

PEOPLE

Finals Week: Going Home

This is the last week of the Spring Semester. Most students are either relieved that classes are over or tense about final exams. For some, summer vacation means a summer job, for others a chance to see old friends and rest for awhile, because before you know it fall semester and more classes will be here.

photo by Richard McIntyre

(Above) Joy Franklin
(Below) Workmen building elevator shaft for renovation of Moore Hall.

photo by Richard McIntyre

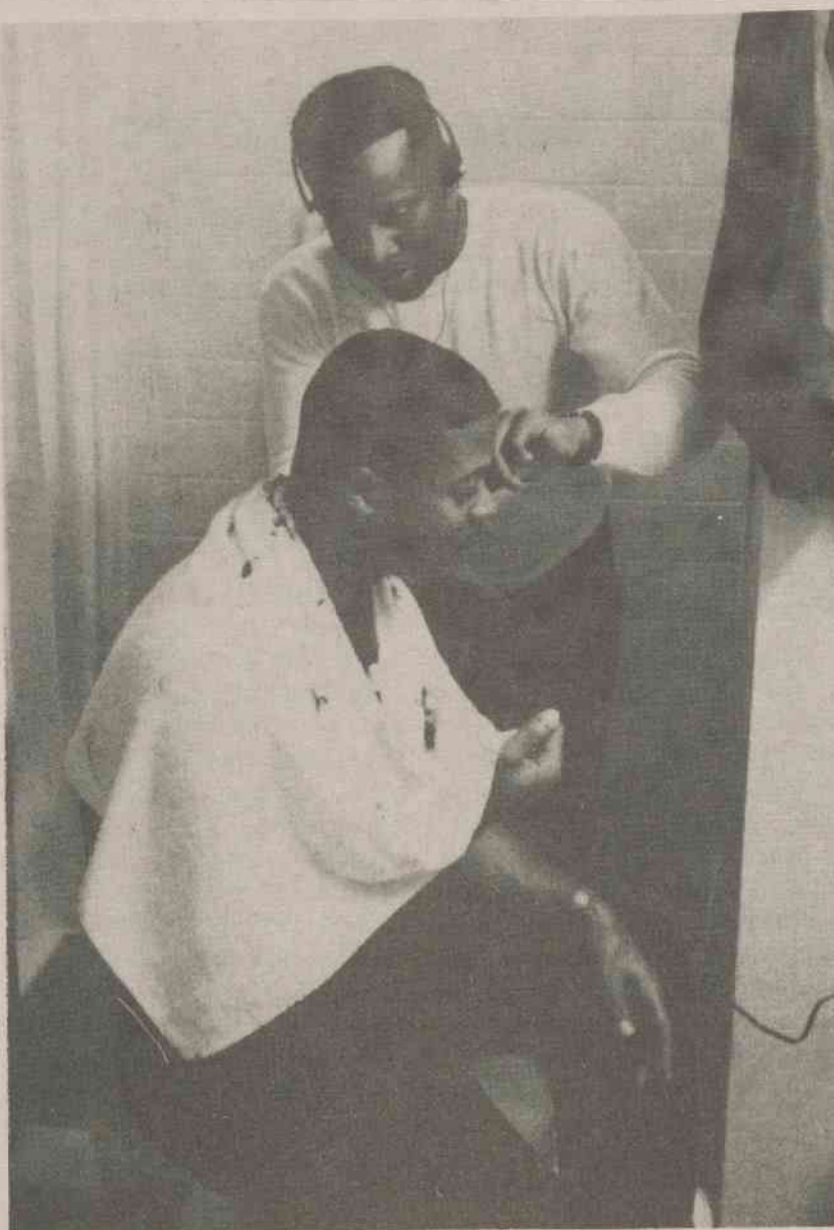

photo by Richard McIntyre

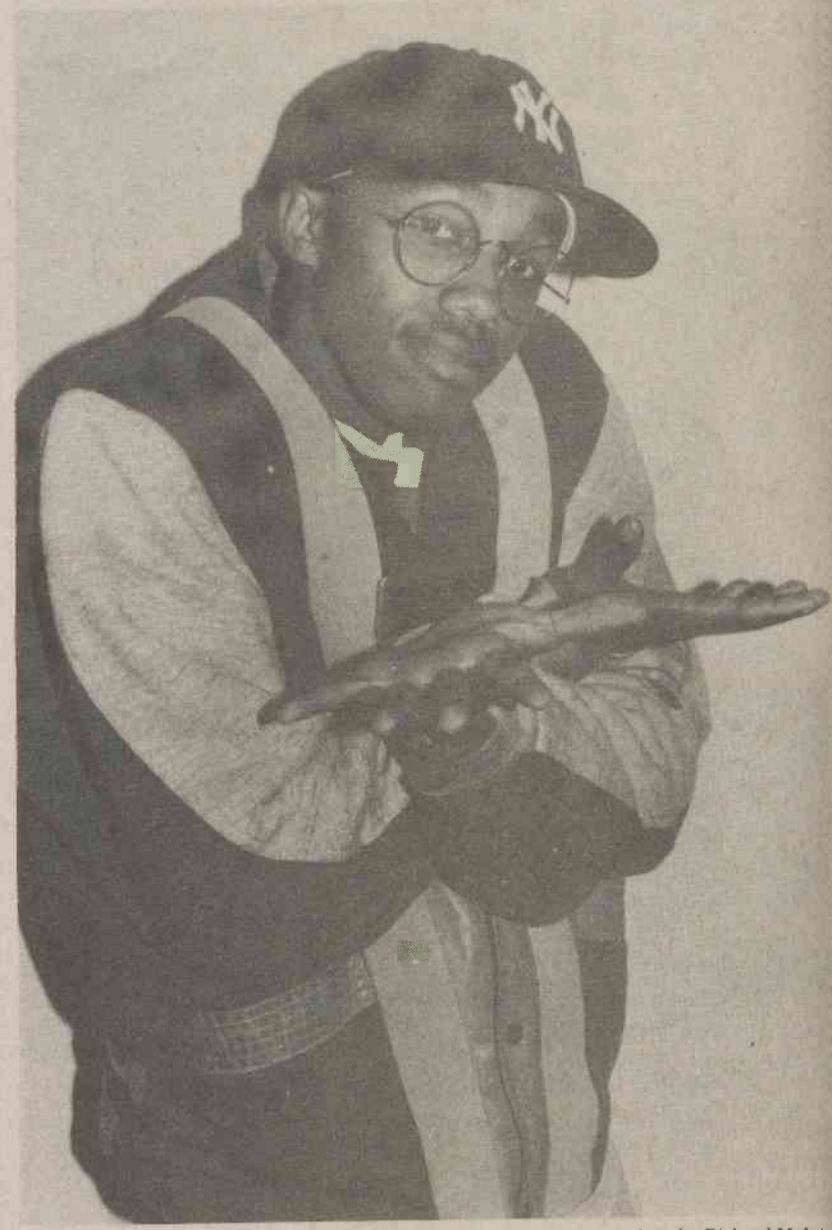

photo by Richard McIntyre

(Left above) David Troy cuts Tony Logan's hair. (Right above) Reggie Carson says, "So what" or "I don't care." (Below) Carol Brown, Kim Young, Deanette Ruff, Tonya Singletery and Tawana Butler

photo by Richard McIntyre

Prospective students attend ECSU high school day

Top high schools students from the surrounding 16 counties visited the ECSU campus on April 16. The purpose of the assembly was to announce the new ECSU Scholarship Development Program and expose prospective students to the campus.

Registration began at 9 a.m. and a formal program of speakers and entertainment, including the Gospel Choir, University Choir, and University Band, filled the two hour meeting that started at 10 a.m.. Afternoon tours of campus were conducted by the Admissions Office and other ECUS representatives.

According to Dr. Leon White, Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs, the response was very good and the event will be an annual affair.

Students from 16 counties in Vaughn Center

University Choir