

Campus Happenings

Senior Class officers Kia Huff, Pres.; Dorinda Patterson, Miss Senior; Ronald Vample, Vice-Pres.

Senior Class Officers Look Forward to Graduation

by Connell Cuthbertson
Staff Writer

community in her chosen profession.

The Class of 1993 will be the 101st class to graduate from Winston-Salem State University.

The class is headed by Reidsville native Kia Huff, a mass communication major and a member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. Her future goals include owning her own business, attending graduate school and serving the Ron Vample of Lumberton, is vice president of the Senior Class. Vample is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and a mass communication major. His future goal is to attend graduate school.

Miss Senior Dorinda Patterson a native of Greensboro, is an art major, who plans to do free lance art and work in her own studio.

Junior Class Officers Need More Support From Members

by Tonya Woods
Staff Writer

"I've certainly seen growth and development among these students. They have a better understanding of teamwork and they are able to listen to the ideas of others," explained Dr. Fred Eady, a member of the Department of English and Foreign Languages, who also serves as the advisor of the junior class.

As energetic students of Winston-Salem State University, the junior class officers are prepared to take on the 1992-93 school year with a lot of hard work and enthusiasm. But the class officers cannot provide for the junior class without the support of WSSU's juniors.

"We all need to come together as one unit and voice our opinions as a group," said Nicole McMillan, Miss Junior - 1992.

The Class of 1994's Executive Cabinet is comprised of the following juniors: Serena Mumford, president; Ronald Benson "El", vice-president; Kendra Alston, corresponding secretary; Dale Nelson, recording secretary; Monica Jenkins, treasurer; Carmen Parker, historian; Sherry Mangum, chaplain; Nicole McMillan, Miss Junior; and Antwan Farris, Robin Mack, Yolanda Williams and Cassandra Boyd, serve as class representatives.

All of the officers have expressed a need for unification within the class. "If we are unified, we can accomplish more as a class," said Alston. "We hope to become a more unified junior class so that we can provide better activities for our class and I hope that participation increases."

As class president, Mumford has big plans for her fellow classmates. She has expressed the need for members of the Class of 1994 to become more

See Juniors, Page 6

Freshman Class Adjusts To College Life

by Tamara Puddy
Staff Reporter

Unified, studious, and definitely fresh are just a few adjectives that describe the Class of 1996, better known as "the Freshman".

It's been easy for them to come together and unite as a super class, since most of them live in Atkins and Colson Halls, which are located next to one another.

Having high hopes and plans for going places, the freshman knew they would need "experienced drivers at the 'steering wheel' of their executive board.

The 1992-93 Freshman Class officers are: Christa Flood, president; Charlene Pretty, vice president; Maricia Harrington, corresponding secretary; Michele Pugh, recording secretary; Stevette Barnette, Miss Freshman; Towanda Macon, treasurer; Frankie Fuller, parliamentarian; Errika Gale, historian; Sherise Allen, chaplain; Crystal Baker, administrative assistant; Antonio Fulton, Victor Jackson, Kevin McCullough, Neshia Morgan, and Calsine Pitt are class representatives; and Ms. Elvira "Becky" Caldwell, a member of the Math and Computer Science faculty, is class advisor.

According to President Flood, "The Freshman class is going to have a "hyped" year. Our class council and the class itself has a lot of spirit."

The freshman class showed that spirit at the beginning of the semester with a fashion show and a dance for Freshman Day. The freshman had a great turn out for both the show and the dance, which proved that the members of the class are willing to come out and support each other.

Many of the officers felt the need for involvement in the student body.

Stevette Barnette said, "I felt that I would be a good representative for the freshman class, and now that I am Miss Freshman, I feel more involved and adjusted to college life."

Barnette, a recipient of the WSSU Centennial Scholarship, and a member of the junior

See Freshman, Page 6