Nights

By Kendra Bunch

The nights grow sooner and linger long
a different tune from summer's song No humid days and water fights but gentle breezes and colorful sights The threes are no longer green all over but some are bare with nothing to cover the leaves have fallen to the earth a season of gloominess and lack of birth The beautiful arrays of orange, yellow and red give back to life those tree which are dead
The nighttime air is calm and steady perfect for an evening stroll whenever ready The moon changes phases from full to crescent, a beautiful display of Divine Illuminescence Autumn is a lovely name altogether, no matter where you go, how far, whatever I always anticipate this season of Harvest and Dreams, this season of Thanksgiving and of Halloween Autumn nights, sweet Autumn nights my favorite time of year no other season or night to add, can ever be this dear
The nights grow sooner and linger long,
a different tune from summer's song
Though Autumn days grow short and cold
This special season I would "Crown With Gold"
