

Student Outlook Source

Each month the News Argus will feature helpful information in the Student Outlook Source for students who may be looking for scholarships, internships, or financial aid information.

Elie Wiesel contest

The Elie Wiesel Foundation for Humanity is pleased to announce that the 1999 Elie Wiesel Prize in Ethics Essay Contest is now challenge full-time college juniors and seniors to examine and analyze urgent ethical issues confronting them in today's complex world. For more information about this essay contest write to The Elie Wiesel Foundation for Humanity, 450 Lexington Ave. Ste. 1920, New York, NY 10017; or call (212) 450-8295.

Job and Career Fair

The Triad Black Media Professionals and Network

'90 organizations will hold its Second Annual Media Job/Career Fair at North Carolina A&T State University on Friday, Oct. 9. Radio and television stations, cable companies, public relations firms, record companies and newspapers are coming with internship and permanent job opportunities.

The Media Job/Career Fair will be held in Corbett Gymnasium from 1 P.M. until 4 P.M. Students would not want to miss this opportunity.

Theatre offers music, stories

The Children's Theatre presents Rhythm of the Drum, a celebration of African culture through storytelling, music and dance at The Arts Council Theatre Oct. 12-16.

The latest offerings, "Guinea Fowl and Rabbit Gets Justice," are stories from Ghana, West Africa which teach against laziness and deceit.

Everyone is invited to sing, clap, or play instruments, and together celebrate the uniqueness and beauty in all people. Complete with music, colorful costumes and stage props, Rhythm of the Drum weaves music and storytelling into a presentation that teaches as well as entertains. The cost is $6 for children and adults. For more information contact Roslyn Homes-Martin at (336)725-4531.

Newspaper Announces Internships

The Sacramento Bee, a 280,000-plus circulation newspaper located in California's capital city, offers summer internships in reporting, sports, copy editing, photo-journalism and graphic arts.

The internships will be full-time for 12 weeks and pay $425 a week. Interns are responsible for their own housing.

Reporting interns will do rotations in metro, business, and features. Sports interns will spend time writing as well as working on the sports copy desk. Copy editing, photo and graphics interns will assume regular shifts in their departments.

Applicants must be working toward a college degree or be recent college graduates.

If interested in reporting or copy editing, send a cover letter, resume with three telephone references and up to eight clips demonstrating a range of work including headlines for copy editors. Mail materials to: Bill Endicott, Deputy Managing Editor, The Sacramento Bee, P.O. Box 15779, Sacramento, Calif. 95852.

If interested in reporting or copy editing, send a cover letter, resume with three telephone references and up to eight clips demonstrating a range of work including headlines for copy editors.

Mail materials to: Bill Endicott, Deputy Managing Editor, The Sacramento Bee, P.O. Box 15779, Sacramento, Calif. 95852.

IF YOU'VE GOT WHAT IT TAKES TO BE A LEADER IN OUR COMPANY, THIS COULD BE YOUR OFFICE.

Not just anyone can be responsible for territory like this. Then again, not just anyone can be one of us. But if you're exceptionally smart, tough and determined, then Officer Candidates School (OCS) will be the place you can prove whether or not you're a leader of Marines. It's a career that's filled with unlimited opportunities, pride and honor. If you want a career that's a world apart from the ordinary, see if you've got what it takes to lead in this company. To learn more about the challenges of being a Marine, call 1-800-MARINES or contact us on the internet at <http://www.Marines.com>

Marines
The Few. The Proud.

MARINE OFFICER

If you think you have what it takes, call Capt Brigadier at (800) 270-9874, ext. 1815, or meet with him at the Student Union on Oct 6.

Howard U. Job Fair

The Winston-Salem State University Mass Communications club is planning their second trip to Howard University's School of Communications job fair in Washington, D.C.

The job fair takes place Oct. 22-23 on the HU campus and gives communications majors from around the country the chance to interview and network to find potential internships and jobs.

There is an application process. Students are asked to send copies of their resume if they are interested in getting interviews with the media corporations that will be at the job fair. Students are given the opportunity to interview with newspapers, magazines, record and television companies, including The Richmond-Times Dispatch, CNN, ABC and ESPN. The anticipation is that more companies will appear for this year's job fair in wider ranges of communications.

Although the deadline for return information was Sept. 25, students who are interested in attending may still send information to the university. For more information and an application, contact Marilyn Roseboro on the third floor of the RJR Building.

Get Paid to Write

Student.Com, the web site for college students, is seeking freelance writers for its sports, entertainment, travel, jobs, news and campus sections.

Writers are paid based on the assignment, ranging from $25 for music and movie reviews to $50 or more for thoroughly reported stories. Student.Com will pay reasonable expenses. Story length ranges from several paragraphs to 1,000 words for major features.

If you'd like to write for Student.Com send a resume, four published clips, five story ideas and a cover letter telling Student.Com why you're cool to:

Chief of Correspondents
Student.Net Publishing
25 First Street
Cambridge, Mass. 02141

or send it through e-mail to:
contribute@Student.Com

Calling All Writers and Poets...

The News Argus is looking for talented writers and poets to showcase your work in our Poetry Corner to be featured in our next edition. For more information call our office at 750-2327 or submit materials to The News Argus Hall-Patterson, Room 318.