

A Liberated Move

There are those who have been advocating Women's Liberation in the sense of freeing the mind, but progress has been very slow. However Miss Lydia Moore may have given progress a boost, and may very well be on the road to fame. Lydia is a twenty year old native of Mount Airy, N. C., and a junior here at Winston-Salem State University.

Miss Moore has written a play entitled, THE ETERNAL COMBUSTION, which is being produced by the all black Delano Stuart and Bed-Stuy Company, of Brooklyn, New York. This was the only company to which the play was submitted.

When asked, what caused her to write this play, she replied, "it was a class project for this past spring semester," under her instructor here at W.S.S.U., Mrs. Oubre. Miss Moore said that the one act play only took about three to four weeks to complete. Although Miss Moore did not consider the work a masterpiece, she consented to send the work to the Bed-Stuy Company after receiving advice and encouragement from Mrs. Oubre.

Miss Moore considers the work a satire. However, she leaves the final classification up to the individual.

The play consists of five characters, of which four are male and one female. The plot is centered on an angel who has died and returned to tell his story.

Miss Moore said that the play is expected to be in the Summer Street Series. She does not know where her play will go from there, but she is very happy that it was accepted and hopes that it will continue to be successful. Lydia also stated that the Bed-Stuy Company will be here February 2, 1972, as part of the lyceum series.

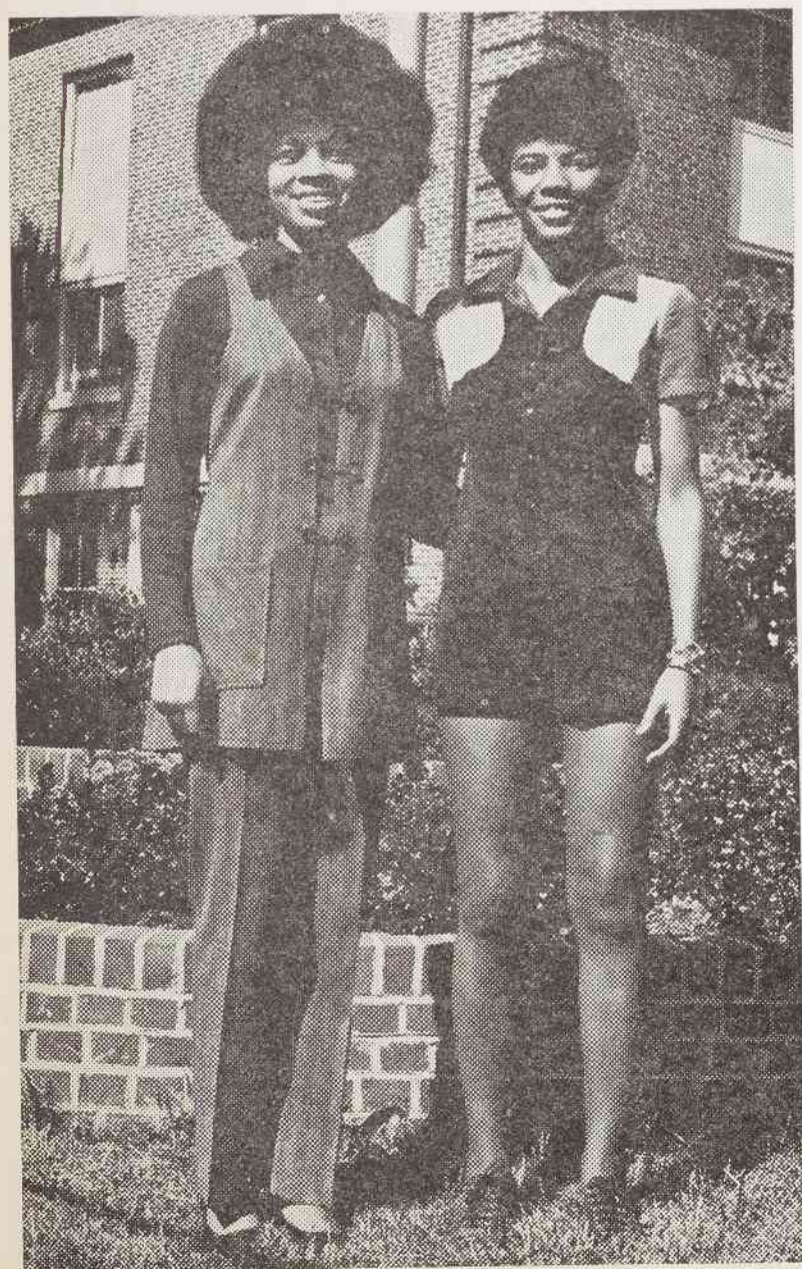

Miss Moore is an English major with a minor in dramatic arts. She is a member of the English club, drama guild, and the Honors Colloquium program. Her aspirations are to become a fashion co-ordinator, own a boutique shop, and eventually, to marry.

