Violinist is concert hit

Regis Pasquier, young and celebrated violinist, presented a concert Nov. 23 at 4 p. m. in McDowell Columns auditorium. Pasquier's appearance was the first of the season sponsored by the Chowan College Community Concert Series.

Pasquier, 22, was first projected into the spotlight when, at 12, he won first prize for violin at the Paris Conservatory and one year later the first prize for Chamber Music from the same institution. He was first heard in North America at 14 when he toured Alaska and Western Canada.

The concert tour has taken him to Paris, London, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and Spain and throughout the United States.

Typical of the raves he has received is the comment of the Los Angeles Times' critic, who declared: "Young Pasquier is gifted. He has poise, seems oblivious to technical problems, performs with genuine

Freshman dazzle sophs cop flag football victory

By HARRY LINDSTROM

Immediately following the Powder Puff game, the boys had the All-Star Flag Football game. It just wasn't the sophomores night. It started off fine when Fulcher passed to Perkins for a sophomore score after a 90-yard run. The extra point was good. This was the second play of the game.

The freshmen then had a touchdown called back. In the second quarter the jinx was still on the freshmen when they had their second touchdown called back.

The sophomores edged ahead by another touchdown pass by Fuldher. This time it was to Don James. The extra point was no good. Then the freshman Ransome connected with Frazier who threw to Derick for the score but the extra point was no good.

The jinx was lifted just after half-time activities which consisted of several bird calls heard only by press-box spectators. The freshmen intercepted a pass and Jim Beirne ran 60 yards for the score. The extra point was no good.

A few plays later the freshmen intercepted another pass and Beirne passed to Brown who in turn passed to Bob Chessier for the score. The extra point was good.

The most spectacular play came in the fourth quarter. Douglas handed off to Ransome; he passed. Babb of the sophomores tried to intercept, but Baby Babb babbled the ball and blew it, right into the arms of an onrushing freshman, Derick, who crossed the goal line for the score. The extra point attempt was no good.

Then again the lightning-quick freshmen came into BOTCH things up by intercepting another pass and running it 99 yards for a touchdown. It was intercepted by Derick, who passed to Mayo, who passed to Hart, who scored. The extra point attempt failed.

Miss Langston tell Spanish Club of exchange summer spent in Peru

The club, composed of 70 intermediate and advanced Spanish students has an agenda of interesting meetings.

For their organizational meeting the officers met in the home of the club sponsor, they were served a fiesta of Mexican foods.

In October a program was presented by Miss Paige Langston, who gave a talk and showed slides concerning her summer in Peru as an exchanged student from Gates County High School.

Among other meetings and events sponsored by the club will be a December assembly of songs and narration depicting Christmas south of the border.

In April 22, the club will bring to our campus the movie "For Whom the Bell Tolls," which was filmed in Spain.

The purpose of the Spanish Club is to provide contact outside the classroom with the Spanish-speaking world.

Very much in the Smoke Signals picture

By JULIE HOSKINS

Marianne Pugh may be seen sprinting swiftly to the graphic arts building early Saturday mornings when everyone else is still asleep. The work is there and Marianne is always willing to do it.

Marianne is a work-study student which means that she gets paid for up to 15 hours of work a week. But hours don't matter when there is work to be done. Marianne is always there. Often she works overtime, knowing that she will not be paid for it.

Graphic arts hasn't been her life-long goal. In fact, when she started college last year, she was a liberal arts student. This wasn't what she wanted. She bluntly said, "I hated it."

Second semester, Marianne took a teletypesetter course under Prof. Herman Gatewood. This way she was introduced graphic arts. It appealed to her--so much so that she decided to enroll in the graphic arts curriculum this year.

"I didn't know what I wanted to do. Now I'm in graphic arts all the way and I like it."

Changing one's major is a serious matter. In Marianne's case, it was the perfect choice. She is devoted to the work she does. She sets most of the type for "Smoke Signals," works with "The Chowanian" and helps on anything printed in graphic arts.

It almost sounds like a fairy godmother steered Marianne to the right course of study. She must have considered the choice carefully. Many students are still searching for their goals but Marianne has certainly found hers.

Marianne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Pugh of Camden, N. C. She is a 1968 graduate of Camden County High School, where she was very active in extracurricular activities.

Savage sophs waylay frosh; take win 13-0

By HARRY LINDSTROM

The annual Powder-Puff football game between the sophomore and freshmen girls was held Nov. 25. It was an exciting game with the savage sophomores stealing all the scores.

The sophomore team was made up of the following girls: Miriam Walter, Pat Coffee, Donna Burnette, Cindy Brittingham, Susan Long, Jean Massey, Jeannie Gay, "George" Lynch and "Sam" Dodd. Their coaches were Lee Copeland and Pete London.

Freshmen players were Patty Seay, Gayle Morris, Joanie Elliott, Joy Carroll, Elaine "Butch" Eilan, Martha Casilear, Jan Hermann, Mona Midgett, Theresa Pettengill and Betty End. Their coaches were Ronnie Powell and Skeeter Key.

It seems that "Sam" enjoys the ground when it touches the entirety of her body opposed to when just her feet are on it. This is the implication the press-box and spectators got on the first play when she fell down.

The scoring was done in the first quarter by Jeannie Gay, who received a pass from George Lynch. Jeannie also scored the extra point.

In the third quarter Jeannie Gay made a 65 yard run to score again but no extra point was made.

The outstanding stars of the game were Jeannie Gay and freshman Patty Seay, who's names seemed to monopolize the PA system.

The final score was 13-0.

