

Summer School Agenda Discovered by Reporter

A variety of new courses will be offered during the 1967 summer session, Dean Lonesome Jack NoMore failed to announce to the college community last week.

This reporter, by waiting in the Dean's outer office for seventy-two hours, was finally able to catch the Dean in and awake, and the course schedule for summer school can now be revealed.

Heading the list of courses will be Biology, which will be open only to those students who have failed the course at least twice. Much to the dismay of all prospective students in this field, Dr. Smiley (Flunk 'em while you can) Sharecropper will teach the course in his inimitable style, which includes the usual terrible jokes, and tests which never cover the material he urges students to study.

Dr. Jack Lipton will continue to amaze prospective freshmen, as well as English majors, with his ability to speak a forty word sentence, in which all the words are outside the vocabulary of his students. He also plans to laugh a great deal.

A two semester course in French will be offered, with Mr. Dyed and Dr. Tyger presiding. The course will be taught in the new audio visual technique, with students required to watch Lon Chaney in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" at least four times, and write an essay in pre-Cambrian French on Mr. Chaney's makeup devices. The final exam will consist of translating from French to English the sentences "How are You? I am fine."

Bill Music and Bill Garlow will give instruction in "How to Fish at Night in Safety and Comfort." The insurance rate for this course has not yet been tabulated, but is expected to exceed $489 per student. A related course, "How to Run Real Fast with a Bullet in Your Back" will be offered if enough interest is indicated.

Illegal Parking 40 will be offered by Tom Davis and Doug Groseclose. Chubby Rotund, campus parking ticket giver, has donated his services free of charge for this course.

Chapel Cutting 98 has been scheduled, as well as Chapel Sleeping 12. Dr. Thomas Alvis Edison Collards and Dr. Haley Comet will provide the monotones and cliches for the lab session.

In lieu of baptismal services in the fountain this summer, nightly steam baths will be held in the parking lot sauna behind the student union.

The power plant staff also plans to provide an opportunity for all students to have a little recreation by pouring out great masses of black ash and soot. Students will be urged to gambol near their cars and try to catch the particles with the cafeteria drinking glasses. A fine will be charged for all glasses not returned to their proper place in the cafeteria immediately after the recreation periods.

Billy Grubar and Lafayette Nullbrain will again be running around taking names for Mrs. Manhattan, so that she may have a little fun. It is anticipated that they will receive a presidential citation for their efforts. This game may be expanded into a full course if enough finks...ah, students, taken an interest.

Athletics during the summer will be sponsored by the MSM, who will stop all contests every seven minutes for a word from the Fellowship of Christian Athletes explaining how head-on tackling brought them closer to God. The Monogram Club will sell drinks for their usual exorbitant prices.

Evening entertainment will consist of the usual terrible movies, lectures, and occasional concerts by the Faculty Marimba Band.

Edgecombe Scene of Violence: Two Criminals Held

"There has been trouble in the men's residence halls before, but never anything as flagrant as this," Such were the words of Dean Slimo Wildeman referring to the desecration of the artificial flower arrangement on first floor Edgecombe Hall.

"We feel sure that no freshmen would even consider doing such a terrible thing to any of Mother Manhattan's property," the Dean said. "We also do not feel that the upperclassmen imprisoned in Edgecombe would take such a risk."

"It is therefore apparent that the only possible culprits came from South Hall, and we strongly suspect that Hercules and Hippo, because of their past records, are the guilty parties."

Taking this stand after objectively examining the pertinent data, and refusing to listen to any protestations of innocence, the Dean has removed the two criminals from the residence Hall and chained them in the attic of the administration building.

"We feel that it is in the best interests of the little people on campus who rarely venture out into the sunlight to lock these beasts up," Dean Wildeman stated. He believes that little damage can be done by the two in their present abode.

"Slippery Feldman will send a squad of armed men to the attic once a week to give these creatures their salt pork and hardtack. In addition, two pints of boiled water will be given them a day, supplied by the chemistry lab. We regret that Hercules nearly died from the glass in the water two days ago, but one must understand that some of the chemistry stu-

Plans are under way for a student leader sponsored riot to take place some time late in the month of May on campus. The riot, stemming from a growing feeling of student unrest, is to be centered on a joint meeting of the faculty and the Playboy advisory staff and will be for the purpose of attempting to get school let out two weeks early at the end of the spring term.

Walter Leader, student coordinator and spokesman for the powerful Student Protest of Indefinite Terms (SPIT) and instigator of the latest movement, says that his group plans the riot to let everyone know that "we (the SPITS) do have a voice in what goes on in our community."

"The length of the present term is just too long to suit our present needs and wants," he adds. "Many of our group are violently upset by the fact that we have to attend classes more days in the year than we have free."

Leader cites a number of reasons behind the proposed riot, among them: Lissie Crane wants to be home no later than the 15th of May because she has to enter the hospital the next week to have a baby and wants to spend some time with her parents; Efram Wilhelm, III, wants to have a couple of weeks off before he and Lissie get married; Lester Guzzler wants to attend the grand opening of a new Schlitz Brewery in Sheboigan; and Pete Sands feels that the weather will be suitable for the beaches to get in swing no later than the middle of May.

Present plans call for the riot to begin at St. Gruba's Cathedral shortly after mid-morning mass. The riot will proceed in an orderly fashion through the mammoth parking enclosure, past the 180 story Edgahades residence hall and will conclude somewhere in the vicinity of the faculty caucus room.

Leader insists that students should not be concerned for the safety of their cars, scooters and bikes left in the parking lot as the rioters have been instructed to keep destruction at a minimal.

Leader urges all students to make plans to join the riot and participate in THEIR school's activities. Tickets will be on sale from all members of SPIT for $3 and $5 (front line and tail-end prices) with a special now being offered on clubs for smashing automobiles and little people now selling for $18 each.

In addition, the Monogram Club will set up refreshment stands at convenient sites along the riot route and will be selling their usual commodities.

Professor Receives Outstanding Award For Latest Book

Peter O. Garbagemouth, popular and outspoken head of the college's department of Strange Arts and Drafts, has won the 1967 Filth of the Year Award for his controversial book, "The 1087 Beds of Minnie Peoples."

The book, which deals with the many perplexities of life for a normal housewife in Peoria, has won acclaim as being "one of the best literary expressions of our time." Its central character, Minnie Peoples, the illegitimate daughter of a Minneapolis pipe-fitter and a Chicago Bunnie, becomes involved in one of the most livid bed-time stories of all times. Her many adventures lead her through the garbage cans of Skid Row to the dark cellar of a college professor's laboratory and finally to a swank penthouse apartment belonging to the Baltimore Colts Inc.

What happens to this innocent victim of a destitute society makes for what Boob magazine calls "a masterpiece spokesman of the new morality."

Garbagemouth, long known and respected around campus for his potent lectures on human anatomy and his popular class, Seduction 71, says the work is no more than the ultimate expression of "my true feelings based on years of research."

He says the idea for the 27,000 page novel first came to him while he was in attendance at a tea-party sponsored by the president's wife and "things sort of took care of themselves from there."

The Filth of the Year Award carries with it, in addition to the prestige in boudoir circles, a $1,000 prize, a 2-year supply of the pill, and life membership in Dr. Swartz Pooped's "Restore your energy Without Breaking Your Normal Routine" Health Club.

Garbagemouth, who will be leaving next week for an around the world cruise with Looty Bird Sexton, author of "Sex and the Monogamist", says he owes much of the success of the book to the efforts of his wife, Petty, and adds that without her inspiration and guidance it would never have been possible.
