

THE

February 1994

Winston-Salem State University

NEWS

ARGUS

NEWS BRIEFS

New Residence Hall

The Office of Residence Life has not released an official statement concerning the opening date for the new residence hall. The contractors have not finished the construction phase of the building process. The inclement weather during January and February slowed down the construction schedule. At presstime, the residence hall did not belong to Winston-Salem State University because it has not been completed.

Making A Move?

College students graduating this year may want to consider moving to Boise, ID; Nashville, TN; or even Springfield, MO. Believe it or not, these are the three most popular large US cities Americans moved to in 1993, reports Ryder, the nation's largest truck rental and leasing company, in its annual survey of where Americans move each year.

If looking for a smaller city to move to, graduates should consider, Grand Junction, CO; Jackson, TN; and Billings, MT. These are the top three most popular small cities Americans moved to in 1993, the survey reports. Ryder lists small cities as those with less than 100,000 residents.

Ranked by the ratio of inbound to outbound moves, Charlotte, NC was ranked number 16 in the 20 most popular destinations with populations over 100,000. Wilmington, NC was ranked number 10 in the 20 most popular destinations with populations under 100,000.

INSIDE

Spanish Club	page 3
Chi Eta Phi Sorority	page 4
P. Ransom & K. Horne	page 6
CIAA Overview	page 6
Black History.....	page 7

20,000 Fans Expected to Attend 1994 CIAA Tournament

BY PRESLYN YOUNG
Staff Writer

Welcome to Winston-Salem CIAA FANS!!!

For several months the City of Winston-Salem has been preparing for the over 20,000 fans that will be in our city during the week of February 20 - 27th. City representatives spent several hours and lots of money on persuading the CIAA Tournament to come to our fair city. Since the CIAA made its decision, Winston-Salem residents have been talking about how our city will be gripped in "Tournament Fever" the latter part of February. That time has finally arrived!

The CIAA Tournament is said to be the biggest convention that Winston-Salem has ever hosted! For the next three years, the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association is scheduled to have its basketball tournament at the Lawrence Joel Veterans Memorial Coliseum. The Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce has projected that approximately $8 million will be added to Winston-Salem's local economy each year the tournament is played here.

The CIAA is composed of 14

Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) from Maryland to North Carolina. Founded in 1912, it is the oldest black athletic conference in the nation. It is also the largest Division II conference in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

Along with the tournament's games, several exciting activities have been planned throughout the week. A fashion show, art exhibits, concerts, a cheerleading exhibition, shopping tours, alumni dances and a golf tournament are examples of some of the many activities that have been planned for CIAA fans. (For more specific information about activities, see accompanying story.

CIAA Happenings

"Artistic Legacy: Collection of Art from CIAA Schools"

Diggs Gallery, Winston-Salem State University

During Tournament Week, the gallery will be opened from 9 am - 5 pm.

Contact: Brooke Linga at the Gallery, 750-2458.

"African-Americans in Early Salem"

Old Salem Visitor Center
Call: 721-7337

Coca-Cola Road Show

(Fun, participatory activities including music, video games and hands-on sports activities)

Education Building at the Winston-Salem Fairgrounds

Tuesday, 3-11pm; Wednesday, Thursday & Friday, 3-10 pm; and Saturday, 10 am - 6 pm

"African-American Contributions to Science"

SciWorks
400 W. Hanes Mill Road
Call: 767-6730

continued on page 4

Parking: The Saga Continues

STAFF REPORT

Parking is still a very big problem here at Winston-Salem State University. The questions most faculty and staff members and students ask are, "When will the problem be solved?" and "Is there anyone on campus that is slightly concerned about the situation?"

One of the main reasons for this problem is that some drivers still haven't bothered to purchase a parking decal. The decals cost $50 for faculty and staff and $30 for students.

Many commuting students feel that they pay too much for a parking decal and still have to walk across campus to their classes. This is just an excuse. This campus isn't that large. At most colleges and universities, commuting students have to park in peripheral lots and walk to the main campus.

Robin Curtis, a sophomore Psychology major said, "I feel there is not enough parking spaces for commuting students. The parking lots that are designated for commuting students are far away. I feel those lots should be for the boarding students."

"I don't like the parking situation. They (security) are trying to limit the parking spaces. I feel that if I pay $30 for a parking decal, I should be able to park where I want," said Tonya Brewer, a junior Mass Communications major.

Faculty and staff members feel if they are forced to purchase a parking sticker, they should be able to park in designated faculty/staff parking lots and spaces. This does not happen because most students looking for a parking space, park their

Please see page 5