Q. Why do female faculty members of the business department have to wear dresses? B.A.C.

A. According to Dr. Jeraline Harven, chairman of the business dept., there are no rules governing the dress of the faculty members. Some people in business, Dr. Harven included, feel the dress should be indicative of the profession, and business has remained rather straight-laced and conventional.

Women students must wear dresses because they represent office workers. Dr. Harven said in cold weather they may wear slacks to work, but they must change when they arrive.

Q. Why has the elevator in Blair Hall not been inspected since 1969? The sheet says it should be inspected every six months. K.M.

A. Mr. Willie Grissom, University business manager, told The News Argus that the elevator is inspected monthly by Otis Elevator Company. The date on the sheet indicates the date of installation and original inspection. It has not been changed because no report is filed unless something is wrong with the elevator.

Q. What are the team's chances of going to the CIAA? C.T.

A. The team's chances are slim. If the Rams defeat Shaw on November 11th and Fayetteville defeats J. C. Smith on the same day, this would put Fayetteville, J. C. Smith, and Winston-Salem State in a tie for first place. The decision would then be in the hands of the coaches to vote for the team they'd like to represent the southern division.

PHI ALPHA THETA MEETS

The Phi Alpha Theta, national honor society in history, held its annual initiation early this month in Coltrane Hall. Seven persons were initiated: Lavonia Wilon, Wanda Vincent, Prince Jernigan, Gilbert Cooley, Gregory Squires, Melvyn Brown, and Mr. William Rice, social science department chairman.

"MISS HOMECOMING"

Queens Reign In Ramland

By Karen McCoy

Misses Clennis J. Noble and Delores Massey will reign over this year's homecoming festivities as Miss WSSU and Miss Homecoming, respectively.

Clennis Noble is a 5'8", twenty-one year old senior English major from Raleigh, N. C. She is the younger of two children. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Winston also of Raleigh. She is the basileus of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. Clennis was recently chosen to be listed in Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities and is a member of the Lyceum Committee.

In the near future, she plans to teach and later further her education by getting a Master's Degree in library science. Creative writing is Clennis' hobby, although she admits she does not get the chance to exercise this ability much due to her class schedule.

Delores Massey is a junior from Charlotte, N. C. She is a twenty-year-old English major and the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Massey.

Versatility is one of Delores' many assets, which is evident in her hobbies. Her hobbies include playing the piano and organ and singing. She is a member of the YWCA and the English Club.

Listed atop all her future plans is her desire to teach English. If she does not teach, however, she is also considering a career in journalism.

Clennis and Delores were chosen during the spring semester of the last school term to represent Winston-Salem State University as beauties for 1972-73. They were crowned before students, faculty, administration and attending persons in a special coronation ceremony Thursday night, November 9, in Whitaker Gymnasium.

These queens will also reign over the annual homecoming parade. Special recognition will be given to Clennis and Delores Saturday, November 11, during halftime of the homecoming game when the Rams take on the Shaw Bears in Bowman Gray Stadium.
