

An ECSU drum major, one of the Three Amigos, leads the band during the homecoming halftime

Members of the River City Marching Troop perform a high-stepping routine to the delight of the homecoming parade spectators.

The homecoming parade was held November 7 prior to the homecoming game.

Homecoming 1987 . . .

Homecoming 1987 was a magical time for the ECSU family. This year's activities were unique and even more exciting.

On November 2, the Rapperfest was a hit with everyone who attended. The Class Clash and Splash party, which followed, were also smash hits. There was also the Gospel Jamboree, on Sunday, November 1, and the Organizational Feud and Dance on Thursday. Friday's featured event was the Mock Funeral and Pep Rally.

When the weekend rolled around, the Viking football team defeated Morgan State on Saturday, and that night Run DMC "Walked this Way" to the delight of homecoming concert goers.

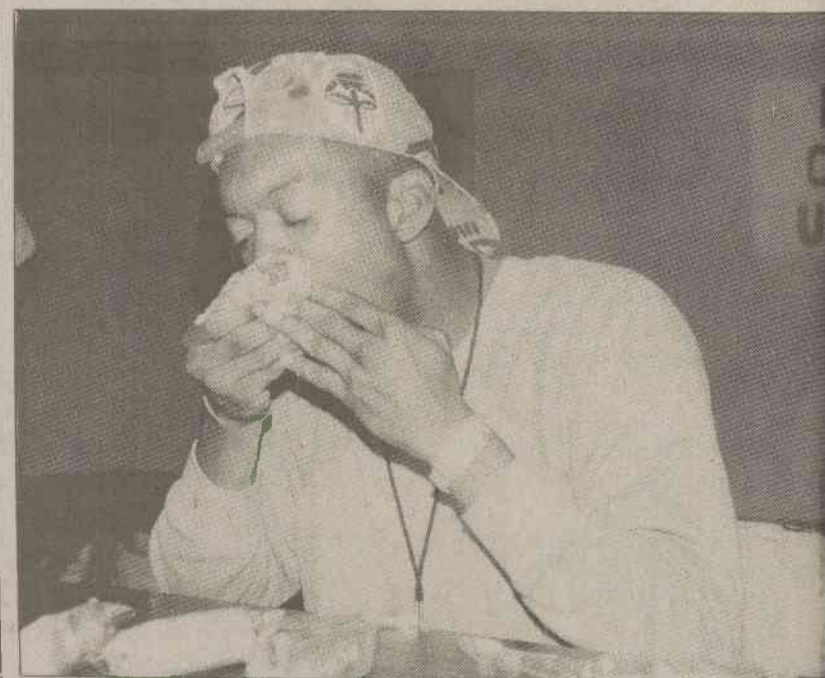

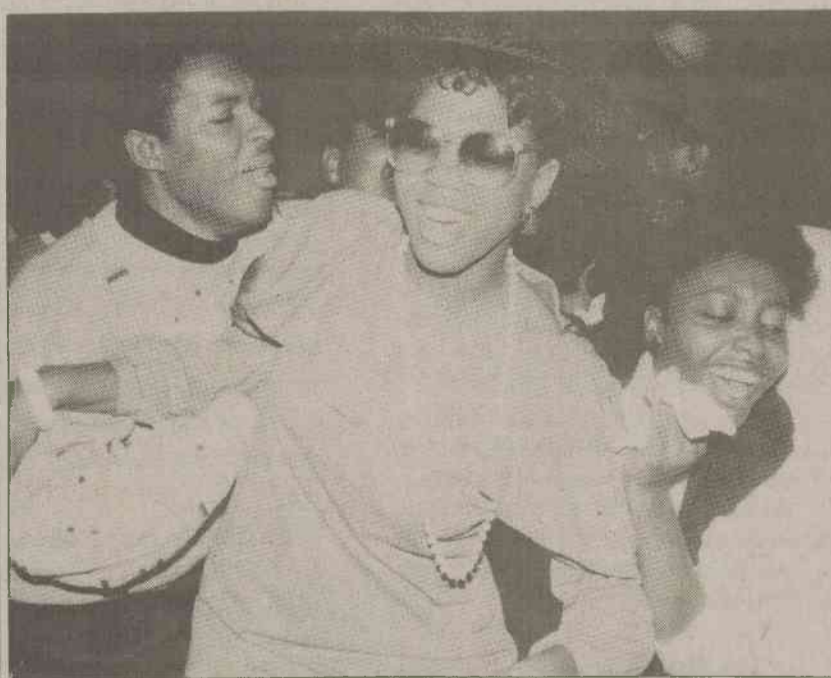

The homecoming week's events all add up to one thing: The pride is definitely back!

Alisa Robinson rides in style during the homecoming parade. Robinson was Miss Kappa Alpha Psi.

Chancellor Jimmy Jenkins proudly displays a check representing a $5,000 donation to the University by the ECSU class of 1967.

(Top left) Family members of the Morgan State mascot mourn during the mock funeral. (Top right) Greg Proctor, an ECSU drum major, stuffs his face during the twinkie eating contest at homecoming. (Left) ROTC cadets and Miss ROTC, Miracle Perry, stand proudly on the ROTC float during the homecoming parade.