

Rams Bow to Eagles on Miscues

Rams Downed 24-2

North Carolina College, capitalizing on Ram fumbles and blocked punts, slushed to a 32-12 CIAA decision over Winston-Salem State at rainsoaked Bowman Gray Stadium on October 19.

Two quick scores in the first five minutes proved too much for the fighting Rams. State took the opening kickoff at its 32, and fumbled two plays later at the 40 yard line.

Two plays later, a 23-yard touchdown play from Herman Matthew to split end Martin quickly put the Eagles ahead 6-0. State took the kickoff on its own 22, and on the next play again fumbled. The Eagles took advantage of this miscue, with quarterback Matthews scampering 12 yards to score.

State received the next kickoff and marched to the visitors 45 yard line before being stalled. On fourth down Marvin Morrison sent the Eagles deep into their own territory with a booming 50 yard punt.

After two unsuccessful attempts at the Ram line, the Eagles' Thurmond Jones attempted a quick kick, but big Sherwood Kasey fell on the ball after the kick was blocked by State's Larry Bratcher, making the score Eagles 12, Rams 6.

The fired-up Ram defense set up the second Ram touchdown with a Henry Melton interception at the State 40 yard line. State quickly marched to the visitors' 11 yard line, where quarterback McNair connected with Cromwell for the tying score.

The remainder of the half was dominated by tough defensive play by both teams, and the gun sounded with the score dead locked 12 to 12.

Taking advantage of Ram miscues, North Carolina College stormed back in the second half and put the game on ice.

Both teams found the going rough in the third quarter, and slippery field conditions resulted in many fumbles and punts. Slashing runs by freshman Ben Wade and Robert Shaw highlighted the third quarter, but the Rams just couldn't seem to get everything together.

The Eagles finally broke the deadlock after recovering a fumble on the Ram five yard line, and in three plays went in to score, making it Eagles 18, Rams 12. The extra points were good making it 20 to 12.

In the fourth quarter, Jones again scored from the five yard line, climaxing a 57-yard drive. This was the Eagles' only honest score of the afternoon.

Booming punts by Marvin Morrison highlighted the bleak afternoon that saw the Rams fumble seven times.

Morrison punted 10 times for 408 yards and an excellent average of 40.8 yards per punt. Two 55-yard punts put the visitors deep into their own territory.

Praise was given to the Ram defense for holding N. C. C. Eagles to one earned score, an excellent job considering the Eagle offense is touted as one of the best in the CIAA.

NEW ALUMNI PRESIDENT TO LAUNCH NEW YEAR

The Winston-Salem State College Alumni Association has announced its yearly program under its new president. The Alumni Association endeavors to keep interest alive nationwide in each community chapter to attract students with superior scholarship abilities to Winston-Salem State College. Funds to continue the various scholarship programs will be sought through the Alumni Association's many projects. This school year at Winston-Salem State College Alumni Day and Homecoming are the principal events. Also the New York City Alumni Chapter will sponsor a Unity Day Celebration. During this year's Homecoming activities, the Alumni will crown a new Miss Alumni. The reigning Miss Alumni is Mrs. Vivian Giles of New Jersey.

The new President of the Alumni Association is Joseph O. Lowery of Winston-Salem. He succeeds the late Lafayette A. Cook also of Winston-Salem. Mr. Lowery stated that the present Alumni are loyal but could be more loyal especially the younger members. Best wishes to the Alumni Association and President Joseph O. Lowery.

Marching Rams On The Go

The Winston-Salem State College Rams, under the direction of Mr. Robert E. Shepherd, opened their marching season with a new look at Cheyney State College, Cheyney, Pa.

The marching Rams exhibited a spectacular show including pop tunes "Grazing in the Grass" and "I Can't Stop Dancing," the "Salem Song," and "Auld Land Syne."

Throughout the football season, the band will travel with the team to each destination and continue to boost the school spirit with these and many other tunes and musical cheers.

1968-69

Fall Enrollment

Total enrollment at Winston-Salem State College for the first semester of the 1968-69 academic year is 1,301.

That figure is 24 less than the same time a year ago, but nearly 150 greater than five years ago.

One of the primary reasons for the 1.8% decrease is higher admission standards, in the opinion of WSSC President Kenneth Williams.

