Facts About Julian Bond

Julian Bond was born in Nashville, Tennessee, on January 14, 1940. He attended primary school, a co-educational Quaker preparatory school, in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, in June of 1957. He entered Morehouse College in Atlanta in September of 1957.

Bond was a founder of the Committee on Appeal for Human Rights (COAHR), the Atlanta University Center student organization that co-ordinated three years of student anti-segregation protests in Atlanta beginning in 1960. He served for three months as Executive Secretary of the COAHR.

In April, 1960, Bond helped to found the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). That summer, he joined the staff of a newly-formed Atlanta weekly Negro newspaper, the ATLANTA INQUIRER, as a reporter and feature writer. He later became Managing Editor.

In January, 1961, Bond left Morehouse to join the staff of the Student Nonviolent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC) as Communications Director, a position he held until September, 1966. While with SNCC, Bond directed the organization's photography, printing and publicity departments.

He was first elected to a seat created by reapportionment in the Georgia House of Representatives in 1955, but was prevented from taking office in January 1966, by members of the legislature who objected to his statements about the war in Viet Nam. After winning a second election in February, 1966 — to fill his vacant seat — a special House Committee again voted to bar him from membership in the legislature.

Mr. Bond won a third election in November, 1966, and in December, 1966, the United States Supreme Court ruled unanimously that the Georgia House had erred in refusing him his seat. On January 9, 1967, he took the Oath of Office and became a member of the Georgia House of Representatives.

In the Georgia House, Mr. Bond serves as a member of the Education, Insurance and State Institutions and Properties Committees.

Mr. Bond is a member of the Board of Directors of the Southern Conference Education Fund.

He is a member of the Advisory Board of the proposed Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Library.

He holds membership in the I.P.F.U., the Southern Correspondents Reporting Racial Equality Wars (SCRREW), and is an honorary member of the Phi Kappa Literary Society of the University of Georgia in Athens, Georgia.

Bond is a member of the Executive Committee of the Atlanta NAACP, and a member of the Board of the Highlander Research and Education Center. He has been a Research Associate of the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council.

His poems and articles have appeared in Negro Digest, Motive, Rights and Reviews, Freedom ways, Ramparts, Beyond the Blues, New Negro Poets, American Negro Poetry, The Book of Negro Poetry, and other publications.

Mr. Bond is an Honorary Trustee of the Institute of Applied Politics.

He was the first Co-Chairman of the National Conference for New Politics and now serves as a member of the CNP Executive Board.

He is a Visiting Fellow of the Metropolitan Applied Research Center of New York City.

Mr. Bond, his wife and their four children live in Atlanta.
