

Miss Christine Morgan Crowned Campus Sweetheart On February 13th

Miss Christine Morgan was crowned Campus Sweetheart amid the gaieties at the Mid-Winter Formal at Terrytown Mall, Saturday night, February 13. Christine, who represented South Hall, was escorted by Mr. Bob Lyons, president of the dorm. Selected as Maid of Honor was Miss Julia Barrett representing the band and escorted by band president Perry Lowry.

The formal, carried out in the Valentine motif, was held in honor of Wesleyan's Board of Trustees, Foundation directors, and Administration, faculty and staff.

Upon arrival, guests were greeted by Misses King Fun Ho, Tomako Takakaski, Betty Chang and Janice Roebuck.

The dance was begun with the grand march led by Mr. Robert "Doc" Stephens, president of the S.G.A. and Miss Louise Kepley. Participants in the grand march included the S.G.A. officers and their dates, class presidents and their dates, and all seniors. The Grand March was concluded by the shaping of the figure "W" for Wesleyan. Following the Grand March, couples danced to the music of "The Continentals" from Greenville, S. C.

The highlight of the evening came with the introduction of the twenty-two sweethearts and the coronation of the campus sweetheart. Mr. Dan Jacobs presided as Master of Ceremonies and introduced the girls and their escorts to the audience and announced their school activities as they formed the shape of a heart in the center of the dancing area. Then, Mr. Jacobs introduced Miss Grace Markham,

Chairman of the Social Commission, and Dean Allen F. Cordts, who announced and then crowned Christine Morgan Campus Sweetheart. Following the coronation the queen and her court led the next dance. Members of the 1965 Sweetheart Court and escorts were: Kay Lipscomb, Ray Robinson of the Psychology Club; Nancy Lee and Ray O'Kelly of the Young Republicans; Hilda Floyd and Guy Turner of "Aspects"; Sally Kulas and Bruce Harris of Edgecombe Dorm; Cheryl Burdette and Quinton White of M.S.M.; Diane Wood and Bill Gruver of Chapel Choir; Linda Waddell, Charles Mayes of the Delta Club; Mary Ann Edward and Jay Smith of the Wesleyan Players; Sharon Cable

$10,000 Donated To Library Fund

Recently, the Edgecombe-Nash Medical Society generously donated $10,000 to Wesleyan's endowment fund. It was a portion of the money which was raised in the polio vaccination program held by the Society last year in the Rocky Mount area.

Thousands of Edgecombe and Nash County citizens made this much appreciated donation possible when they voluntarily contributed to the fund for the three-month Sabine polio vaccination program they participated in last spring. All the doctors, nurses, and other helpers also donated generously of their time and effort to this worth-while program. The fund resulted from the surplus raised over the expenses of the vaccine, sugar cubes, and other supplies.

The Society which has been helping everyone in the area for quite some time and whose president is Dr. L. L. Robertson, voted to distribute the $12,368.94 raised, plus accumulated interests, to the educational facilities and institutions in its area. Edgecombe Memorial Library received $1,500, Braswell Memorial Library $2,000, and Wesleyan the remainder.

No restrictions of any kind were placed on the gifts. However, the Society did express a wish to the libraries that the money go for the purchase of books dealing with physical and biological sciences and to Wesleyan that the money be added to the endowment fund for scholarships to those future students who need and deserve financial aid.

New Social Probation Regulations Accepted

Recent changes have been made in the regulations concerning the use or possession of alcoholic beverages on campus. According to the new regulations, a student will be placed on social probation for a first offense rather than be expelled from school as was the original ruling. For a second offense, the student will be suspended from school for at least one semester and a notation will be made in his permanent record.

According to Robert Stephens, S.G.A. president, the old regulation of expelling a student for drinking on campus was unrealistic. The penalties for this offense were so stringent that students were very hesitant about reporting infractions of the rule. With the new rule, students should be more willing to report infractions, knowing that a first violation will not result in expulsion from school.

The new regulations concerning the possession or use of alcoholic beverages on the campus are as follows:

"In proven instances of possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages on college property or in any campus building, including possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages

in automobiles parked on college property, but not involving disorderliness or property damage due to intoxication, the following penalty may be imposed by the Student Life Association for the first occurrence of the violation during the offender's enrollment at this college:

The guilty student will be placed on Social Probation beginning the instant of pronouncement of sentence, to last for a period of not less than ten weeks for proven consumption anywhere on campus and possession in the dormitories, or for a period of not less than five weeks for possession outside the dormitories, while college is in session and the student is enrolled, not counting official vacation periods. The S.L.A. will establish a specific termination date of the Social Probation period as part of the sentence. The following condition will be in force as part of the Social Probation:

(1) The student will not be permitted to operate a motor vehicle on the campus at any time during the Social Probation period. The Dean of Students will (continued on page 4)
