JORDAN

HOWSE

EDITOR IN CHIEF

OPINION

Tuesday, February 8, 2011

THE WAY I SEE IT

Black history made every day

With Black History Month upon us, I want to take the time to appreciate some of the most influential African Americans in my life.

Ida B. Wells was a woman I learned about at a young age because she co-founded the NAACP. Later in my life I learned of her contribution to journalism.

Mary Ann Shad Cary, the first black woman journalist founded The Provincial Freeman in Canada in 1854 and campaigned for women's rights after becoming the first female law student at Howard University.

Katherine Dunham founded the first major black modern dance company. And Nina Simone, a North Carolina native, was one of the biggest voices of jazz. Yes, several famous people including Stevie Wonder and Gwendolyn Brooks have impacted my life but the ones that have had the biggest impact wouldn't be known outside of Raleigh. My family.

My dad, a man that grew up in a single-parent home in a town near Detroit with three siblings, has always made sure my sister and I had what we needed to succeed. He was the first man in his family to earn a college degree and pursued his master's as well. We moved from Michigan to North Carolina so he could better provide. I know how lucky I am to have a father that is in my life and that, through ups and downs continues to encourage me to pursue every single one of my dreams.

My mom is the strongest woman I know. She also grew up in a single-parent home because of the loss of her father. After later losing her brother and mother, she never quit. She got a good job out of college. And while raising two girls, decided to go back to school and get her nursing degree, something she'd always wanted to do. She never stopped pursuing her dream.

My sister has showed me that life is, if nothing else, a roller-coaster. She is a person that never gives up. In every instance where she could've or should've, she always has hope. She remembers that life can be hectic but there are always people that will have her back. There is always a way to climb to the top of a deep, dark hole.

This month and every month, don't remember and appreciate just the big figures of Black History, like Martin Luther King Jr., Rosa Parks and Malcom X, but also the ones that impact your life directly.

While the official Black History Month lasts just 28 days, as black students at a HBCU we are the future of black history. Our history is made every day.

HOW DID WE MISS THAT?

As a matter of policy, The News Argus will publish corrections for errors in facts.

The corrections will be made as soon as possible after the error has been brought to the attention of the Argus Editor In Chief at

Argus Letter Policy

The News Argus is a student publication of Winston-Salem State University. The News Argus encourages written comments to the editor and guest columns, but some rules apply:

□ A signature, address and phone number must accompany all letters. Letters should be double-spaced and no more than 250 words. □ Letters will be verified by The News Argus by a phone call prior to publication. If The News Argus is unable to contact the writer of a letter, the letter will be held until contact is made. Letters intended as advertising will not be published.

☐ The News Argus does not publish "form letters" or letters sent to multiple newspapers outside the Triad unless the issue discussed in the letter is of importance to the WSSU community.

☐ The News Argus reserves the right to edit letters and guest columns for clarity, length and libel. The News Argus will edit letters that are grossly inaccurate or cross the boundaries of good taste.

☐ The News Argus allows readers to reply to someone response to any earlier letter only once.

☐ Guest columns may be no more than 400 words. The News Argus will accept endorsements of candidates, but only one per writer per candidate. The letter may challenge a candidate's record, but no intensely personal attacks will be printed. The News Argus permits candidates to write letters to the editor to specifically respond to another letter.

Photos by Jarrett Dawkins; Interviews by Jamie Hunter

CAMPUS CREW

WSSU students, faculty and staff selected randomly to answer a provocative question from The News Argus. Comments do not represent the opinions of the Argus staff. To hear the complete responses visit www.thenewsargus. com and listen to the podcasts.

February is Black History Month. We often learn about and honor famous African Americans such as Garrett Morgan, who invent the traffic light and Benjamin Banneker because of his contributions to the nation's capital and astronomy. We want to honor the everyday African Americans you seldom hear about. This issue's Campus Crew asks...

thenewsargus@yahoo.com

Which African American has had an impact on your life?

JARVIS CHEEK SENIOR, BUS. MGMT. SILER CITY N.C.

My great grandmother because she never let anything get her down. I try to live my life as she lived hers.

CHRISTY JOHNSON FRESHMAN, ELEM. ED. YANCEYVILLE N.C

My aunt because she is a pastor and talks a lot about church and God. She is a big inspiration to me.

KAMERON BROCK SENIOR, PSYCHOLOGY NEW YORK

My mother because she was a single mom worked two jobs toraised me in NY. She taught me about my Jamaican roots.

JASMINE RICHARDSON SENIOR, CHEMISTRY GREENSBORO

My older sister because I see her as competition and I wanted to be just like her and the further she goes I have to surpass her.

UNDOLAND HUNTER
JUNIOR, JUSTICE STUDIES
CHARLOTTE

My mom because she works hard at a school to make ends meet and she is very smart.