

Cheryl Edley a Welcome Addition

By Tezra Ellis

The Wesley Foundation is an organization that was founded at WSSU during the 1986-87 academic year for students who could benefit from a religious organization on campus.

Its objective is to provide an opportunity for students, faculty, and community residents to grow and mature in faith through counsel, worship service, and fellowship with others.

The Wesley Foundation is led by Cheryl Edley, a native of Lynchburg, Va. Edley has a B.A. in Psychology and Sociology from Duke University, as well as an Educational Specialists's Degree from James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va.

It was at James Madison that she learned of the position of Director of Methodist Campus Ministry at WSSU. At the beginning of her final year in grad school, she applied for and received a Crusade Scholarship (sponsored by United Methodist Churches for minorities in graduate school.) Through the Crusade Scholarship program she was introduced to the "U.S.-2" program. "U.S.-2" is a voluntary missionary program for young adults. It allows a graduate to serve at a school anywhere in the United States for two years.

Her tenure here at WSSU will end at the conclusion of the spring semester, however, she will remain at WSSU, maintaining her position with the Wesley Foundation as well as counseling students in the counseling center located on the third floor in the Hauser Student Union.

Off Broadway Play Delights S.U.

By Linda McKnight
Staff Reporter

On February 29, at 8 pm, the Kenneth R. Williams Auditorium of Winston-Salem State University rang out with the sounds of the longest running black off-broadway musical "Mama, I Want To Sing." The musical was written by Vy Higginsen and Ken Wydro and was under the direction of Rudolph V. Hawkins.

The story centered around the main character Doris Winter, a young black daughter of a minister who discovers while in the church that she has a singing talent. When her father dies, Doris decides to strike out on her own to develop this talent. She is faced with many decisions which include a non-supportive mother who would rather have Doris develop herself as a singer in the church.

Without her mother's blessings, but with those of Sister Carrie, a friend of the family, Doris sets out to make it big. She does this and returns home to her mother and the church so that they can share in her fame and fortune. The story is told by a radio station disc jockey recapturing the development of Doris Winter as a famous singer.

This was a musical well worth its price. The songs and messages in the story had the audience sitting on the edge of their seats as they laughed and cried with the Winter family.

Hats off to the Lyceum Committee for bringing this treat to WSSU!

Debate For Candidates Scheduled

All the candidates in the 1988 race for the Republican Party nomination for Lieutenant Governor will meet in a televised debate in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Former Congressman James Gardner, Rocky Mount; former Senator Wendell Sawyer, Greensboro; and Representative William Boyd, Asheboro, will appear before a panel of North Carolina's distinguished journalists to debate the issues of the 1988 campaign.

This televised debate is hosted by the Winston-Salem Jaycees and will be held on March 30, 1988, 7:00 p.m. at Brendle Recital Hall on the campus of Wake Forest University.

The debate will be moderated by Dr. Donald Schoonmaker, Professor in the Department of Politics at Wake Forest University. The panel of journalists will be Rob Christensen of The Raleigh News and Observer, Seth Effron of The Greensboro News and Record, Art Eisenstadt of The Winston-Salem Journal and Rick Amme of WXII Television - Channel 12.

Garry Whitaker with the Winston-Salem Jaycees states, "The Jaycees are very excited about the positive response from the journalists throughout the State. This televised debate should be exciting and informative for the voters. The Winston-Salem Jaycees previously held a similar debate on January 25, 1988, for the Democratic Party candidates which was well attended and very informative."

Kappa's Register Voters

By Wilton Donnell, President
Pan Hellenic Council

With the success of Jesse Jackson evident, the Pan Hellenic Council would like to recognize and thank the brothers of the Delta Chi Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi for their efforts in voter registration. The "Nupes" have been working in conjunction with the National Urban League and the NAACP on this and other programs and now they can say that they have done their part in the election process.

Joe Williams Appears at WSSU

Winston-Salem State University presented blues singer Joe Williams in concert at 8 p.m. Monday, March 21, in the Kenneth R. Williams Auditorium. The concert is the fifth presentation in the Performing Arts Series of Lyceum Cultural Events.

A native of Cordele, Georgia, Joe Williams was reared in Chicago. At 17, he began singing with a dance orchestra on the South Side. Through the years, he performed with such legendary musicians as Red Saunders, Pete Johnson, Lionel Hampton and Count Basie.

At 69, Williams is a legend himself, who maintains a busy schedule and a loyal following. He plays clubs, jazz festivals and schools and has never stopped recording. His 1984 album, "Nothin' but the Blues," won a Grammy award. In addition to his achievements as a musical artist, Williams is also an accomplished actor. His numerous acting credits include "Lou Grant" and the daytime soap opera, "As the World Turns." He currently has a recurring role as Claire Huxtable's father on prime time's number one program, "The Cosby Show."
