

Elections for '66-'67

S. G. A. Slated for Feb.

February 25, 1966 is the deadline date for applications of eligible students seeking an S. G. A. office for the Fall Semester 1966.

These applications may be picked up at the Student Government office and must be returned with at least 5% of the students' signatures.

Cafeteria To Be Under New Supervision

Next month will bring new management to the cafeteria when Mrs. Sarah Alexander will replace Mrs. Richardis Vanderslice as Supervisor, Auxiliary Enterprises. Mrs. Vanderslice will return to the Business Office to work.

Mrs. Alexander of Rocky Mount, stated that she wished to provide the students with "home-cooked" meals. She is not a dietitian as her only qualifications for the position are that she has prepared meals for her family. She is confident about her ability to give the students "home-cooked" meals.

Mrs. Alexander hopes she will be able to do as well as Mrs. Vanderslice. It has been pointed out that most of the complaints concerning the food are made without consideration to the amount of effort that goes into the planning of meals. Menus are made up a month in advance so that students receive a great variety of food. Almost every type of vegetable is presented in the course of one week so that the various tastes may be satisfied. Selection of food is restricted by the food allowance allotted by the school.

Mrs. Alexander stated that she has no definite plans for food changes but is willing to hear suggestions from the students but preferably through the Food Services Committee headed by Della Reeves. She stated that she wished to install a gradual change in the present cafeteria system through the presentation of new entrees on the menu.

Aspects to Sponsor Contest

The staff of Aspects is sponsoring a writing contest to be held in the months of January and February. Cash prizes (amount to be announced later) will be awarded to the first place winners in the two main categories: prose and poetry. Prose may include themes, term papers, critical analysis and personal opinions on topics of interest such as the "new morality" and "Playboy philosophy."

Type-written manuscripts should be turned into Mr. Mizelle by Wednesday, February 23. The prizes will be announced in early March, and all manuscripts will be considered for publication in the spring issue of Aspects.

natures of the entire campus population. The Elections Committee is responsible for the final acceptability of the applications submitted, inasmuch as to see that the requirements have been fulfilled by the prospective candidates.

The candidates for the prime offices of the S. G. A. must meet the following requirements. They must have at least a 2.0 average at the time of their application and this average must be carried throughout their term of office. The candidates must also be carrying at least 12 hours of academic work.

If more than three applications are received for the same office, a preliminary ballot will be voted upon by the students on the following Tuesday after the application deadline, March 1.

Anyone seeking further information concerning the elections, should consult The Bishops' L. A. W. or inquire at the S. G. A. office in the Student Union Building.

Players Present Bill of One Acts

Following a year of great accomplishments in 1965, the Wesleyan Players of Dr. David Batchellor and Mr. Llewellyn Rabby, are trying to set the pace once again in 1966 with a student directed bill of one act plays to be presented Friday and Saturday night, February 25 and 26 in Garber Chapel.

In addition to attempting to score a success on campus, one of the plays will be selected to represent Wesleyan at the Carolina Dramatic Association Competition to be held in Raleigh on March 12 of this year. The Wesleyan Players represented the college in the competition for the last year with the production Passion, Poison and Petrification by G. B. Shaw. Although not taking home the first place honors, the players gained considerable success for Wesleyan by participating.

The first play, which is to be directed by Betty Bridgers, is an experimental play which departs radically from the realistic entitled "Corridors of the Soul".

Ray O'Kelly is directing the second one act, a comedy, called "The Immovable Gordons".

The third play, a farce, entitled "The End of the Beginning" is being directed by Tom Hinte.

The rehearsal and assembly for the production begins this week in Garber Chapel, where, along with the usual taste of technical production, a new stage is being constructed and it is hoped that its completion will be late next week, in time for its use in the Bill of One Acts.

It will be announced shortly where and when tickets may be acquired for the production.

Senate News

The rule requiring prime officers on campus to maintain a 2.00 average, forced several Senate members to resign. Since all averages have not been checked, the exact losses are not yet known. Blaine Adams announced his resignation as Editor of the Dissenter and President of the Junior Class. Adams will also lose his seat in the Senate. John Porter was recognized as President of the Freshman Class and Senate representative. Guy Turner will appoint individuals to fill any vacated seats in the dorm representation until a future election.

Complaints have been received in the Senate about the condition of the cafeteria after the Friday night movie. It will be the students' responsibility to leave the cafeteria in good condition after these movies. All chairs removed from cafeteria tables must be put back at the end of the movie. Failure to do so will result in a suspension of the film series.

Social Comm. Goes to Raleigh

The Social Commission, represented by B. J. Myers, Anne Van Wagoner, Jimmy West, and Jo Ann Blow, traveled to Raleigh to attend the Block Booking Conference at State College, February 3 and 4. Sixty colleges from the Southern States were represented with the purpose of allowing the school to contract talent in one area. Talent featured at the conference were such top names as The Drifters, Josh White, Jr., The Bitter End Singers, Jerry Butler and The Town Criers.

Also featured at the conference were a series of informal discussions on formulating booking contracts and the formalities of engagement of artists.

The Wesleyan Social Commission signed The Shirelles and Josh White Jr. for performances in the Spring.

Mid-Winter Formal Features Campus Sweetheart

The annual Mid-Winter Formal will be held Saturday evening, February 12 at Tarrytown Mall. The dance this year will feature the Continentals, a dance band from the North Carolina area.

Sweethearts from the organizations on campus were selected earlier in the year. They will be presented at the dance with particular emphasis on the ten finalists selected by the student body early this week. The election of the campus sweetheart was made by secret ballot on the part of the college community and will be announced at the dance.

The decorations for the dance will be handled by Madelyn's Florist in Nashville with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. J.R.J. Wadkins. Becky Chambers is chairman of the dance and will be assisted by the Social Commission.

Tickets for the dance will be $1.50. The Mid-Winter Formal is a closed dance for the college community only.

Aspects Elects New Editor

The staff of the Aspects, Wesleyan's literary magazine, recently held elections for Editor-in-Chief and Assistant Editor. Doug Groseclose was elected as the new Editor-in-Chief until the Spring semester of next year. Lorrie Alligood was elected Assistant Editor for the same period of time. While talking to the new Editor he said, "The next issue is tentatively scheduled to appear in late April or early May and will be changed quite a bit from past issues. I hope there will be more short stories, poems, art work, and fewer analytical papers. I'm not saying that these papers are bad, but I do think a magazine like Aspects should be primarily a display of the literary arts such as poetry and short stories. These papers have often been published, in the past, because of a lack of other material, we hope to alleviate this problem through the writing contest we are now holding."

Aspects is currently sponsoring a writing contest with cash prizes going to the winner in each of the two major categories, Poetry and Prose.

Anonymous Gift

An anonymous gift of $5,500 was received by Wesleyan College recently, stated Dr. Allen F. Cordts, Director of Development. The donor expressed a desire that the money be used for the construction of the new library on campus but he did not place any definite restrictions on the use of the donation. No further information is available.
