

ALUMNI NOTES

Rev. John W. Herritage, D.D., '05, president of the Alumni Association, has resigned his work as rector of St. Joseph's, Fayetteville, to accept a call to St. Michael and All Angels', Charlotte. The Eastern Carolina Mission Herald commented:

Dr. Herritage has spent practically his whole ministry in East Carolina and has served the Fayetteville parish for many years. During his ministry at St. Joseph's the parochial school has become one of the best in the diocese. A few years ago, as a result of Dr. Herritage's good work, St. Joseph's assumed self-support. He has been an outstanding leader in the work of the Convocation of Colored Church Workers. . . .

We are sorry to lose him, and we hope that he will be happy in his new work.

Many recent graduates of the College are engaged in school work in North Carolina. The names of some of these and the places where they work are given below:

Misses M. B. Stanley, Louise Morgan and Elizabeth Williams, '31, high school Greenville; Leonidas L. Haywood, '32, principal grade school, Scotland Neck; Lenwood Sanders, '32, high school, Clinton; Miss Mary Hill, '33, high school, Louisburg; Miss Sarah Rogers, '32, elementary school, Smithfield; Miss Lilliam Anerum, '31, School for the Blind and the Deaf, Raleigh.

John C. Davis, '32, and Lloyd L. Alexander, '33, are students at Bishop Payne Divinity School.

Miss Catherine A. Farrar, '31, is teaching in the high school department of Spring Hope (N. C.) Colored Public School. She brought a group of students and teachers to St. Augustine's to attend the Epiphany service. In a letter to a friend she says, "The service was beautiful. The trip was an education in itself. Some of the children had never seen a nurse in uniform or an Episcopal Church."

Members of the Choral Club rendered the music for the special Epiphany service at St. Titus' Church, Durham, N. C., on the first Sunday after Epiphany. The service was conducted by Rev. Othello Stanley, '27, recent graduate of the Philadelphia Divinity School, who is at present in charge of St. Titus' Church.

P. Bernard Young, Sr., editor and publisher of the Norfolk Journal and Guide, since the last issue of the Record has visited St. Augustine's.

Miss Sadie B. Perry, '31, is a case worker with the Wake County Welfare Department, with offices in Raleigh.

Miss Mattie N. Daye, '10, is doing advanced study at Hampton.

Copies of a sermon delivered by Rev. F. R. Meyers, '21, former president of the Alumni Association, have been received by several members of the staff. The sermon was preached originally in St. Luke's Chapel, New York City, of which Rev. Mr. Meyers is rector.

"Rev. Bravid W. Harris, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, of Norfolk, was the college preacher at the morning chapel services at St. Augustine's College yesterday (December 11th).

In a striking and impressive sermon the speaker emphasized the need of faith in meeting the problems of the Church, of race and class relations, and of our economic order. Quoting a well-known preacher he defined faith as the ability to see things not only as they are, but as they should be, and the willingness to give all to making the vision a reality. He pointed out that if such institutions as St. Augustine's did not equip its students with a faith of that order, their work would be worse than useless, defeating the faith of those who make such institutions possible.

Rev. Mr. Harris is one of St. Augustine's most representative graduates, and is active in religious and civic life in Norfolk."—From the Raleigh News and Observer.

tine's so that they may enter the Bishop Tuttle Training School. The Bishop Tuttle School requires for admission graduation from College except in certain cases of mature and experienced women. Good students, spiritually minded and eager to serve are needed. This year there has been some falling off in the number entering from our Church.

St. Agnes Training School for Nurses always has many more applicants than it can admit. The physical and mental requirements are set by the Association of Nurses Training Schools and must be adhered to if the school is to maintain its rating. Students must be in the upper two-thirds of their high school graduating class and have completed certain required subjects. They must also pass a satisfactory physical examination.

We believe that all students who are hoping to enter college or take any kind of professional training should begin early to make financial and scholastic preparations. It is unfortunate that a good many do not actually get started in their preparation until it is too late
