"Portrait of a Madonna," which had a New York City apartment setting. Both Carolyn Estes and Sam Morris performed quite convincingly. As Miss Collins, Miss Estes' facial expressions and appearance contributed most to her presentation and indicated her talent. As the porter, Mr. Morris' voice and mannerisms proved most effective in his performance. Robin Rawlings, as the elevator boy, performed very well, as did John Wilson in his portrayal of Mr. Abrams. Freshmen David Forrest and Frances Spranzy showed promise for future appearances.

"An Evening of Love" terminated with the presentation of "Overruled," directed by Bryan Stearns and set in an English Hotel Lobby of 1910. Wrenn Phillips as Mr. Juno charmed the audience in his convincing role. Both his British-sounding accent and his seemingly natural mannerisms demonstrated his excellent stage proficiency. Portraying Mrs. Juno, Helen Steiner showed great promise in her cameo appearance on stage. Both Ed Smith and Nancy Hannon, playing the roles of Mr. and Mrs. Lunn, performed quite well.

"An Evening of Love" stimulated good audience response and it is hoped that these demonstrations of students versatility on stage will continue to be an annual affair.

"The accent of today may be on our youth, but the stress is on the parents."

ABOVE: Robin Rawlings as the elevator boy, Caroline Estes as Lucretia Collins, and Sam Morris as the janitor in Williams' "Portrait of a Madonna."

Wish I'd Said THAT

Don't worry if you get kicked from the rear as it simply means you are out in front.—Joe Mann, The Lebanon (Mo.) Rustic Republican.

You sometimes hear politicians refer to the have's and have-not's. What they overlook is that these categories often parallel the did's and did-not's.—James H. Russell, The Belton (Tex.) Journal.
