-up, panning, tilt, dolly, etc. Further, the CCTV console should provide video switching to provide those "famous" fade in, fade-out, dissolves, and super imposition techniques.

WRESTLERS

(Continued from page 5)

Erick Keyes, 137 lb. junior, Port Jarvis, N.Y., won the outstanding wrestler award. Jackie Kennedy, junior, Portsmouth, Va., took the unlimited match as Henry Myers, a sophomore from Gretna, Va. pinned down the 145 lb. championship. Jesse Carman, Washington, N. C. was the lone ECSC second-place winner as he was mtached in the 130 lb category. Lamas Deloatch, Walter Lamb, and Michael Anderson captured third place in their division as Elizabeth City State College compiled a total of 61 points.