New Trial Bill Wins Approval Of Senate

Distinguished Scientist Visits Here March 25

Dr. Donald H. Andrews, a distinguished scientist, leading authority in thermodynamics, and professor of chemistry, visited the Wesleyan campus March 25 and 26 as a Danforth Visiting Lecturer.

A native of Southington (South Farmington), Connecticut, to which the Andrews family came from Kent, England, in 1641, Dr. Andrews is the first of his line who has not continued to reside within the original town limits of Farmington.

He received his early education in the Southington public schools, spent one year at Phillips Academy in Andover, and received his B.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Yale.

After periods of research in low temperature calorimetry at Yale, the Universities of California and Leiden (Holland), and the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia, Dr. Andrews came to Baltimore in 1927 as assistant professor of chemistry at the John Hopkins University to teach thermodynamics and to direct research in the field of calorimetry.

In 1930 he was promoted to Professor of Chemistry, the chair he has held since that time. He served as chairman of the department from 1936 to 1943, and is at present B. N. Baker Professor of Chemistry.

Public Lecture

Dr. Andrews gave a public lecture at 8:15 p. m., March 26, in the Student Union on "Dynamic Form in Nature and Art." with piano music and a motion picture. In two informal or class meetings, he discussed "The New Frontiers of Temperature, Time, and Outer Space," and the "New Frontiers of the Atom and Inner Space," with students and faculty members.

The Danforth Visiting Lecturers project, under which Dr. Andrews came to Wesleyan, is now in its sixth year. It is sponsored jointly by the Danforth Foundation and the Association of American Colleges.

Purpose of the program is "to strengthen the intellectual, the religious and the cultural aspects of liberal education in the United States."

Dr. Andrews is one of 16 outstanding scholars and specialists from this country and abroad selected by the Foundation and the Association's Arts Program for campus visits during the 1962-63 academic year. The tours planned for Dr. Andrews will take him to the campuses of 12 colleges and universities in several sections of the nation.

Tiawan is one of 35 Chinese provinces. It enjoys freedom of speech and religion, and public elections are held to elect and install mayors, and city and country senators.

Citizens may also bear weapons if a legal permit is obtained. Because of population and Communist occupation of Red China, refugees stream into Tiawan from Hong Kong. In the Eastern part of China they set up farms in the sparsely settled areas there.

Betty stated that China was "more in war than out of it."

Although China is rapidly becoming westernized, Betty says the country is clinging to traditions and customs tenaciously. Most of these customs are centered around the family circle and relationships with other people. Children always respect their elders, and they bow to the parents every morning and when greeting a friend or being introduced to others.

Student Life Association Proposals Okayed By SGA After Heated Debate

Heated debate on a proposed new Student Life Association trial procedure climaxed the March 11 meeting of the Senate. The new procedure, after having been carefully prepared during a term of many weeks by the Student Life Association, was proposed to the Senate by Joan Lamberth, S. L. A. Chairman.

Dan Jacobs, member of the S. L. A., also assisted in the presentation.

The controversy was initiated by Senator and Junior Class President Vann Massey, who disagreed with section 9 of the bill, which read:

"An interrogation shall be held in which questions may be directed to the defense or prosecution by judges."

Massey based his objection on the grounds that once the prosecution and defense finally rest their cases, both are obviously satisfied that nothing further remains to be said. Joe Boling voiced his agreement.

Having already moved that the bill be accepted, the Student Government Association was unable to refer it back to the S. L. A. for revision.

Heated debate was renewed when it was moved by Massey that an S. G. A. committee be appointed by the President to consider slight revisions, and that it be understood that the members of the Senate Committee would be the members of the S. L. A.

Misunderstanding on the part of many as to the legality and sagacity of this measure prolonged the discussion, and one senator was overheard commenting, "... think you ought to withdraw your motion and start all over."

Motion Passes

Massey's motion finally passed (almost unanimously), and the revised bill was again presented by Boling, chairman of the unnamed committee at the March 18th meeting.

The bill, in its new form, excluded section 8 and was passed with little discussion.

The bill in its final form follows:

Finished Bill

1. The charge shall be presented in writing, properly signed, to the Chairman of the SLA.

2. Within a short time thereafter, the defendant shall be summoned to a SLA hearing and hear the charges read.

3. The defendant shall be asked for plea:

a. If plea is guilty, the judges may convene immediately and deliberate disposition; or they may recess until a stipulated time.

b. If plea is not guilty, the trial shall be announced for a date stipulated by the SLA.

