

John Hines Welcomes Students To Wesleyan

"The student government at Wesleyan has been keeping its pace in activities with the steady physical growth of the college. All four classes will be represented for the first time this year. The enlarged Senate, consisting of representatives from each class, will have more benefit to the student because of the greater number to speak out on issues. This expansion of your Senate to full representation will enable your leaders to carry on the democratic process.

"The Judicial branch of the Student Government Association will have to be enlarged due to the increase in dormitories. Planning for an inter-dormitory council is already underway. Dormitory elections are close at hand, and capable leaders are needed to insure an effective judiciary.

"The Executive Council will be making major decisions on policies to be carried out by the students with Senate approval. It will also be the purpose of this council to keep in close contact with the various commissions and class officers, seeing that each part of the student government structure is being efficiently carried out.

"Each officer, like myself, wants the student to speak out on any issue that might arise. If the student is not content with his representative, who will be speaking for him, then by prior appointment, this person may appear before the Senate to air his or her viewpoint.

"Each student is welcome to come to the Senate meetings, for they are all open. However, in order to prevent any chaotic conditions, a student must have an appointment to speak.

"Speaking for all the Student Government Association officers, I urge you to contact your class representatives for any ideas you may have to improve your student government. Only through your interest can Wesleyan achieve a Student Government Association of which you can be proud.

"Your representative for the Senior class is Gary Garlow; the Junior Class, Bill Martley; and the Sophomore Class, Steve Cherry. The freshmen class will elect officers in the near future."

John W. Hines,
President, Student Government Association.

JOHN HINES

Meet The Officers Of Student Government

John Hines was elected first Student Government president for North Carolina Wesleyan College to preside over four college classes. Gary Garlow was elected as the first president of a Senior Class at the new college as the first Seniors will graduate in May, 1964.

John Hines, a rising senior from Rocky Mount, was elected as president of the Student Government Association. Other officers of the Student Government are: Robert Stevens of Roxboro, vice president; Joan Lamberth of Roxboro, secretary; Baxter Myers of Raleigh, treasurer; and Dennis Schluzer of Cickeysville, Md., attorney general.

Commission chairmen elected were Betty Anderson, Richmond, Va., student life; Sharon Nichols, Norfolk, Va., social commission; Guy Rouse of Kingston, interfaith commission; Janice Roebuck of Raleigh and Winnie Stine of Richmond, Va., community council members.

The senior class elected Gary Garlow of Rocky Mount, as president; Susan Black of Lexington, vice president; Vicki Walker of Battleboro, secretary; and Ginny Eason of Rocky Mount, treasurer. The junior class elected Bill Hartley of Levittown, N. J., president; Herbert Campbell of Elm City, vice president; Grace Markham of Elizabeth City, secretary; and Max Fitzgerald of Richmond, Va., treasurer. The sophomore class elected Steve Cherry of Rocky Mount, president; Albert Rexroad of Frederick, Md., vice president; Judy Addison of Durham, secretary; and Lyndon Holden of Supply, treasurer.

These officers will preside over the students next year when 450 students are expected to enroll. The only officers yet to be chosen are those from the freshmen class.

Duke Honored By Scholarship Fund

Edward F. (Dick) Duke has been honored by the establishment of a scholarship fund at North Carolina Wesleyan College. President Collins announced that a friend initiated the Dick Duke Scholarship Fund with a generous contribution this month. Several gifts sent to the Business Office have already been added to this fund.

The scholarship will honor the memory of Duke, one of North Carolina Wesleyan College's original Trustees, and a former mayor of the city of Rocky Mount.

Long active in local affairs, he had served as Alderman from 1943 until May, 1949, when he was elected mayor. He served two terms until 1953.

At Wesleyan he was a trustee, a member of the building committee and the finance committee. An active member of The First Baptist Church he served also as a member of the Board of Deacons.

A permanent endowment fund for Carolina Wesleyan College begins with gifts in excess of $3,200 given to honor the memory of Page K. Gravely, dedicated trustee of North Carolina Wesleyan College.

W. W. Shaw, president of the Rocky Mount Area Wesleyan College Foundation, released the announcement that the permanent endowment fund was established. The Foundation has pledged $50,000 annually to the operating support of the college so long as it shall exist. Income from this and future endowment gifts count toward this financial goal.

E. E. "Knocker" Adkins served as chairman of the fund this year which pledged $40,000 to the operating budget of the college.

The gifts to initiate the endowment fund were made to the Foundation by Director Lee Gravely on behalf of China American Tobacco Company, Eastern Storage Corporation, Gravely Foundation Inc., L. L. Gravely, Jr., and Timmonsville Leaf Tobacco Company.

These contributions honor the memory of Page K. Gravely co-chairman of the first Capital Fund Drive which started the college, and Wesleyan Trustees from the Charter date until his death.

He served on the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees and was a member of the Public Relations Committee of the college. Long active in civic circles he served as mayor of City of Rocky Mount. He was a founder and official of the China-American Tobacco Company.

While the initial contributions honor the memory of Page K. Gravely, additions can be made to the endowment fund in any amount at any time to honor any citizen of the Nash-Edgecombe Community.

Community Council And Student Life Explained

By BONITA PITZER

Before the birth of our community, the Administration established certain rules for our guidance. Since then most of our regulations have been made by the students themselves. Learning to abide by these rules has been a painful process.

