

SUCCESS TO CLASS OF 1965

A class of 189 students will be graduated from Winston-Salem State College at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, June 1. During its four years on campus, this class has done much to distinguish itself.

It has presented gifts of intrinsic worth to the campus—a leather covered pulpit Bible as freshmen, magnolia trees and other plants as sophomores, and outstanding photographs as seniors.

Class Day was one of the most dignified ever held on any campus. Both the valedictorian, Donald Benson, and the salutatorian, Marye Wells, delivered thoughtful, challenging addresses.

After this program, the class produced an added feature, a luncheon with a distinguished speaker, Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of A & T College.

Commencement will be held Tuesday morning with Dr. Delyte W. Morris, president of Southern Illinois University, as speaker. This will be a fitting climax to four fruitful and productive years at Winston-Salem State College for the Class of 1965.

Mrs. Dorothy Blount, class adviser, is to be congratulated on her work with this class. Dr. Kenneth R. Williams, president of the college, is sentimental toward the class because it arrived when he arrived as president.

Class of 1965, you have enriched the campus with your presence. The News Argus knows that you will dignify your alma mater with your achievements in the future.

Goodbye. We are happy to have met you.

New Student Council Officers (left to right) are Wilbert McKinney, Arthur F. Gray, Joseph Askew and Charles Anderson.

Science Building Nears Completion

By Edna Harris

The new Science Building near completion at Winston-Salem State College will be opened for classes in September, Dr. Alphonso R. Vick, head of the college Science Department said.

Eller Hall, the old Science Building, will be used for mathematics and other classes.

The new Science Building will be divided into three departments; first floor, physics; second floor, biology; and the third floor, chemistry.

The first floor of the building is composed of bathrooms; a lecture hall to seat 150 students; a lobby; a general physics classroom to seat 32 students; a stock room; and advanced physics laboratory to seat 16 students; offices for instructors; a seminar room used for conferences between teachers and students or just between the teachers; a machine room; a dark room; a classroom to seat 36; and a shop area used for preparation of teaching aids.

The second floor includes the upper part of the lecture hall; two general biology laboratories to seat 36 students; a stock room; an advanced biology laboratory for teachers and students to do advanced study in the field of science; a laboratory; a cold storage room used to preserve specimens; offices; a seminar room; a classroom to seat 39 students; storage room; a botany laboratory to seat 16 students; an anatomy laboratory to seat 24 students; an animal room used to keep live insects and animals; a display glass cabinet; a culture room; and a bacteriology laboratory to seat 24 students.

The third floor is composed of two general chemistry laboratories to seat 32 students each; an advanced chemistry laboratory; offices; a seminar room; a classroom to seat 39 students; an organic chemistry laboratory to seat 24 students; a physical chemistry laboratory to seat 16; and an analytical chemistry laboratory to seat 21 students.

Arthur F. Gray Is Elected President of Student Body

By Velma Lindsey

For the first time in the history of the school the Winston-Salem State College Student

On the roof of the building is an observation deck used for weather meteorology and to observe the night time sky.

The Penthouse, also located on the roof, is used for storage of equipment.

In the future the Greenhouse and Astro Dome will be added.

Architects for the new Science Building are Lashmit and Pol-

(Continued on Page Two)

Council elected its President by write-in ballot.

Arthur Gray, son of Mr. Arthur D. Gray of Atlantic City, New Jersey and the late Mrs. Louise Gray, was elected president of the Student Council.

"I hope to increase the activities in fields of the intellect and to broaden the social climate on campus," Gray said.

Gray participates in many activities on campus. He is president of the Urban Society, president of the Young Democrats Club, vice president of the NAACP, and a member of the Day Students Organization. He is an honor student and is a history major.

"I shall try to delegate more opportunities for more students to participate in more activities on campus," Gray said.

Gray hopes to promote more interest among his fellow students in the more cultural activities.

Other officers are vice president, Charles Anderson; secretary, Wilbert McKinney; treasurer, Joseph Askew, and assistant secretary, Sylvia Sprinkle.

"I would like to thank the students for displaying such confidence in me," Gray said.

Rules Announced For Campus Students

By Delois Shaw

The Winston-Salem State College administration released an analysis early this month of 16 grievances submitted by the student body in March, following a student protest.

This report indicated that school officials made a thorough study of the student protest, which called for intellectual and social improvements on campus. The students also called attention to other conditions not conducive to wholesome living and studying on campus.

Grievances submitted were divided into two areas. The first 15 dealt mainly with general improvements in the areas of food service and preparation, educational facilities, library service, educational preparation and health service. The second area was mainly concerned with social privileges.

In the first division of grievances, a number of definite proposals were made. The grievances and administration proposals in this area were:

1. Better preparation for the National Teachers Examination.

Administration proposes to organize and set up seminars to better prepare students for the National Teachers Examination.

2. Compulsory vesper attendance requirement be lifted. Students will be required to attend vesper at the usual 4 p.m. Sunday hour. Vesper must remain at this hour so that students may worship at the church of their choice at 11 a.m.

3. Improvement of educational facilities. This depends on appropriation of funds by the state legislature. The administration is studying all possibilities for further improvements.

4. Dormitory improvements. Work is underway in the area of maintenance of living quarters.

5. Efficient janitorial service. Consideration is being made to secure efficient workers. "This is not easy."

6. Nurse on duty in health center at all time. This can be accomplished only by an increase in health fees to about $38 more than is now paid. The college would have to employ at least three more nurses.

7. Doctor on duty at all time. Dr. H. Rembert Malloy, school physician, reports that two other local physicians are available for duty when he is not.

8. More intellectual and social activities. Supervised recreational activities in the city of Winston-Salem are now available to students in tennis, bowling, swimming and others.

9. More cultural activities. Funds are being appropriated for scheduling more cultural movies and entertainment. There will be faculty participation in this area.

10. Improvement of cafeteria service and better food preparation. Better food and better preparation are being sought. Students will be given additional portions of vegetables and beverages.

11. Open the library additional hours. The library will be open each Saturday afternoon from 12 noon until 5 p.m. with additional help from the faculty and students.

12. Relieve strict punishment. College disciplinary actions must be maintained. Women students who fail to sign out and in will have to be disciplined if valid reasons cannot be given.

13. Improved advisory counseling. The administration's goal is to organize better advisory committees. Transcripts will be made available to students to view and discuss.

14. Students assigned to faculty committees. Alton Barr, Student Council president, appointed Sylvia Long and Horace Webb to work closely with the faculty to discuss and find ways of dealing with student problems.

15. Privilege to return to campus after midnight. Students returning to campus after midnight will not be punished if substantial reasons for their delay are given.

Social privileges were dealt with as follows:

1. Privilege of leaves: Women students are given an extra 30 minutes on both evening and afternoon leaves. Freshmen women with "C" averages are granted an evening leave per week. Students with "B" averages and above will have additional privileges of leave.

2. Calling hours. All women students will be granted an extra minute for entertaining guests.

Other privileges that students desire are:

1. Better treatment of male students by dormitory matrons.

2. Privilege to ride in car of one's choice without submitting the name of the driver.

3. Women be allowed to wear pants all day on Saturday. "The college allows women to wear pants all day only in inclement weather," Dean of Students Ruth Mosby said.

Barr in his report to the student body said the student handbook will be revised to include the new approved privileges.

The majority of students attending the meeting expressed attitudes of dissatisfaction with the administration's proposals. Students said they felt few changes had been made.

Dean Mosby said the faculty is still studying the grievances and will do all that is possible to help the students and make the campus a better place to study and live.