The Fashion Police Are Watching You

Ladies and Gentlemen of WSSU, The Fashion Police must issue citations for FASHION VIOLATIONS that go against the principles of Society! They have violated Code 302; 303 Article 1. These violators must be stopped.

You are in violation if you wear:

1. Green and blue plaid pants and a vest to match with a tan muscle shirt. (now where did that tan come from?)
2. Brown corduroy pants with a blue and pink sleeveless sweater vest and a light blue jean shirt underneath. Boy, you really messed up those colors!
3. Orange cut-off shorts and knee high boots! (Tacky)
4. A black lingerie nightgown should not be worn to the cafeteria! (Keep it in bedroom!)
5. Don't wear clothes so tight your cellulite shows. (It's nasty).
6. A grayish-silver pajama suit with a black halter top. Now it was cute when TLC did it in their video "Creep" but they get paid, you're just getting played.

7. No more see through clothes that vividly show underwear.
8. A straw hat with an Adidas windsuit with the pants pulled up to your knees with Timberland boots.

Last but not least, hair violations:

1. Ladies make sure that your weave ball looks real.

Just a reminder for those of you who don't know what the weather forecast calls for before going out to class in the morning:

1. Yes it's warm but it's not daisy dukes time! When it's still 40 degrees in the morning and you have to wear a jacket until 2 p.m. then you know it's not for those dukes yet!

Senioritis: A Dreaded Spring Disease

BY PRESLYN YOUNG
Staff Writer

What Is senioritis? There is no actual definition for the word in Webster's Dictionary, but there is a definition for the word senior. The definition relating mostly to Winston Salem State University is: "a member of the graduating class in a school or college." But that doesn't exactly explain senioritis.

Most words with the suffix 'itis' means that there is some sort of an illness involved. Knowing this, we could say that "senioritis" means an illness that a member of a graduating class gets prior to graduation. Senioritis usually starts anywhere from one semester to one week before the graduation ceremony.

Exams, papers, transcripts, resumes, job and graduate school applications are some of the things that begin to drive seniors insane before graduation. But these are not the only things that seniors worry about. There are announcements and invitations that need to be ordered, addressed and mailed. Relatives, especially parents, are waiting in line to question you about your future plans.

Moving arrangements for a lot of seniors rank first on the list. whether it is out of town, back home with their parents, or just off campus, it to must be finalized before graduation.

When senior, Tonya Sheffield, a history major, was asked how it feels to be so close to having a college degree, she simply begins to recite the date and time of WSSU's graduation ceremony, "May 10th 1997 at 9:45 am."

Deanne Brodie, psychology major, says that she is nervous and excited at the same time. "I went to check the list of seniors approved for graduation to make sure that my name was on it. When I saw that it was, I was relieved."

Tisa Purcell, is hoping that nothing goes wrong between now and graduation.

"It feels good to finally be accomplishing one of my goals," said Stovell Wade, a business administrative major.

Ichiban

Johnny Nguyen.

The soups that are served are miso, mushroom and udon noodle soups. Miso soup is a bean based soup that has tofu, seaweed, scallions and is good for hangovers, hair growth and many other medicinal purposes throughout Japanese society. The mushroom soup is a clear, fish stock broth with sliced mushrooms and scallions. Udon noodles are fat rice noodles that come with a variety of items that can be cooked in them. Diners can choose from chicken, shrimp, vegetable or house udon. Udon soup is cooked in a beautiful clay pot and is served directly to you piping hot right off the stove.

When most people hear the word sushi, they automatically think of raw fish; but that is not the case will all sushi. Some sushi is actually cooked. For example, eel, octopus, crab, shrimp and scallops come fully cooked. However, the majority of the sushi on Ichiban's is served raw. Nigiri, is the actual fish on the rice. Nori Maki, is a roll - California rolls, crab, avocado and Futo Maki are examples of these. Temaki is a large handroll that resembles an ice cream cone. Sashimi is a plate of raw fish, served with a bowl of rice.

When you think of sushi bars, most people think of large cities like Los Angeles, New York, Chicago and San Francisco. Most Winston-Salem residents are surprised when they learn that Ichiban's has a sushi bar.

"Moving here from California, we were very pleased to find a sushi bar here in Winston-Salem," said Jan and Jonah Forrester, who are originally from San Diego, Calif.

No good meal is complete without dessert. Ichiban offers a limited selection of delicious desserts. Ichiban's menu features Red Bean and Green Tea ice cream. These ice cream treats have unique flavors and are excellent choices to top off a Japanese meal.
