

SALUTE TO A FELLOW STUDENT

Many of us are aware of the wonderful work that Arthur Gray has rendered on campus this past school year. For the benefit of those who may not know him, he is the newly elected president of the Student Council.

A 1959 graduate of Carver High School in Winston-Salem, he has been a student at Winston-Salem State College for the past three years. During this time he has done exceptional academic work.

Gray's greatest ambition was to become president of our student body. He has achieved this goal in a most unusual manner, by a write-in-vote.

When asked what his greatest shortcoming is, he replied, "My inability to use diplomacy and moderation for the attainment of certain goals which I believe to be fundamental to the cause of righteousness and the welfare of students."

He has, however, accomplished much in these years on campus. He has served as president of the junior class, president of the Young Democrats Club, president of the Urban Society, as representative to "Challenge '65" at Wake Forest College, representative to the Democratic Party banquet and spokesman on various other occasions.

He also has served as a volunteer tutor at the college. He has tutored at the North Carolina Advancement School. He was a member of the Student Council and elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

In the Student Council he initiated several activities such as more dances for students, buses to various sporting events and the memorable march downtown. He was chairman of the Preyer for Governor campaign among campus students last May. He also was instrumental in the election of local city officials.

Hats off to Mr. Arthur F. Gray, our new Student Council president!

Omegas Review Past School Year

The 1964-1965 school year was opened with a Smoker in an attempt to make the male students feel more at ease and to let them know something about the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. Out of the Smoker sprang an interested group with the aims of better scholarship and better manhood.

As the year progressed, there were a number of District Council meetings to be attended. Our delegates were proud to report that we were doing something in accord with the administration of the college. There were meetings at Orangeburg, South Carolina, Livingstone College at Salisbury, North Carolina and an Undergraduate Seminar at A & T College at Greensboro, North Carolina.

In November we held our Annual Founders Day Program and the following Sunday we gave our Achievement Program. At the program, awards were given to Anderson School football team for winning the State 3A Championship for three consecutive years. An NAACP lifetime membership was awarded to Psi Phi Chapter, the graduate chapter in Winston-Salem.

As an appreciation of the students participation in our cultural activities, Epsilon Chapter, here on campus, gave a dance and afterwards decided to make it an annual affair. Another annual affair is the Womanless Wedding, May 14, 1965.

At their last meeting, the Omegas elected officers for the year 1965-66. They are:

Basileus, Raymond Evans; vice basileus, Johnny Hinton; keeper of records and seal, Timothy McQueen; keeper of finance, Abram Liles; dean of pledges, Gilbert Smith; keeper of peace, Ezekiel Patton; and chaplain, Ezekiel Patton.

Ruby Watson

The Sophomore Class entertained the student body Sunday, May 16 by presenting the Cogitators in "Phaedra" by Racine in Fries Auditorium.

This is the tragic story of Phaedra, a young matron whose errant passions lead her to her own suicide, the death of Hippolytus, her stepson, and the heartbroken grief of her husband, Theseus.

Characters were Coleman Freeman as Hippolytus, Delois Shaw as Phaedra, Ivan Ford as Theseus, Magdalene McDowell in her campus stage debut as Aricia, Adlena Howie as chorus, Leon Barber as Theramenes, and Marjorie Wallace as Oenone.

Many students felt that Phaedra was the best campus production of the season, although "I have enjoyed all our plays immensely."

Freshman Class Has Proud 1st Year

By Joseph Askew

The class of 1968 has completed its first year with a continuous series of programs designed chiefly to show our appreciation of college life.

Our first program was a freshman vesper Nov. 8, 1964, conducted by classmates. It was rated by many "one of the most impressive programs" ever presented on campus. A reception in Kennedy Dining Hall followed the vesper.

In December, the class showed appreciation to someone who could not be forgotten.

Yes, 'twas a few nights before Christmas, and everyone knew but the faithful worker whose surprise birthday party it was.

Thus far, the class has shown unity in every large or small event on this campus. We have lived and are still living up to our chosen theme, "Excellence without excuse."

We plan to continue doing so. We intend to be the best class that ever entered this college.

My personal thank you goes to the executive staff of the class and all rising sophomores for making our first year a successful one.

Band, Choir Attract 36 New Students

James Foster

Students of the Class of 1968 were active in music on campus during the past school year. They were part of the college choir and college band which made very successful tours this spring.

The touring choir totaled 43 members, including 16 freshmen. The band carried a freshman enrollment of 20.

Freshmen choir members are: Gloria Barringer, Johnnie Jones, Patricia Robinson, Gloria Hairston, Carol Silar, Jean Wilson, Deitra Eaton, James Foster, Thomas Childs, Melvin Peters, James Peterson, Wilbur McKinney, Bernard Thacker, David Lewis, George Lipsey, and Johnson Hunter.

Lozie Ann Patterson Discusses 'Challenge '65' Held at Wake Forest

By Ruby Watson

Lozie Ann Patterson, a junior from Kinston, could be called Winston-Salem State College's "ambassador at large" to various activities off campus.

She has attended "Challenge '65" at Wake Forest College and a Democratic Party banquet and press conference featuring Pierre Sallinger, press secretary of the late President John F. Kennedy.