Mulder's book of poems is sellout in one week; second edition planned

By PAULINE ROBINSON

Vice president Spiro Agnew has received an autographed copy of Robert G. Mulder's, English professor at Chowan, first book, "The Shepherd Who Stayed Behind."

So have former Gov. George Wallace, of Alabama; Terry Sanford of North Carolina; and the present Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina.

Why and how? Well, on Nov. 16, a Sunday evening, the Colerain Baptist Church gave a candlelight reception and autographing party for Mulder.

Approximately 150 guests attended the party and the author, assisted by the book's illustrator, Mrs. Eva White, and Bennie Pledger, pastor of the church at Colerain and trustee of Chowan, who wrote the book's introduction, signed 250 books.

Among the guests were those who had connections with the mentioned politicians and sent them an early Christmas present, an autographed copy of Mulder's book.

Mulder stated that this autographing of books for the already famed was "one of the most exciting parts of publishing the book."

His book was a complete sell-out one week after publication. Chowan's bookstore sold its 50 copies in just a few days.

Mulder hopes to print a second edition next year.

Chowan student is electrocuted Nov. 28, Last rites Monday

Robert Lee Dagenhart, 20, a Chowan student and member of the Braves' football team, was electrocuted Nov. 28 when he cut into a power line which he apparently thought was dead.

Dagenhart was identified by Virginia state police as a former resident of 6709 Hill Road nounced dead upon arrival at Medical College of Virginia Hospital.

Virginia State Trooper C. F. Brock arrested a companion, Bruce Lowe, of the 6700 block on Hill Road. He was charged with petit larceny in connection with the removal of the wire from poles owned by Virginia Electric & Power Co.

The trooper said Lowe told him he and Dagenhart had planned to remove the bare copper wire from the poles leading to a vacation house at the end of the road. They did not know the wires were live.

Funeral services were held for Dagenhart at the Joseph W. Billee Funeral Home at 1 p. m. last Monday. Burial was in Dale Memorial Park.

Braves win 7-6 to end season

By PHIL ROYCE

MURFREESBORO — In novels, and often real life, on the coldest night in town something significant happens. Such was the case Nov. 21 at Chowan Stadium when Chowan College not only ended play in freezing weather with a game victory, 7-6 over Davidson College freshmen, but with a winning season as well.

Chowan coaches, Jim Garrison, head mentor, and assistants, Jerry Hawkins and Sam Green, and players and fans will be able to spend the rest of the winter savoring the 5-4-1 record, which will also serve as a recruitment tool.

Reflection reveals that the Braves' record, with just a few changes, could have been as good as 7-2-1, but no one's complaining with their present record.

The Braves can thank sophomore fullback Carroll Hart of Oxford, playing his last game for Chowan as were a number of other sophomores, and an aroused defense for the victory over Davidson.

The game was as close as the 7-6 score indicates. Chowan's fearsome passing attack was only a shadow of itself as Davidson shut off this avenue of advance for the Braves. The Braves' score and most of its yardage came on the ground.

Hart lived up to his publicity when he rambled 27 yards for Chowan's score with 44 seconds remaining in the first quarter. Hart broke through the middle, shook off a tackler, cut to the sidelines and with a trail of red jerseys behind him, raced into the end zone. Robert Kilbourne added his biggest extra point of the season and Chowan had its game-winning point.

Chowan's score was set up by the defense, which stopped Davidson three times from within the Braves' ten. Twice the Baby Wildcats had advanced to Chowan's five only to meet disaster. In the first quarter, fullback Drew White fumbled on an end sweep and an alert Claude Shell, Braves' linebacker, recovered. Then late in the second quarter Ken Johnson intercepted in the end zone to halt the Wildcats again.

With 6:22 left in the game, Davidson threatened again moving the ball to the Braves' nine. Four plays later they found themselves on Chowan's 12.

The tenacious defense made three interceptions and recovered two fumbles during the game.

Two defensive backs, Johnson and Greg Hartranft, teamed up to produce the interception that led to the Chowan TD. Johnson deflected a pass from Davidson quarterback, Scotty Shipp, and Hartranft, freshman from Fulton, N. Y., grabbed the ball at Davidson's 39. Four plays later Hart scored.

Davidson got its points with 5:18 left in the contest with Shipp running the last two of a 47 yard drive. The Wildcats, to no one's surprise, went for two points but Shipp's pass fell incomplete as the Braves' secondary provided tight coverage of the intended receiver.

But the most dramatic moments came with only seconds remaining in the game. Davidson, after receiving a punt, had been stopped on their own 11-yard line. On the next play, Chowan quarterback John Casazza elected to throw and a Davidson player came close to making an interception. He had daylight in front of him. A second play was equally daring, and the Braves went for another touchdown but an end sweep by Hart was stopped after a four-yard advance. The game ended The Braves lost the ball on downs but linebacker Norman Cage promptly intercepted a Shipp pass at the 11. The Braves' ended the game at Davidson's five.

Three Braves picked up more than 50 yards on the ground. Hart gained 81, Wingate Burden 59, and Dayvault 54. Casazza completed five of 19 throws for 59 yards contrasted with 217 yards rushing for the Braves. Burden received three passes for 30 yards, Billy Harris one for 19 yards and Dayvault one for 10 yards.

The cafeteria sponsored a Veterans' Day dinner for all Chowan vets and finished off the occasion with cutting the cake. The cafeteria also had an "Old West Cook-Out" for other students. It featured as "Old West" menu with cafeteria employees dressed in cowboy and cowgirl outfits.