In the last three years our young college has experienced many of these growing pains ranging from pigs (of the farm type species) in Nash Hall to a serious lax in the students' attitude of right and wrong. Cures had to be administered for these pains. Some, as in the case of MacAdoo, the pig, must be handled by a disciplinary council. Having made the rules, we, the students, have been entrusted with the responsibility of maintaining and enforcing them. We have designated the Student Life Association for this purpose. It is composed of a chairman elected by the student body, the Director of Student Life, and the President of the Day Students, Women's, and Men's Councils. The penalties imposed by this group for major offenses, the interpretations of handbook rules they give, and the decisions they make concerning appeals from other disciplinary councils have laid the foundation for the principles which the community should and must uphold.

The growing pains have been more serious than harmless pranks such as letting MacAdoo escape in the dorm. The SLA has been very effective in "curing" the violators causing these pains. It is the medium through which we protect our community from those who would thoughtlessly destroy the Campus Code we have established. The ideals at Wesleyan are high. We intend to keep them that way. The SLA serves us as the counselor that we need for this goal. To the newcomers to our campus, I present the Student Life Association.

Another area of painful growth has been in founding and enacting of the Bill of Rights. The Community Council, represented by members from the faculty, staff, and student body, serves as the conscience of our community reminding us of the main ideal that we are all basically honest. Whenever problems of morale or ethics arise, the Council investigates the situation and makes recommendations for the needed action to the proper groups or persons. Such was the case last year when students became careless in signing for chapel attendance and then failing to go. Each member of the community should be aware that the Council is available for advising and aiding in any matter which he feels should be remedied. The Community Council stands for the trust which is placed in each individual. It bases its beliefs in an ideal—an ideal which it holds as the goal of our entire community in which we will cherish and respect our own honesty and that of our fellow student, staff, and faculty.

Together the SLA and CC strive to help us create a community in which the Campus Code prevails throughout. Do you know what the Campus Code is?

Davie Named To Admissions Job

Ronald H. Sherron, director of admission at North Carolina Wesleyan College, plans to leave Wesleyan this fall to begin work on a Ph.D. at the University of North Carolina.

Richard E. Davie is the new Director of Admissions.

Davie, a native of Durham, is a graduate of Mars Hill Junior College, the University of North Carolina, and has earned the Master of Education from U.N.C. in Guidance and Counseling. He served with the U. S. Air Force during World War II and during the Korean conflict.

He has taught High School in Durham and Orange Counties. For the past two years he was Director of Guidance for Granville County schools.

The Faculty's Vacation

A lot of busy nine-to-five, year-round workers look green-eyed at teachers' three-month vacation and murmur, not quite inaudibly, "What do they do all summer?"

At North Carolina Wesleyan College there's hardly a pause in the regular routine of most teachers and administrators. They just mumble absent-mindedly, take another vitamin pill, and continue, full-speed ahead, on whatever project demands their attention.

Miss Herta Wollsheiber has continued work on her doctoral dissertation at the University of Graz in her native Austria. She is assistant professor of physics at Wesleyan. Miss Frances Exum, Spanish instructor, has traveled and studied in Mexico this summer, gathering information and experiences to pass on to her students this fall. H. Ray Brackett, assistant professor of psychology, continued to work toward his Ph.D. at the University of Virginia.

Assistant professor of history Willard B. Gatewood, Jr., has studied at the President Truman Library for Research, in Independence, Mo., after he completed one session of summer teaching at Wesleyan. James Tedder, assistant professor of romance languages has done graduate work at the University of Wisconsin. Gerald M. Garmon, instructor of English, continued doctoral studies in English Literature at the University of Virginia. James B. Alsip, instructor in history and government, and Mrs. Alsip, instructor in French, both have M.A.'s from Texas Christian University.

Dr. Peter Gerschefski taught at the music camp in Brevard; Dr. A. W. Sharer taught in a special science institute for high school teachers at Duke. Others have traveled-as-far-as Bob Gay, assistant comptroller, did on his jaunt to Europe, and not-so-far as did math professor Hall and his family when they toured New England, the C. Edwin Harwoods on a trip to Michigan and the James C. Coxes on a visit to Ohio.

The Grays worked on in the library. They reclassified and cataloged the Black Mountain collection. Dr. William Sasser has spent the summer working with Wesleyan's ever-growing Music Library.

Brown Gives Another Gift

The Carolina Wesleyan College campus will be beautified as the result of a generous gift from a former Edgecombe County resident. President Thomas A. Collins has announced that another contribution has been made by Frank E. Brown of Richmond, Va.

His first major gift was the College Entrance, dedicated in October, 1962. After thorough study by the architects, Lashmit, Brown, and Pollock of Winston-Salem, the serpentine wall was chosen with large panel markers at each end of the campus as another gift. These will announce the college to passersby in bold lettering.

Brown, former president of Manchester Paper Products Company of Richmond, has been a friend of Carolina Wesleyan from its inception. The complete project will cost approximately $50,000.

At a recent meeting, the Board of Trustees accepted the gift from Brown for the wall. Speaking for the Board, Chairman Luther Hill of Tarboro said, "We are grateful for this generous gift by a native son. All of us will approve the beauty added to our growing campus."

Desiring no personal recognition, Frank Brown concurred with the idea of dedicating the College Entrance to the ministers of The Methodist Church who led the North Carolina Annual Conference into supporting the establishment of Carolina Wesleyan in 1956.

This Week's Laugh

Romeo: "I love you, darling. If you marry me, I can give you anything your heart desires . . . my uncle is a millionaire. Tell me what you want."

Redhead: "Introduce me to your uncle!"