"Words cannot express my feelings over these experiences," Miss Patterson said. "They were beautiful."

Miss Lozie Ann Patterson relaxes.

An honor graduate of Woodington High School in Kinston, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Usher Patterson. She described various facets of "Challenge '65" as follows:

Banquet feature James Farmer, national director of CORE (Congress of Racial Equality):

"I was impressed at the interest and enthusiasm of the students. The food was delicious. The atmosphere was warm and friendly.

"Mr. Farmer spoke on the problems of the Negro in America. His speech was a challenge to me when he said:

"In this civil rights struggle there are no bystanders. We must all take an active part."

Recital with Joan Baez, famed folk singer:

"Her songs were of this nature: beautiful, romantic. Some were filled with tragedy—the sad part was that the tragedy in her songs actually happened.

"For example, one number told of the three little children who died when a church was bombed one Sunday morning in Montgomery, Ala."

Writer Louis Lomax on the Negro and communications:

"He impressed me as I listened to him. I hope to follow some of his advice."

Attitude of Wake Forest students:

"Many students attended not only to hear the speakers, but to participate in discussions with visitors to the campus as a contribution to the civil rights cause. Though they do not feel strongly enough to demonstrate (in the face of danger) or to die for the Negro, in their every day activities they try to influence their fellowmen to see the Negro as an individual, having similar likes and dislikes, feelings and aspirations to those of other men."

What did she think of Challenge '65?

"The affair was apparently a success because of much hard work and because of dear cooperation."

What did this program mean to Miss Patterson?

"First of all, it was informative and inspiring. It made me want to attend more activities of this sort.

"Most important, however, it left me with the impression that to be an individual worthy of respect and praise one must do something beneficial to society.

Miss Patterson is a major in elementary education with a minor in history. Her plans are to become a very good primary teacher and to be active in school and community affairs.

She also wants to become a good homemaker and wife and continue working several years.

lock. The cost of the Science Building is $685,000.

The area tabulation for the building is: first floor 10,500 sq. ft.; second floor 10,500 sq. ft.; third floor 10,500 sq. ft.; lobby, 450 sq. ft.; lecture hall 2,500 sq. ft.; penthouse 300 sq. ft.; and the observation platform 500 sq. ft.

Eller Hall will be remodeled and given needed and better equipment. Many changes will come to this building to make teaching a joy and learning a pleasure.

Charm Club Sponsors Charm Week on Campus

Charm Week was observed on the campus of Winston-Salem State College April 4-10, 1965. Among the special attractions for the week were the fashion show depicting correct travel by train, plane, bus, car or boat. Robin's Fashion Store furnished the apparel for each occasion.

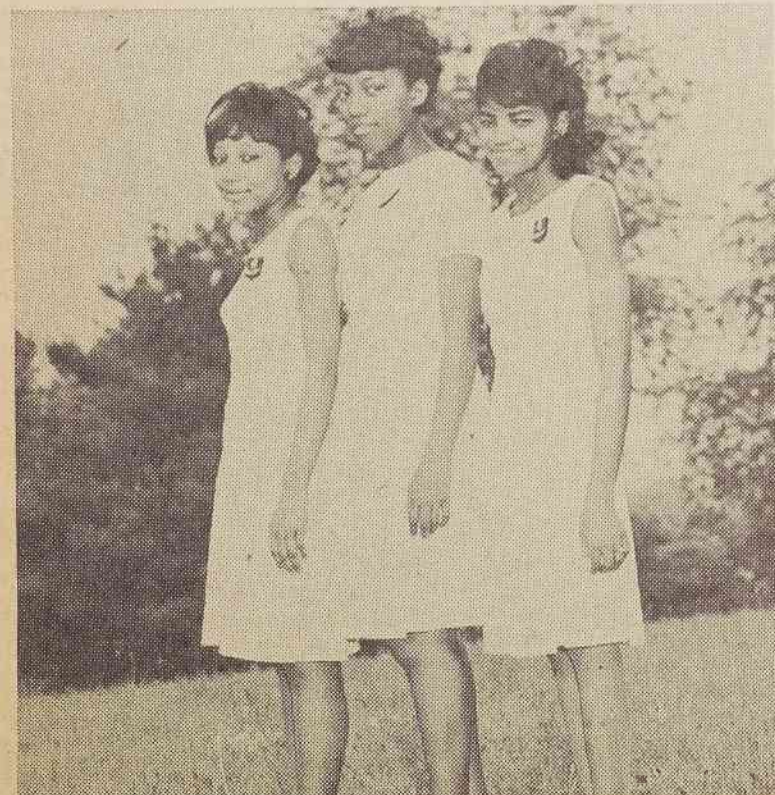

Dr. Thomas Clark was the consultant for the Health Clinic.

Mrs. Alma Frost, a beautician and a student, displayed the latest bouffant hair styles, which was observed by both male and female.

There were eight new charm-ers added to the organization at this time. They were Azzie Walls, Cowria King, Shirley Price, Joyce Eriereth, Ida Bracey, Carolyn Leggett, Annie Satterfield and Barbara Towers.

The Urbane Society of young men on the campus assisted the club with all of its activities.

The Charm Club explores the social graces.
