Photography Contest Is Proven Success

By MIKE PATTERSON

The Smoke Signals photography contest got off to a great start last semester and we hope that enthusiasm will continue to grow during the coming semester. We have a few changes in mind and would welcome any suggestions you might make.

There were quite a few good entries last semester, but here should be even better competition this time around. Winners last semester included: Louis Saunders who won the October contest. Louis is a sophomore and a photography major. Educationally, he plans to continue in photography and specialize in cinematography. Theme of the October contest was architecture.

The November contest had rock concerts as its theme and Hector Cuellar came out the winner. Hector is also a sophomore, and a graphic arts student. He plans to continue his education at Arkansas State University majoring in Printing Management.

Les Franks was the winner of the December contest which just happened to be the first time we tried an open category contest. Les is a sophomore and a business major. His plans are to continue his education in business at the University of Albuquerque.

All contests this semester will be on an open category basis and prints can be either black and white or color. Judging this semester will be done by the Steichen Photographic Society. Deadline for the first contest will be the morning of February 10. Good luck!

rules

1. The contest is open to all students at Chowan College.
2. Prints should be at least 5 x 7.
3. Name and address should be printed on the back of all prints.
4. Prints should be designated "for Contest" on back of print.
5. Prints and other information should be brought to the Graphic Arts Building and left for the Smoke Signals staff.

Chowan Triumphs Over Louisburg

By PHIL ROYCE

Chowan College protected a five-point late-game lead by freezing the ball and adding five points on foul shots by guard Ralph Yost for a 68-60 conference win over Louisburg here Monday night.

When Braves' coach, Bill McCraw, installed the freeze with three minutes left, Chowan was leading 63-58. With Chowan's fans roaring their approval, the Braves dribbled and passed for a full minute and a half before Louisburg deliberately fouled. The desperate gamble backfired when guard Ralph Yost hit on both charity attempts to push Chowan's lead to 65-58. With 33 seconds left, Yost duplicated the feat. Louisburg scored at 21 seconds before Yost added his final free throw three seconds later.

The Braves led at the half, 34-28, and opened up a 12-point lead early in the second half. The Hurricanes then scored nine straight points to narrow Chowan's advantage to three, 40-37, with 14 minutes on the clock. Chowan rallied to forge a nine-point lead but the Hurricanes closed the gap to 57-55 with 4:40 left. Chowan then built its lead to 63-58 before the Braves demonstrated their dribbling dexterity.

Forward Lonnie Payton led Chowan with 22 points. Yost added 17 and guard Ricky Weires, 13. Chowan evened its league at 3-3 and won its 13th game against four defeats. Louisburg is 7-10 and 3-4. The Hurricanes own wins over two conference teams who have defeated Chowan, Kittrell and Sandhills.

The Braves seek their fourth league win Wednesday when they host College of the Albemarle at 7:30 p.m.

Our Love Like A Young Tree In Winter

By: Kenneth L. Anderson

Our love like a young tree in winter
Faced the task of surviving the harsh
Cold swirling winds and the ever
Mounting weight of fallen snow.

For a time the young tree seemed
To withstand valiantly but the
Ever pressing forces of nature
Soon took their toll, the young
Tree sagged, broke and was subdued.

Spring arrived with the promise
Of Hope and Life once again.
Beneath the twisted, disfigured,
Lifeless remains of the fallen
Tree a new life was emerging.

A tiny seedling stretched forth
Its delicate leaves to embrace
The warmth of the sun and hope
For life unlike that of its predecessor.

Like the tiny seedling our hearts
Too hope for a new beginning and
The strength which will enable us
To weather future storms that lie waiting.
