

Mayor Howard Lee Speaks On Behalf of Harrambi

The ballroom of the Student Union Building was the scene of an auspicious dinner gathering on the night of October 3. Democratic candidates for several different offices in Forsyth County and interested voters met there to commemorate the success of Harrambi, an organization promoting black awareness and participation in politics and business. This particular occasion was called Unity Night.

Special guest for the evening was the mayor of Chapel Hill, N. C., Howard Lee, one of the first and few black mayors in the U. S. Mayor Lee spoke on the present volatile political situation in America where "even undesirable candidates can win." He viewed this election year as one of "super patriotism" which causes emotion rather than logic to rule people's thoughts.

Speaking directly to the candidates present at the gathering, Mayor Lee said that they were optimists who have a real battle to win. He advised the people that they can and must change directions and that they must remove the walls that divide them.

The mayor related to the people the folly of spending money to send men on "moon vacations" and spending lives as well as money on a war that the people do not want to fight. In this election year, the people "want a government that can and will end the war." Lee believes that it is time for power to be put back into the hands of the people and that politics cannot be left only to professional politicians.

Allen Elected President Of Freshman Class

By Dorothy Flowers

The new Freshman Class officers for the 1972-73 school year were elected Wednesday, October 3 during elections in front of the Alumni Building. Nominations for the various positions were held the previous week at the first Freshman Class meeting of the year.

Winning the election were Thomas "Podo" Allen, president; Joseph Daniels, Jr., vice president; Vaniece Johnson, secretary and Miss Freshman; and Northal Gaddy, treasurer. The four SGA representatives elected were Mike Battle, Vichu Wright, Grant Gilliam and Arthur Amos.

Allen, a sociology major from Winston-Salem, says his main concern as president this year is to "bring about unity and awareness and an overall Black attitude. . . ." He stresses that he plans to "make himself available to the students at their discretion." He feels that it is necessary for him to recognize his obligation as a student but also as president.

A music major, Daniels, as vice president, plans to "help the president out in every way possible to keep the Freshman Class totally together." Daniels' main reason in running was so that he could "act as a mediator between students, faculty and staff for the Freshman Class."

At the conclusion of his speech, Mayor Lee reiterated the importance of unity among people; for as he said, "Out of unity comes strength." He concluded by saying that 1972 must be the year when people start to believe.

Mayor Lee received a standing ovation. Others present at the $10 a plate affair were Chancellor Williams, Mayor Franklin Shirley of Winston-Salem, alderman and mayor pro tem Carl H. Russell and Curtiss Todd who is seeking a district judgeship.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was James Warren, president of Harrambi. The gathering was attended by about 100 people.

A double winner, secretary and Miss Freshman, Vaniece Johnson feels that through winning, she can fulfill herself as a person both socially as well as publicly. A nursing major from Asheville, Vaniece hopes to "talk to students to find out how they feel on issues that need to be resolved."

Northal Gaddy, a music major from Winston-Salem, feels that as treasurer, he will "be stricter on class dues because in the past the system's been shaky." Each month, he plans to send out a sheet breaking down the distribution of Freshman class money. "It will be available in every freshman dormitory," he emphasizes.

All of the SGA representatives plan to talk to other freshmen and get opinions and suggestions on improving the campus.

Mike Battle, a sociology major from Trenton, N. J. and Vichu Wright, a music major from Winston-Salem, expressed interest in having a convenient place, such as a conference building, to "talk about grievances and problems."

Grant Gilliam, a business administration major from Henderson, extends his services to the students at all times. He stresses the need for "student co-operation in working with the SGA in bettering our campus." He and Arthur Amos, an English major from Winston-Salem, plan to inform freshmen of class and campus happenings at Freshman Class meetings.

Gardner Reviews Common Cause

Four students recently represented Winston-Salem State University at a meeting of Common Cause, a new citizens' lobby, at N. C. State University in Raleigh.

The purpose of the meeting was to acquaint students with Common Cause. The founder, John Gardner, stated that while few people are involved in the actual lobbying process, their membership numbers in the thousands. CC is designed to "fight battles" and a large membership increases the organization's lobbying power.

The issues CC concerns itself with must be those which can be joined, where some legislation is moving and action can be taken, Gardner said. Priorities

A KAP Production

Kappa Alpha Psi Sponsors Show

The members of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity will sponsor a talent show on October 26 to raise funds to provide a "memorable Thanksgiving" for families in the black community.

Persons having a talent and wishing to participate are invited to join the cast. Others are asked to support the show. It will be held in Whitaker Gymnasium.

The Kappas are also organizing a campus day camp program for young brothers in the community. The program, taking place each Saturday, will consist of arts and crafts, games, and some type of sports activity. Anyone interested in working with the program should contact a member of Kappa Alpha Psi.

Kappa Polemarch, Warren "Bird" Lee, called both events an "effort to promote a better campus-community relationship."

presently are: the Vietnam war, equal rights, environment, and an open and responsive government.

The students, Melvyn Brown, Rochelle Hilliard, Karen McCoy, and Marilyn Roseboro were accompanied by Dr. Marie Denning.

DSI Art Exhibit

The Winston-Salem Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta held an Afro-American art show in the Benton Convention Center. This show opened Oct. 8 through the 15th.

The art exhibition contained "between 50 and 75 pieces of, primarily, painting and sculpture of historical and contemporary significance".

Works were also displayed by nationally known artists who are natives of North Carolina. Some of these were J. Eugene Grisby, a former resident of Charlotte, Romare Bearden of New York, a former resident of Charlotte, John Biggers, a former resident of Gastonia, Charles Alston of New York, formerly from Charlotte, and Selma Burke of Mooresville. James T. Diggs, Hayward Oubre and Roland S. Watts all presented works in this exhibit also.

This project was a very, very interesting one and it was funded by a grant from the North Carolina Arts Council.

The art department has also informed The News Argus that the show of paintings by local artists at the main branch of the public library includes works of Diggs and Oubre.
