

RECORD NOTES

The College has recently been glad to welcome two representatives of the National Council, the Rev. C. Rankin Barnes, Executive Secretary of the Department of Social Service and the Rev. Eric Tasman, Secretary of the Field Department. The Rev. Mr. Barnes spent several days at the Bishop Tuttle School where he is a member of its Advisory Committee. He held a number of conferences with groups and individuals and also made an address in the Chapel. The Rev. Mr. Tasman addressed the faculty and student body in the interests of General Program of the Church.

All Saints Day is always emphasized at St. Augustine's. There was a large attendance at the early morning Holy Communion Service. On the Sunday during the Octave was also a special observance of the Feast.

Recent preachers in the College Chapel have been the Rev. John J. Greene, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Greensboro, N. C., and the Rev. Henry C. Bowden, a graduate of St. Augustine's, rector of St. Mark's Church, Wilmington, N. C.

The College is again this year offering certain courses for teachers and others who cannot attend the regular day sessions. Among those in these classes are parents of students now in the College and graduates from St. Augustine's when it was a high school.

Miss Lucy Johnson, who had been a faithful member of the St. Augustine's Staff for almost thirty years, succumbed to heart failure on November 21st. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Goold in the College Chapel prior to the removal of the body to Providence, Rhode Island, her old home. Members of the faculty acted as pallbearers and the chapel choir led in the singing. The student body, faculty and other friends attended the service.

The St. Augustine's football team has already played several games. The results were as follows: St. Augustine's 7, Kittrell 6; St. Augustine's 38, Fayetteville State Normal 0; St. Augustine's 7, Virginia Union 7.

National Education Week, November 6-12 was duly observed at the College. There were several programs arranged by Professor Young of the Education Department. Mr. N. C. Newbold, State Director of Negro Education was one of the speakers.

Under the leadership of the Woman's Auxiliary the Day of Prayer for Women was observed on November 11th. Almost one hundred teachers and students participated in the observance, each one taking a short period for prayer.

During the past summer President Goold visited and preached in a number of our Negro churches, including St. Philip's Church, Newark, N. J., St. Augustine's Church, Camden, N. J., St. Augustine's Church, Atlantic City, N. J., and St. Luke's Church, New Haven, Conn. He found in all of these places graduates, students and friends of the College.

COLLEGE OPENING

(Raleigh News and Observer)

The sixty-seventh academic year of St. Augustine's was inaugurated on September 28th with an opening service in the college chapel. The president, Rev. Edgar H. Goold, conducted the service and presented the president of the Board of Trustees, the Rt. Rev. Edwin A. Penick, D.D., Bishop of North Carolina, who greeted the staff and students in a short but impressive address.

Other trustees who spoke a word of greeting were Dr. Milton A. Barber, Rector of Christ Church, and Rev. Theodore Partrick, Jr., of the Church of the Good Shepherd. Among other visitors were Rev. Harvey A. Cox, Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley and Rev. Thomas S. Clarkson, all of Raleigh. All the speakers made mention of the loss of the oldest and best friends of St. Augustine's, the late president of the board of trustees, Bishop Joseph B. Cheshire, and the late honorary president of the College, Dr. A. B. Hunter, both of whom the opening exercises almost invariably attracted.

For the first time St. Augustine's will not have a high school department. Instead there is a college preparatory department open to those who have completed two years of work in an accredited high school.

The roster of students present suggests the growing latitude of the institution's influence. Students are registered from as far away as Texas, Connecticut, Michigan, Quebec and the Virgin Islands.

Participating in the opening exercises were the staff and students of St. Agnes Hospital and Training School for Nurses, which operates the entire year, and the Bishop Tuttle School for Religious and Social Workers, which began classes last week. Both of the latter institutions are located on the campus and are connected with St. Augustine's College.
