

NEWS NOTES

Companies offer help at November job fair

By Georgellen Brown

STAFF REPORTER

Representatives from IBM, the Central Intelligence Agency, Wachovia Bank and Prison Services were among the companies that participated in the WSSU job fair Nov. 1-2 in Whitaker Gymnasium.

The first day was Job Information Sharing Day. Students from WSSU and other colleges and high schools around the Triad had a chance to talk to any of the companies represented.

Interviews for the seniors were the second day. For those seniors nervous about the interviewing process, the Career Placement Center set up workshops to give the students a lot of helpful hints.

Nursing program accredited

STAFF REPORT

The Division of Nursing and Allied Health has been granted continuing accreditation for an eight-year period (1988-1996).

The Board of Review of the Council of Baccalaureate and Higher Degree Program (National League for Nursing) voted unanimously on the Nursing Program during its meeting in New York, October 20. The program was first accredited by the NLN in December, 1972, and received continuing accreditation in April, 1980 for eight years.

Nursing faculty attends convention

STAFF REPORT

Two Winston-Salem State University faculty members attended the North Carolina Nurses Association Convention which was Oct. 26-29 in Greensboro. Yvonne Paul, Assistant Professor, was a delegate for District III of the NCNA, and currently serves as editor of the newsletter Pulselline.

Mrs. Kathleen Siegle, a new faculty member, planned and carried out a presentation sponsored by the Gerontological Council entitled, "From Bedside to Boardroom -- Helping Nurses Advocates."

Fourth speech contest held

By Georgellen Brown

STAFF REPORTER

The department of English and Foreign Languages sponsored its fourth speech contest Oct. 27, in the Hall-Patterson Communications Building.

The theme for the contest was education, and each of the eight contestants did an excellent job.

First place went to Ronald L. Colbow, a sophomore, spoke on "Computer Aided/Institution-A Trend of the Future." Second place went to Kelly Gibbs, also a sophomore. Her topic was "Education-A Necessity." Third place went to another sophomore, Marvin Johnson. Johnson's topic was "Problems in the American Educational System."

No one was a loser. Everyone who participated did a superb job.

Others receiving honors included: Jacqueline A. Ingram, Felicia Williams, Christopher L. Hopkins, Jonathan L. Robinson and Lydia Barber.

Education is an important factor in each of our lives. Contestants researched their topic and gave their own views on how education can or has played a big part in their own lives. A lot of valuable information was passed on from the speakers to the audience, and each person attending should have taken each speech in stride.

So, to all of you who spoke in the Fourth Speech Contest, Congratulations!

Educational loans still available

PRESS RELEASE

Three educational loan programs for North Carolina residents attending colleges in or out of state and for non-residents attending colleges in North Carolina are still available through College Foundation Inc.

One program is for dependent or independent students and is based on financial need. One is for independent self-supporting students and is not based on financial need. The third is for parents of dependent students and is not based on financial need.

For more information, write College Foundation Inc., P.O. Box 12100, Raleigh, NC 27605-2100 or call 919/821-4771.

Fifth speech contest

By Mia Wilson

ARGUS EDITOR

Jennie P. Cornatzer, a sophomore, was the first-place winner in the fifth WSSU speech contest sponsored by the Speech component of the Department of English and Foreign Languages.