4. The trial shall be conducted by the following procedure:

a. The following oath shall be administered by the Chairman of the SLA to the Defense and Prosecution: "I, (full name), do pledge on my personal honor, as a member of the Student Government Association of North Carolina Wesleyan College, to speak the truth, so help me God."

b. The Chairman of the SLA shall read the charges to the defendant and ask for a restatement of plea.

c. The prosecution shall present facts concerning charges to the defendant and ask for a restatement of plea.

c. The prosecution shall present facts concerning charges; after each testimony, the witness may be cross-examined by the Defense.

d. The Defense shall present facts in favor of the defendant; after each testimony, the witness may be cross-examined by the Prosecution.

e. Summaries may be presented in this order: (1) Prosecution. (2) Defense.

f. All persons shall be dismissed from the room; the SLA shall review and evaluate findings.

g. The SLA may recall defendant, witnesses, and/or prosecution during the evaluation period for clarification of testimony.

h. The defendant or defendants shall be called in before the lecture and given a report of the disposition by the Chairman of the SLA.

Betty Chang Discusses Life In China, America

Betty Chang, Wesleyan's student from Tiawan, Free China, has now been thoroughly initiated into American college life. After forming definite opinions on Chinese and American school systems, customs, and habits, Miss Chang was eager to tell The Decree interviewer about her findings, give her views on Wesleyan, and answer questions about her life in China.

Betty was born in a country that has only been a republic for 82 years. China is steeped in tradition and oriental charm. Its heritage is colorful, going far back into the annals of time.

Betty noted that "after the Second World War our own Chinese party received weapons from Russia. Fighting broke out and the government moved to Formosa. Communists occupied China and the state of Free China was originated. All want to return to the freedom of ancient times."

She added that "even people in Red China fight the Communists regime."

Sophs Plan "Big Nite"

A sophomore-sponsored evening in the imitative style of night club entertainment is planned for 8 p. m. next Saturday night, March 30, in the Student Union Building at a cabaret charge of 50 cents per person.

Although the majority of the entertainment comes from the student body, the faculty is represented by three members. Top talent ranging from duo-pianists, singing groups and skits to a girls' chorus line have been contracted for this affair.

As one of the participants in this show, Robert Stephens of the "Doc Stephens and Friends" group says, "everybody that is anybody is going to be there to see the best talent that Wesleyan has to offer."

Massey To Officiate

The master of ceremonies of last year's popular "Jack Harr" Show, Vann Massey, will officiate.

While Vann is introducing and the talent is performing, waitresses will be circulating among the audience to take orders for Cokes (at a charge of 10 cents per drink).

The "Big Night of Entertainment" is under the direction of Bruce Sharer, chairman of the Sophomore Social Commission.

Faculty Participates In Planned Study Project

Under the direction of the Faculty Studies Committee, the Wesleyan faculty has initiated a two-aspect program for their enrichment and intellectual stimulation. The Committee, headed by Dr. C. Edwin Harwood, has been the directive and planning influence for this faculty endeavor. Other members are Dr. James Cox, Miss Herta Wollscheiber, Mr. Don Scalf, Mr. James Tedder, and Mr. Larry Gupton.

Faculty Enrichment

The first aspect of the program is labeled faculty enrichment. An hour-long talk is led by a faculty member on some area in which he has done extensive research or study at 4 p. m. one afternoon a month.

In previous months, Dr. Willard Gatewood has given a talk on his research in the evolution controversy, and Dr. Ed Seidel has discussed the Psychology Survey that he recently completed.

In April, Dr. James Cox plans to disclose the results of a private study in which he is now engaged.

Discussion groups designated as Faculty Studies Committees choose books which the participating faculty members are required to read in order to discuss for the second aspect of the program.

One night per month the faculty meets in a member's home to discuss and analyze the book.

In December, Dr. Cox led the discussion on Jesus and His Story by Stauffer, and in February Dr. Ed. Seidel led the second discussion on Kings-tree Island by John Ehle.

This month's discussion on T. S. Elliot's Murder in the Cathedral was headed by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Johnson.

In addition to these areas, plans are now being instigated for a self-study of the total function of the college from organization to curriculum. This faculty study will be preliminary to accreditation and is designed to speed up that process.
