Fire drill held in Belk Hall

By FRANCINE SAWYER

On Wed. night, Feb. 5, the girls in Belk Hall had a fire drill. There was no real fire but the practice of getting out of one's room and the proper duties carried on were done. Each girl knew the exact time of the drill, having heard it via public address system.

At 11:15 the blast of warning (which sounded more like an alarm clock on loud) alerted each girl. Windows were closed, lights turned off, things unplugged, shoes put on, coats put on, towels in hand, and doors left ajar whereby each co-ed marched quietly to the first floor lounge. All in all it was a nice average fire drill.

It is rumored that the next fire drill will be more like the real thing. We may or may not be warned but we will go outside. The former being a farce of a fire.

English students meet at home of professor Mulder

Meeting at the home of Prof. Robert Mulder recently was his English 202 literature students. They held a seminar on William Blake's mysticism, based on Mulder's study at the University of Mississippi this summer.

The discussion included points involving the establishment of Blake's mysticism and the mystical experience which the English author had throughout his life.

Following the discussion of Blake, refreshments were served and musical selections were presented by Mulder and Pam Keyes on the piano and guitar. All ten members of the class participated.

New club may be formed here

By FRANCINE SAWYER

Although just in the theory stage, a club dealing with surfing may be formed on this campus for and by the students. Non-surfers will benefit as well as the surfer. The organization has to await the approval of the administration and other red tape has to be re-hashed over.

If the prospect goes through the channels and it gets approved, the boy I talked to about this club stated in so many words that the club will be a clean-cut and healthy organization.

Final details and exact dates are not known. When "Smoke Signals" learns more it will keep you posted. Until then, Surf may be up.

Talent Show is scheduled by West Hall boys

By JOE BRADFORD

Members of the Dormitory Council of West Hall met last Tuesday night for a discussion of what could be done to raise funds for their dorm. It was decided upon to have a show of talents by students of Chowan.

All students that would like to participate in the talent show are asked to fill out an application in the student lounge.

If you have a talent, please share it with the rest of the student body.

Jobs at camps available for summer work

By FRANCINE SAWYER

If you haven't got your summer plans clear yet, you may be interested in an interesting job at camp. For most of us our days at summer camp are long gone. A chance to work with younger people could restore some of our lost youth.

A bulletin came to our attention concerning employment in camps up and down the eastern seaboard, including: North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Tennessee. The job offers include a variety of opportunities such as program directors, cabin and unit counselors, guidance specialists, dietitians, activity leaders, nurses, and boating and waterfront directors.

The only restriction is age. The minimum age is 19. Outstanding references must be furnished.

You can send your inquiry to: Camp Counselor Placement Service, Box 145, Tuxedo, North Carolina.

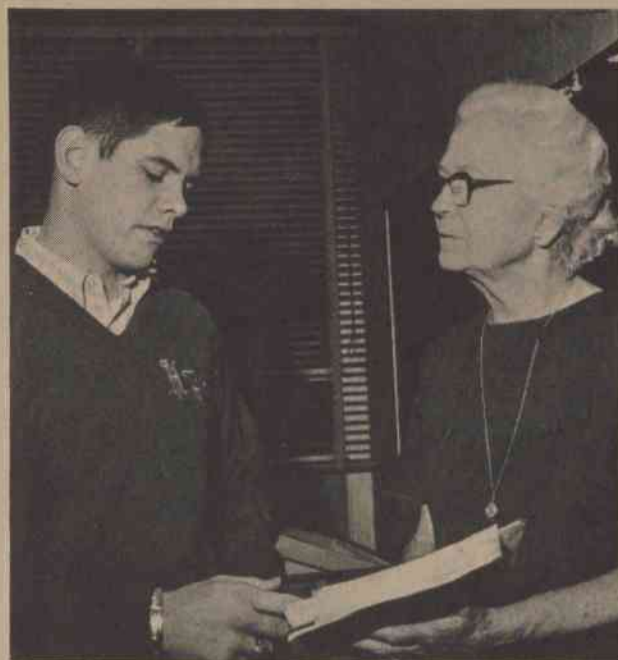

The above is a non-profit organization placement service operated by the camps themselves.

Examining class work

Harry Lindstrom and Dr. Bernice Kelly Harris examine class work for creative writing class.

Anything of interest undertaken by class

"Plays, short stories and anything that interests you," is the topic for study in the creative writing class instructed by Dr. Bernice Kelly Harris at Chowan College. The class consists of several of the area's most well-known authors and writers as well as beginners. Dr. Harris is well known for her many books and plays.

The class which meets every Tuesday in Marks Hall has just released a book of medical folklore, "Southern Home Remedies".

Published by Johnson Publishing CO., of Murfreesboro, and edited by Dr. Harris, the book contains "old fashion" cures for common and not so common ailments. The major contributions come from class members, but many cures come from around the South.

The book contains a number of fine illustrations and is well written for entertaining as well as informative reading.

Proceeds from the sale of the first books by the class went to the Chowan College Development Fund.

Pulp, paper science to be offered here

By PAULINE ROBINSON

A new curriculum to be listed as Pulp and Paper Science and Technology will be added for the academic year 1969-70. It will not be included in the catalog, however, since the book has already gone to press.

It is designed for those wanting a Bachelor of Science degree in this area of education. The course carries an unusually heavy load in science and mathematics.

The curriculum prepares the student for immediate employment after two years, but is designed for the student who wishes to transfer to a four year school. Chowan is presently in conjunction with the N. C. State University.

Students will take advanced courses but no new ones are being added. For the first year the schedule is the same as one in pre-forestry but the second year is set up as follows:

First Semester
Chemistry 275	4
Economics 251	3
Math 201	5
Physics 185	5
Second Semester
Chemistry 276	4
Math 111	2
Math 202	5
Physics 186	5

One reason for Chowan's adding this new program is because chemical industries are so prevalent in our area—Weyerhaeuser, Plymouth, Union Camp, Franklin, Va., and a paper plant in Roanoke Rapids.