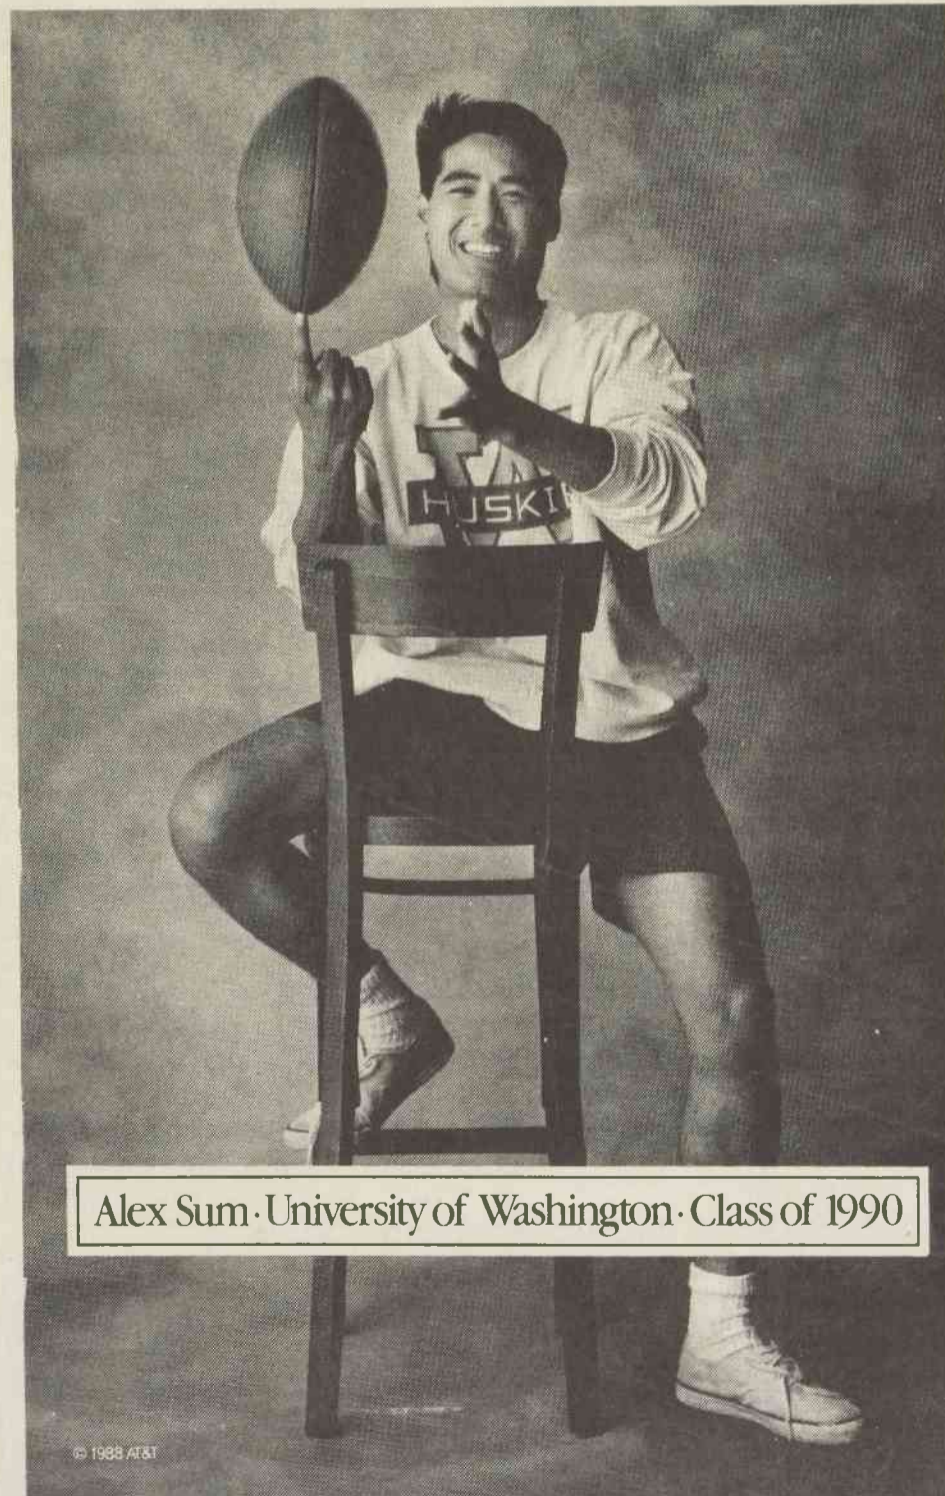

The theme of the speech was education, and Ms. Cornatzer caught the judges' attention with her speech on education in the aspect of public schools.

Second-place prize went to Linda McKnight, a junior, and third place went to Glynis A. Whitted, a sophomore.

Other participants included Robert Banks, Charles Davis III, Larry Dulin, Earlene Sapp and Tanya Wiley.

Dr. Fred Eady and Professor William Burke were the speech coordinators.

"I wasn't rubbing it in—I just wanted Eddie to know the score of last night's game."

Alex Sum · University of Washington · Class of 1990

Go ahead and gloat. You can rub it in all the way to Chicago with AT&T Long Distance Service. Besides, your best friend Eddie was the one who said your team could never win three straight.

So give him a call. It costs a lot less than you think to let him know who's headed for the Playoffs. Reach out and touch someone.®

If you'd like to know more about AT&T products and services, like International Calling and the AT&T Card, call us at 1 800 222-0300.

AT&T

The right choice.