

SENATE ACTS ON PROCLAMATION

The student Senate, after careful consideration and debate, acted on the "Proclamation Regarding Protests and Demonstrations" last Monday, October 28. Opening remarks were made by Ed Tippett, a non-senator. Tippett labeled the Proclamation "a joke" and asked the Senate to "stand for students" by rejecting the Proclamation as it is "in poor taste, dangerously ambiguous, poorly timed, and an act of cowardice."

But within the Senate membership the mood was one of study and de-

In this respect she says, "I will never be a dangerous human being." After hearing a performance given by Miss Ambrose, how can anyone think that a being as beautiful as she could be dangerous? liberation rather than outright rejection.

The Senate found that it was divided into three separate parties, each having a different solution. One group favored an immediate rejection on the grounds of ambiguity and lack of clarity. This small group, following the advice of Tippett, also urged the Senate to issue a counter-proclamation stating student rights. A "no co-operation" resolution was suggested by this group stating that the Senate and student body would not obey the Proclamation. These moves were defeated.

A second group of senators wanted to rework and reword the Proclamation sending it into a committee for consideration. Catherine Simpson moved that a committee be formed to revise the Proclamation.

After a close vote, the motion was carried. Doug Cook then moved that a letter of rejection be sent to President Collins on the grounds that the wording of the Proclamation was unclear. This measure provoked much discussion among the senators. Under the influence of a third group of senators that wanted a list of ambiguities drawn up, Cook's motion was amended by Bruce Wright to establish a joint negotiating committee of senators and President Collins. An amendment to the amendment was offered by Doug Cook asking that until a suitable Proclamation pleasing to the President and students be issued the October 23 Proclamation be retracted. The Cook motion, Wright amendment, and Cook amendment passed by moderate majorities.

When asked what he thought the purpose of the committee should be,

Bruce Wright said, "...to meet with Dr. Collins in an attempt to clarify the meaning of his Proclamation. We hope to formulate a cleared and more acceptable administration policy concerning student activism." mold

WESLEYAN TRIES HARDER

By CRAIG GROSS

Being only one of the participants in the soccer game at Wilmington College on October 24, I can only give my side of the events which took place that afternoon. Taking an objective standpoint in a situation like this is difficult because of the amount of disappointment felt after a loss of 8-0. If this article seems to be giving excuses for the performance the soccer team gave, it is only because of my 100% interest in the team. I can safely say that all members of the team feel their efforts should not be taken lightly.

After having defeated Virginia Wesleyan by a considerable margin, the spirit of the team picked up tremendously. Our spirits had been raised to what they should have been the entire season. We had heard that Wilmington was a strong team. We therefore did not go to Wilmington with the idea that we were going to have any easy victory. We understood a hard struggle awaited us and that to get a victory would mean a double effort on everybody's part.

As the game progressed, we found ourselves completely outclassed in ability. Wilmington's strong, fast front line was able to penetrate Wesleyan's defense a number of times, enabling them to score as often as they did. The offense had as much trouble as the defense throughout the entire game. It seemed as though Wesleyan could have controlled the ball more if it had only had extra strength at the wing positions, but unfortunately, with Wilmington, being a strong all-around team, everything we attempted ended in utter chaos. No matter how hard we tried to play good ball, Wilmington's complete domination of the game kept us from using any type of offensive strategy.

The score at the end of the first half was 4-0.

Wilmington again completely controlled the ball in the second half, scoring four more points. During this half, Brian Twiddy broke his foot. His injury as well as our 8-0 defeat dampened our spirits. I do think, however, that on the whole, the soccer team had shown a determination to overcome its inexperience and to give 100% effort against any opponent.

SPORTS CAR CLUB SANCTIONED

The efforts of several car enthusiasts on this campus culminated this week in the approval of a constitution for the NCW Sports Car Club.

Many Wesleyan students had their first experience with cars in a competitive sport during the gymkana and the rally which were both held last year. As interest increased, it was decided that a club should be formed in order that more events of the type could be held.

Now that the club has been sanctioned, a membership drive has been initiated. Interest in the sport is the only requirement for membership.

The club plans to hold a series of rallies, cross country runs, at set speeds, which might end in a championship or final rally which will take the participants to a weekend at the beach. Plans for the future include possible affiliation with the state association of sports car clubs.

The first rally of the '68-'69 season will be held on Sunday, Nov. 17.