Of this year's total enrollment, 1,161 are fulltime students; 140 are part-time. The ratio of women to men is approximately two to one, with 851 women and 450 men.

North Carolina residents number 1,069, while out-of-state students account for 232 of the enrollment. There are 260 new freshmen.

Freshman English

In accordance with the newer emphases in English language arts and skills, the freshmen English program has been revamped to promote "greater levels of efficiency in speaking, writing, reporting, and organization of material."

Mrs. R. Hauser, coordinator of the freshman English classes, said this about the new program: "We write best about that which concerns us — the more involved we are, the more fluent we become. The act of communication is personal, and therefore drill, in the older sense of the word, is relegated to individual requirements."

The program recognizes that not only do most people learn to formulate concepts and communicate ideas as receivers and producers of oral language, but also skill results from actual experience with audience reaction.

To give the students experience with an audience, they have an opportunity to perform weekly before an audience of their peers. This is every Tuesday at 1 p.m., in Fries Auditorium.

Lena Horn is making her first movie in a dozen years and playing her first dramatic role since "Stormy Weather" way back in 1942.

The Elizabeth City State "Vikings" defense put on a good show when they faced the offensive minded Winston-Salem Rams Oct. 5 in Bowman Gray Stadium. The Vikings held the Rams to a total of 69 yards and 8 first downs.

The game was won by the Vikings on miscue's set-up by the Rams. One of the Vikings' scores was set up by a fumble, another by a pass interception. Running backs, Grover Armstead and Grady Sessoms led John Walton. Their running produced 231 yards.

The Rams opened the scoring by catching Armstead in the end zone for a safety. There was no further scoring in the first quarter.

There were some defensive highlights for the Rams. In the second quarter, Wade Robinson returned a 76 yard punt to the Ram 5. The Vikings after moving the ball to the Ram 2 yard line in three plays, were stopped short by Ram defensive standout Sherwood Casey. The Rams then took over moving the ball to the Viking 45 yard line. The Rams then surrendered to the Vikings.

After nine plays, Walton passed to Maurice Harrod for a 26 yard play bringing the ball to the 1 yard line. James Sessoms then plunged in for the score. Melvin McNair broke up the attempted conversion. This closed out the first half.

Jackie Kennedy recovered a Ram fumble on the 32 yard line. Walton passed to Harrod for 15 yards. Armstead took it in from the three. The conversion was no good. Viking Darnell Moore intercepted a pass on the Ram 33 to set up another touchdown. Armstead once again carried over, this time from the 10 yard line. The conversion was no good.

The final Viking score came on a 93 yard drive in the fourth quarter. Sessoms ran three yards for the finale. The conversion attempt was once again broken up, this time by a host of defensive minded Rams.

This was the first C.I.A.A. game for the Rams. Better days are to come.

Pierre Cazenave, a Negro undertaker in New Orleans in the 1870's, originated a method of embalming so perfect that it was commonly said he had discovered the secret of the ancient Egyptians, renowned masters in that field.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS

The Sophomore Class, after an enjoyable and prosperous summer, returned to WSSC for a year of hard work. Shortly after its return, on September 25, the class met for the first time for the 1968-1969 school term. The following officers were elected: President, Randolph Mills; Vice President, John Young; Secretary, F. A. Stephens; Asst. Secretary, Jeanette McKinney, and Treasurer, Rosolyn Hill. Charles Williams, Ruth Davis, and Mary Haywood were chosen as representatives for the sophomore class on the SGA.

I would like to add that a much larger attendance is needed at class meetings if the class is to function properly and effectively this school year.

Things To See!

"IF HE HOLLERS LET HIM GO" — is a wonderfully new type of film, starring Dana Wynter, Raymond St. Jacques, Kevin McCarthy and introducing Barbara McNair as Lily. Miss McNair has reviews in Playboy and Jet. This flick is a MUST.

Watch for Lena Horne's new movie "PACH". In this movie Miss Horne plays the madame to an old wild west marshal, who is none other than Richard Widmark.

COMING SOON . . . "THE SPLIT"

A spot television rating indicates that about 22 million people watched all or part of the debut of CBS-TV's seven part series on Negro history. The series, "Of Black America," pulled a higher rating than NBC-TV's movie, "Captain Newman, M.D.," which starred Gregory Peck and Tony Curtis.

"HEADACHE, TRY THE BENCH"