Now tell me, "Is that liberated enough for you?"

—Donna Ingram

—Gloria Leggett

The Reigning Queens

Misses Daisy Belle, "Miss WSSU" and Donna Ingram, "Miss Homecoming"

Y.W.C.A. ON THE MOVE!!!

Young Women Committed to Action is a new organization on campus; however, it is a national organization for the dissolving of inequality among races and the advocacy of freedom fighters. has resulted, on the national level have resulted, on the national level in a $10,000 contribution to Angela Davis to assist her in preparing her defense.

The members of the Y.W.C.A at State are beginning to involve themselves in community projects of Winston-Salem. Our initial project is involved with underprivileged children in the community. Another project this group sponsors is baby-sitting services for the faculty and staff members.

Conscientious involvement in current affairs, nationally and community-wise, will be the agenda for the year. Young Women Committed to Action solicits participation from all W.S.S.U. women. They feel it will benefit you as they hope you will benefit the organization.

—Patricia Motley

"Soul Power For The Hour"

Go
Rams
Go!!

MISS THELMA CAISON

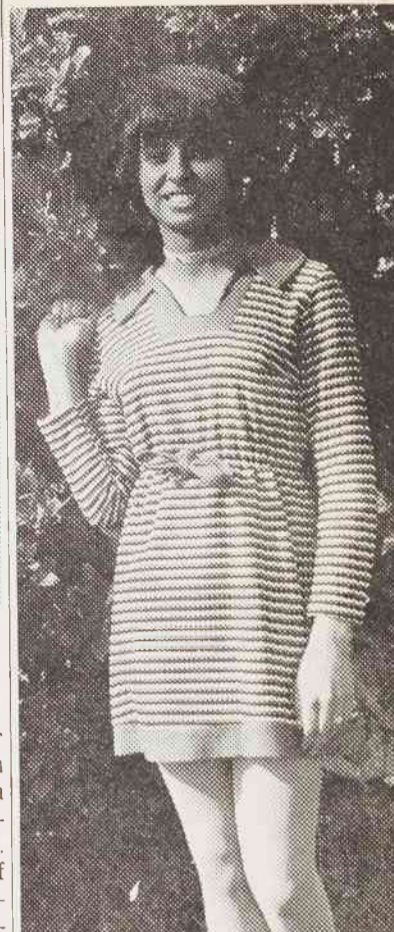

WINSTON-SALEM STUDENT STUDIES AT MEHARRY

Miss Thelma Caison, a senior biology major at Winston-Salem State University participated in a summer Biomedical Science Program at Meharry Medical College. Miss Caison took eight weeks of intensive study courses which included bio-organic chemistry, college mathematics, and other biology courses designed to prepare her for entering medical school. In addition Miss Caison's schedule included courses designed to improve her vocabulary, reading speed, comprehension, as well as courses that introduced her to various branches of the health profession.

Miss Caison, who was one of twenty-one students from fifteen colleges across the country, is a native of Brooklyn, New York, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Caison.

Kool & The Gang WILL TAKE 'DA' WEIGHT!

October 30
At The Convention Center

MISS LINCOLN COUNTY

Miss Lincoln County

Miss Bessie Foster, a sophomore history major, is the new Miss Lincoln County. The first Black to win the title, she was selected over nine other contestants. The competition was not new to her, however. In last year's contest, Miss Foster emerged as 1st runner-up and Miss Congeniality."

A Lincolnton native, Miss Foster is a graduate of East Lincoln High School where she was voted "Who's Who Among High School Students in America." Active during her high school years, she continues to participate in community and church activities.

Here at W.S.S.U., Miss Foster is a member of the YWCA, Young Americans Club, Social Science Club, and Pegram Hall dormitory council. She is also secretary of the sophomore class and is presently reigning as Miss Alpha Phi Omega.

Miss Foster feels that she is not only representing Lincoln County but W.S.S.U. as well.

—Vincent Hill

JOB RECRUITERS ON CAMPUS

Recruiters on campus for November will meet with all interested students in the Placement Office, 3rd floor, Blair Hall.

Tuesday, Nov. 2—University of California at Los Angeles, Graduate School, Science Majors — 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Wednesday, Nov. 3 — General Time Corporation, Westclox Division, Athens, Ga. — 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Friday, Nov. 12 — University of Michigan, Ann Arbor — Graduate School 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.